SPECTRUM '87

TO MY DEAREST SWEETHEART, TONY THOMPSON
THERE IS SO MUCH I WOULD LIKE TO TELL YOU BUT, I HAVE SO LITTLE WAYS TO EXPLAIN MYSELF.
I KNOW THAT WE'VE BEEN THROUGH ALOT TOGETHER
AND I KNOW SOMETIMES IT SEEMS SO HARD TO BELIEVE WHAT I TELL YOU BUT, THE POINT I'M TRYING TO GET ACROSS TO YOU IS: I LOVE YOU.

I HOPE IN THE FUTURE WE NEVER PART EACH OTHER BECAUSE, YOU NEED ME AND I NEED YOU.
IT SEEMS AS IF, WERE MARRIED OR SOMETHING
I GUESS BECAUSE, THE WAY WE TREAT EACH OTHER.
I HOPE ONE DAY BOTH OF OUR WISHES WILL COME
TRUE, WE HAVE SHARED ALOT TOGETHER A BABY,
EACH OTHER PROBLEMS WEATHER IT WAS GOOD OR BAD. WE EVEN HAVE PROBLEMS TRUSTING EACH OTHER BUT, AS TIME GOES ON OUR TRUST WILL GROW STRONGER. WELL, I'M ENDING MY LITTLE LETTER BUT, NEVER MY LOVE FOR YOU, AND DON'T EVER FORGET IT.

I LOVE YOU

NORTHVIEW HIGH SCHOOL
DOTHAN, ALABAMA 36303

It is pride! Pride, not only of the athletic, academic, and artistic accomplishments, but also pride in what we are, pride in all that we do, and how we do it that makes us Northview. Pride in those that taught us to do, and pride in what we have created that places Northview High School above the norm. It is also the excitement, the competition, and the rewards of our efforts. It is the knowledge, authority, and wisdom of our learning. It is the panic, the rehearsals, the talent, and finally, the success of our performances. It is the organization, the friendships, and the togetherness of our spirit. It is also the old, the seniors, and the new, the freshmen. All comprise The Northview Experience!

From the students to the faculty, each and every part of the Northview experience is represented by its own unique symbol. Thus, the 1987 Spectrum presents to you a collection of memories . . .

Symbols of the Northview Experience.

In Dedication

Every year the SPECTRUM staff faces a difficult decision: whom to dedicate the yearbook to! This year, we feel that we have made the perfect choice. In the past, the yearbook has been dedicated to a teacher or staff member who exemplified all of the qualities that help to make the Northview experience one to remember. This year, we decided to dedicate it to two truly deserving members of our family here at Northview.

These two ladies can always be identified by their smiling faces, their Cougar Spirit, and their willingness to help anyone, student or teacher.

They do so much for Northview that it is hard to put into words all the appreciation that we feel for them. It is with great pride that we dedicate the 1987 edition of the SPECTRUM to Martha Burnham and Jean Hollis, two of the most wonderful and caring people to ever grace our school. We only hope that this small act of appreciation will express all the admiration, respect, and love that we will always have for you. Thank you, Mrs. Burnham and Mrs. Hollis. We love you!

Martha Burnham is a very dedicated member of the Northview staff. She is a constant help to students and faculty. She received a bachelor of science degree from Auburn University and enjoys reading and watching baseball in her spare time. She has two children, Bonnie and David. Thinking back on her activities at Headland High School, she remembers that she was salutatorian of her senior class, an active member of the band and the Beta Club, and was elected Miss Headland High School.

Not only does she perform the responsibilities of librarian at N.H.S., but she has consistently spent time in assisting students with research as well as serving the faculty with endless patience. No greater friend could be found.

Jean Hollis is also a favorite among the staff and students of Northview. She is always busy but can always take time out to help someone in need or despair. She received her bachelor's, master's, and education specialist degree from the University of Alabama. Ms. Hollis also enjoys reading and all water sports as well as supporting her Crimson Tide. She has two children, Kelly and Allison.

Very active in high school, she was drum majorette, senior sweetheart, class beauty, and was an honor graduate. As she works with students in the daily routine of the library, we know that a visit to Ms. Hollis will bring a smile to a glum face and hope to an exasperated English student. For this loving and helpful spirit, we are grateful.

STUDENT LIFE

All over Dothan, students were sick. Fevers, headaches, and stomach pains were in evidence. It was the first day of school and they had

THE 8:00 BLUES

On the morning of September second, as hundreds of alarm clocks began ringing, Northview High students were reminded of a terrible tragedy. As many of the students rolled over, with heads buried under their pillows, they realized that there was no way around it: school was in session!

At Northview, most things never change. There was a traditional first-day assembly, and students sat in homeroom for a seemingly endless amount of time. Students were bombarded with a myriad of various forms—all of which had to be brought back signed "as soon as possible."

As usual, the freshmen were given a truly "warm" welcome by the upperclassmen. Many open-mouthed looks of awe and amazement could be seen on the faces of the "baby cougars" as they tried in vain to navigate the hallowed halls of Northview.

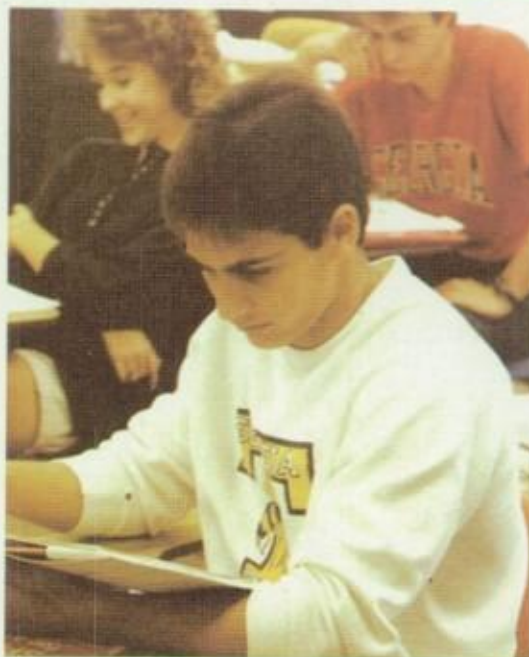

As usual, school opened with a little bit of everything: excitement, expectation, boredom, relief, dread, and maybe just a bit of sadness. For the seniors, it was the beginning of the end, and for the underclassmen, just another year on their way to the top!

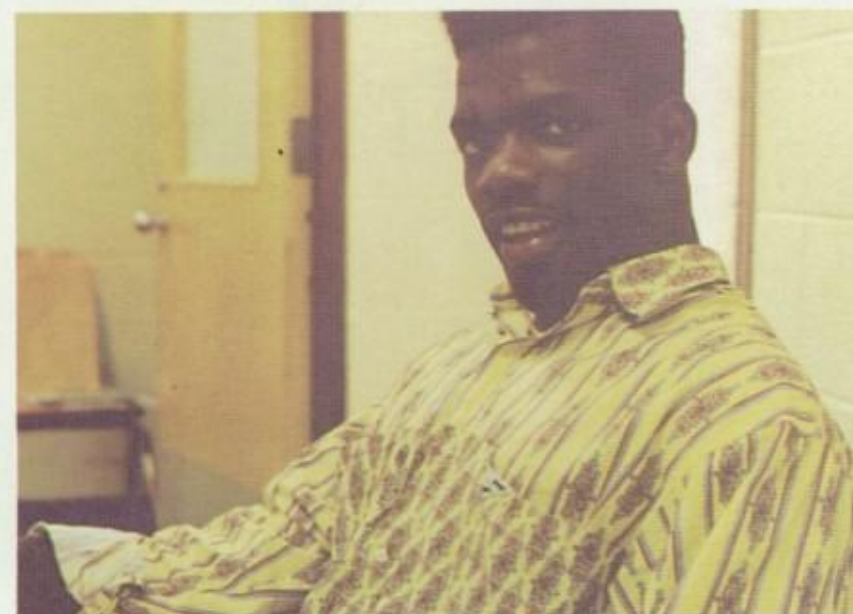

Before he takes Senora Sylvia Cooke's Spanish test, Chris Cazenave quickly glances over his notes in preparation for another challenging test.

Teaching a course on "Having Fun in History" is Ashley Mills' lifetime goal.

Showing his "laid-back" style, Corey Whitehurst pauses on his way to fifth period class.

Taking time out from schoolwork, Elizabeth Wheat and Beth Stephenson look forward to their weekend trip to the beach.

Scott Owens grows pensive as he contemplates the age old question, "To Eat or Not to Eat?"

As she walks to her car, Michelle Wilkinson looks relieved at the end of a long school day.

Filing guidance office material during second period isn't Julia Beamon's favorite thing to do on Monday morning.

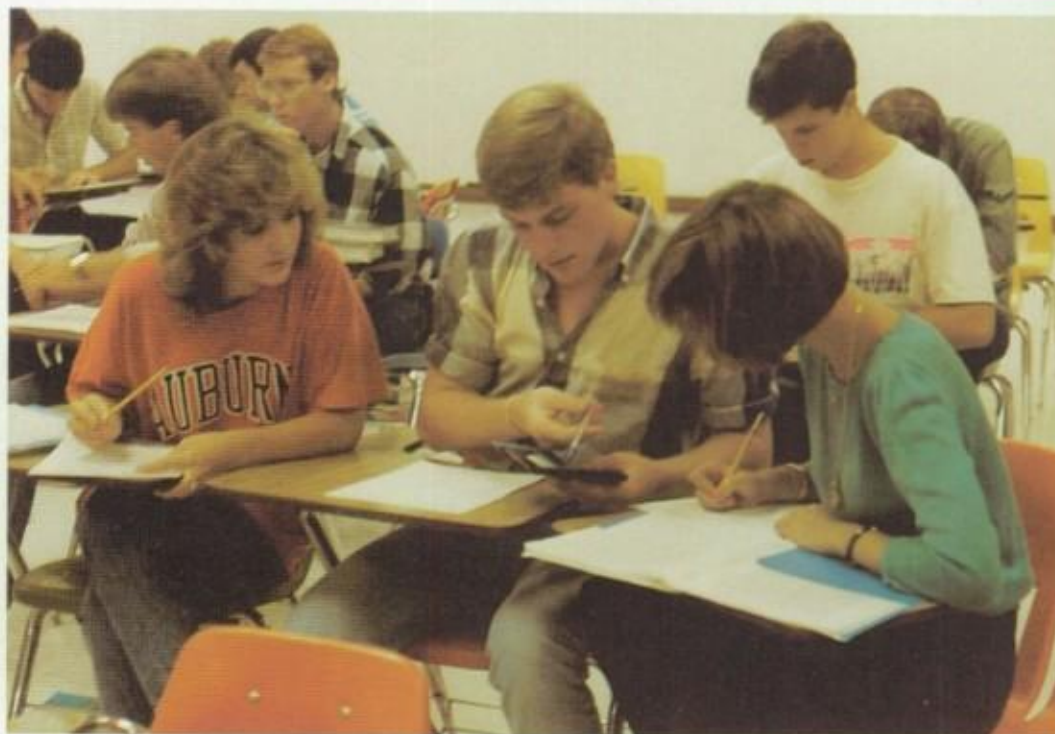

As Krista Stephenson warns her that Coach Hicks is walking by, Stacey Gashaw tries in vain to swallow her gum.

Kelvin Thomas seeks fame as he poses for a Spectrum photographer.

Mike Henry pauses in his studies to show off his stylish shirt.

Amid the hustle and bustle of school, there is always time for friendship, and Kim Oakes and Meredith Pearson always take advantage of it.

It's just another day at school for seniors Beverly Baumann, John Mitchell, and Carmen Strickland. They have waited three years to be seniors, and now they have found out that it's not all fun and games.

STUDENT LIFE STUDENT LIFE

Lockers slammed, halls filled with students, and bells tried to ring, meaning only one thing,

School Had Begun.

There was excitement on some faces, fear on younger ones, and pure boredom on others.

Teachers began the task of learning names and faces. New students wandered the halls aimlessly. The guidance counselors were busy on the computer changing schedules and registering new students. Students were gathered in the office searching for the right locker combinations as the librarians directed lost students to classes.

Soon it was time for the first pep rally with the cheerleaders and band bursting forth with spirit. After a few words from Mr. Smith, new students learned not "to meet him there, but to beat him there." Following comments from Coach Parrish and the alma mater, the student body of Northview ended the first week of the 1987 school year.

Emil Tolbert, a talented but unknown artist, enters his last year of art class with a positive attitude.

Attempting to avoid Ruthless Hooks, Julia Holman flashes her Cliff Notes as she dashes through the locker area.

Looking proud of himself, Paul Peterson takes time out to relax after making it to school early.

After school on a sunny fall day in your junior year of high school, there are many things to be done. Getting the last rays of summer, going to Wiregrass Commons, or talking to friends are a few. Toby Page just cannot decide which one he wants to do.

New and old students alike are faced with a puzzlement everyday. They look up and wonder, "Why can't we use the student lounge?"

LIFESTUDENTLIFESTUDEN

Juniors always have a smile available. Michelle Bevis and Kitty Cobb give evidence of this statement.

Northview students are faced with a myriad of decisions every day, but only Sam Tucker knows what mysteries he is contemplating as he walks to class.

Miss Northview
Cindy Merrill

Cindy Merrill was elected the honor of Miss Northview High School by members of the student body. Cindy represents the Cougars as captain of the varsity cheerleaders. She exudes an attitude of fond attachment for this school. When not busy cheering for the Cougars, Cindy enjoys horseback riding, sailing, and also trying her hand with interior design. As an honor student and class leader, Cindy has always set high standards and expectations for her work. She was rewarded for her work when she was selected as a member of the Society of Distinguished American High School Students and Who's Who Among American High School Students.

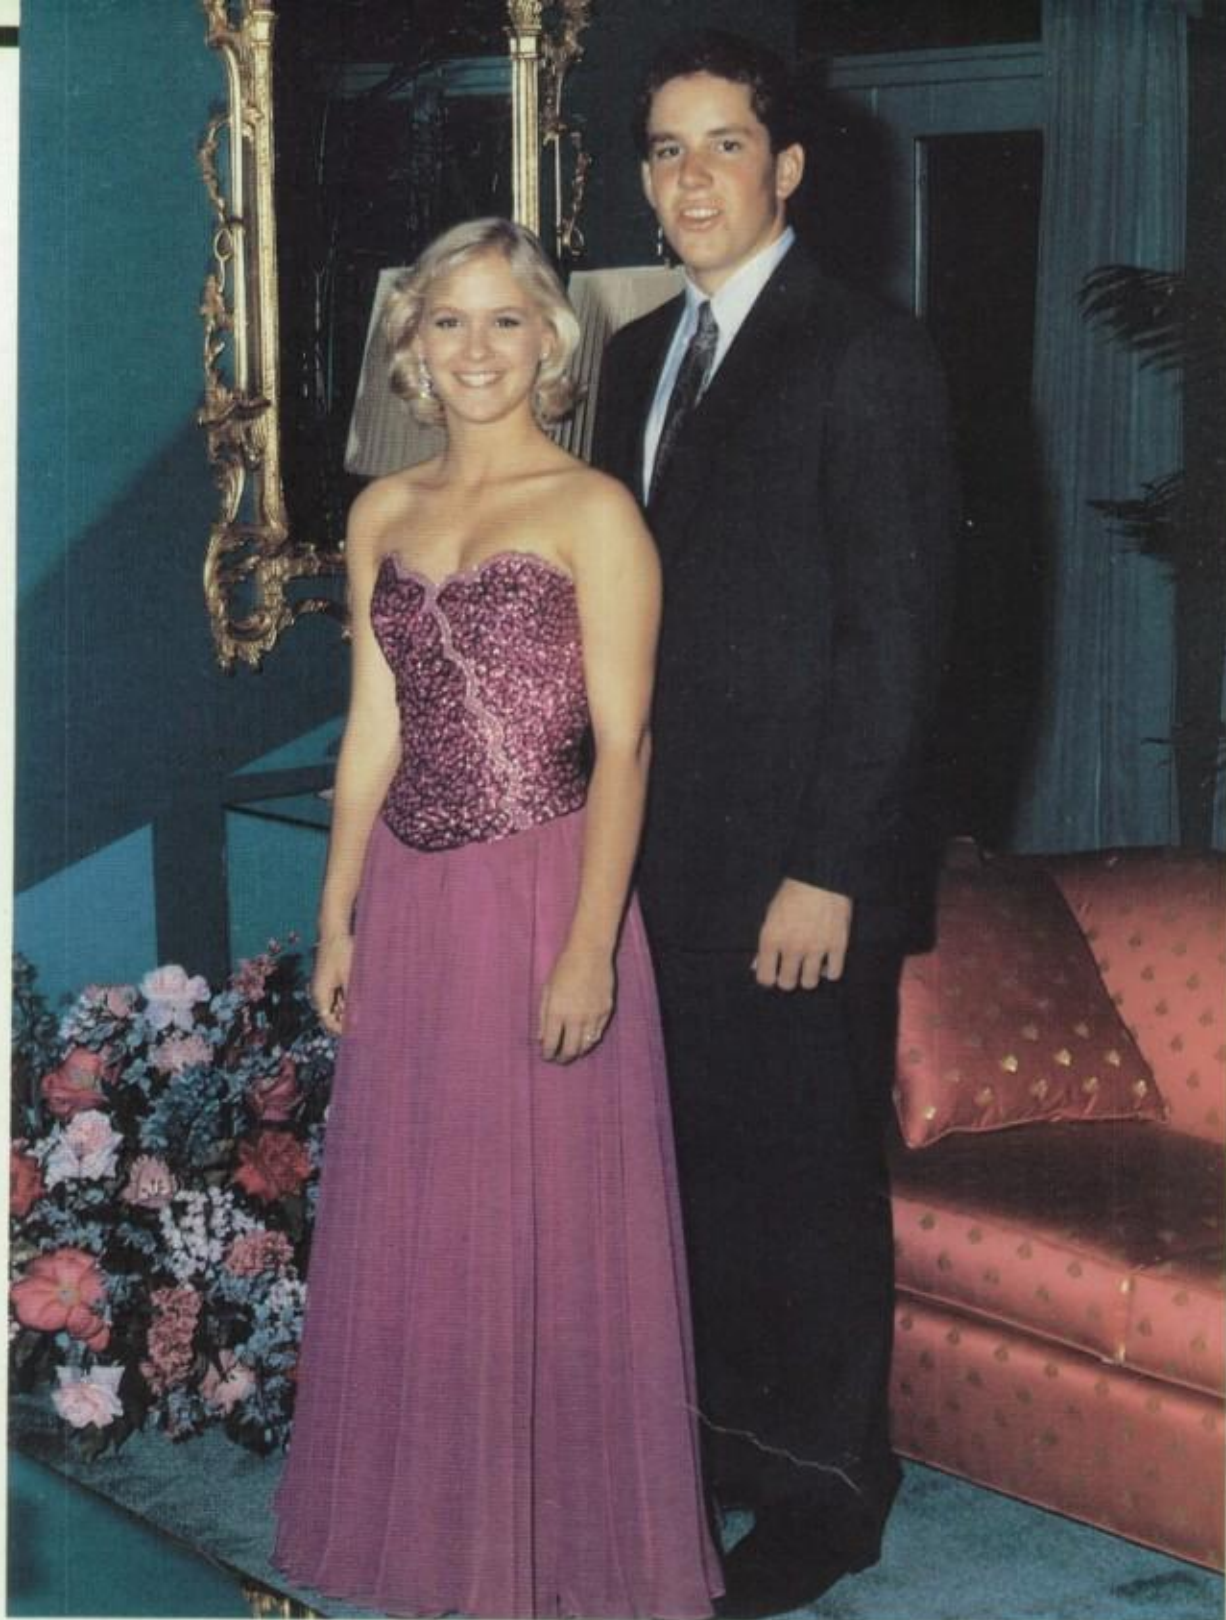

An active member of First Presbyterian, Cindy is also a member of Interact, French Club, and Junior Optimist. Cindy has earned the love and respect of her peers for being a well-rounded student.

Mr. Northview
Charles Buntin

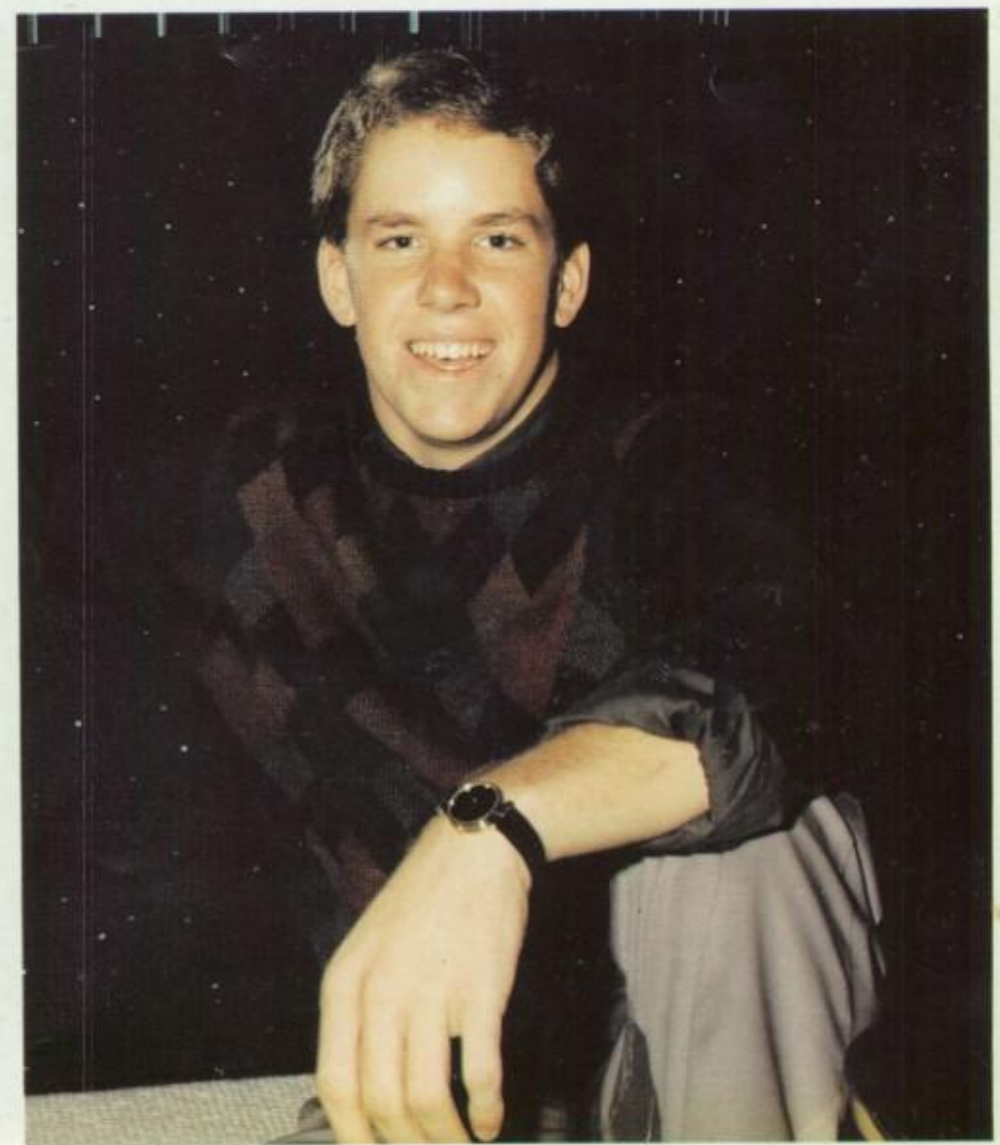

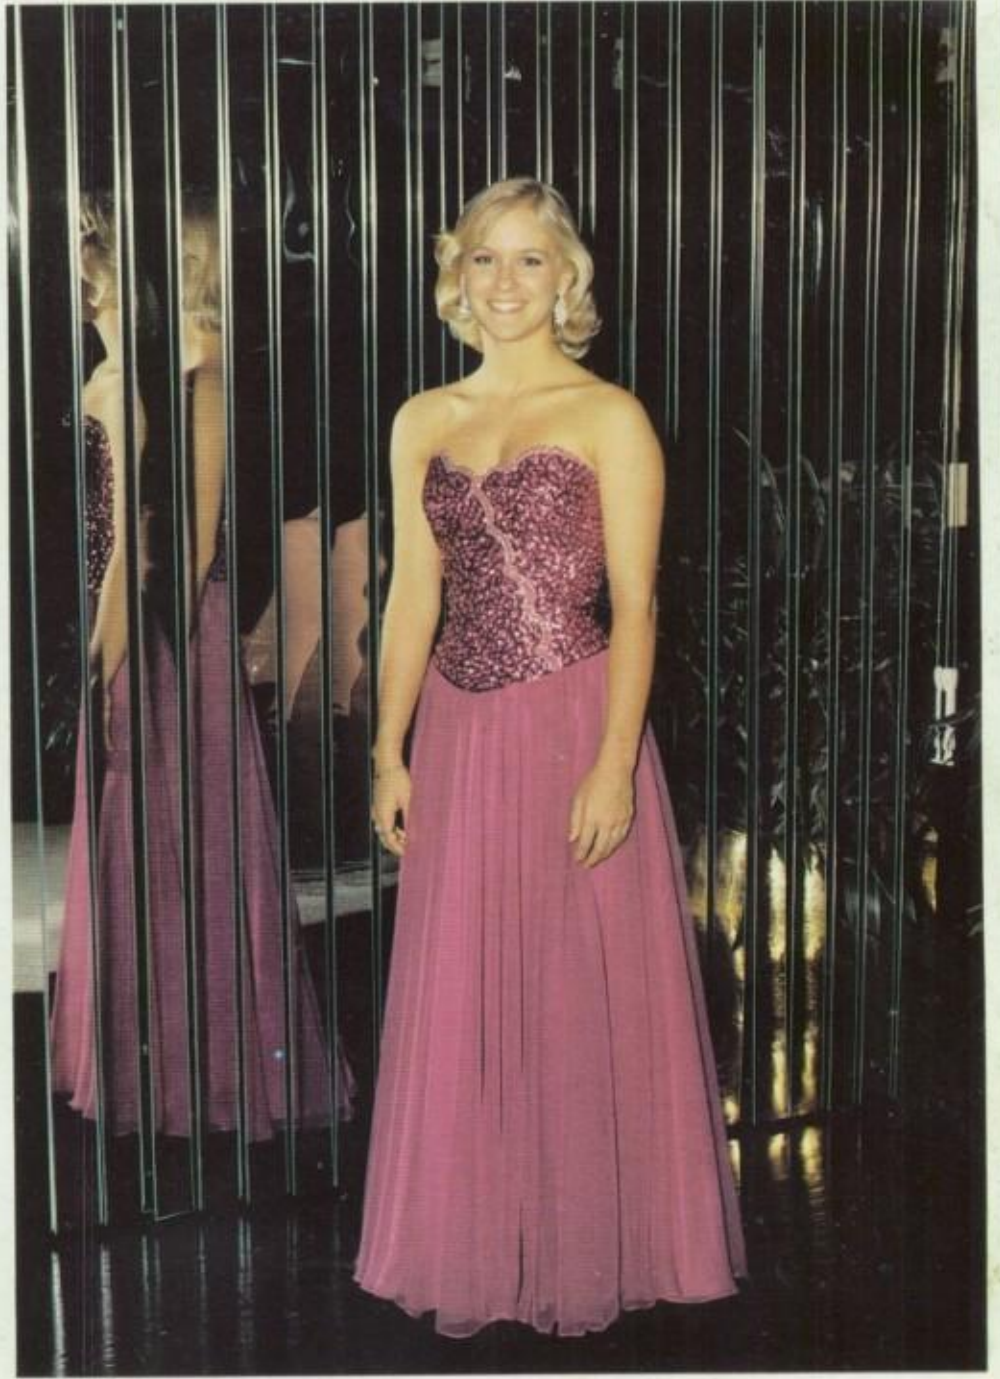

Charles Buntin, Mr. Northview High School, was elected along with Cindy Merrill to represent the student body. The hazel eyed senior displays a great deal of leadership as a member of the Northview Student Council, the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, and also as president of Interact.

Charles is an active member of his youth group at First United Methodist Church. Interests of Charles include water skiing, hunting, golfing, and basketball. Charles is an honor student and has been rewarded with such honors as Who's Who Among American High School Students and the Society of Distinguished American High School Students.

Charles has an uncanny ability to entertain his peers in almost any situation. He has endeared himself to his classmates in a variety of ways which will be long remembered.

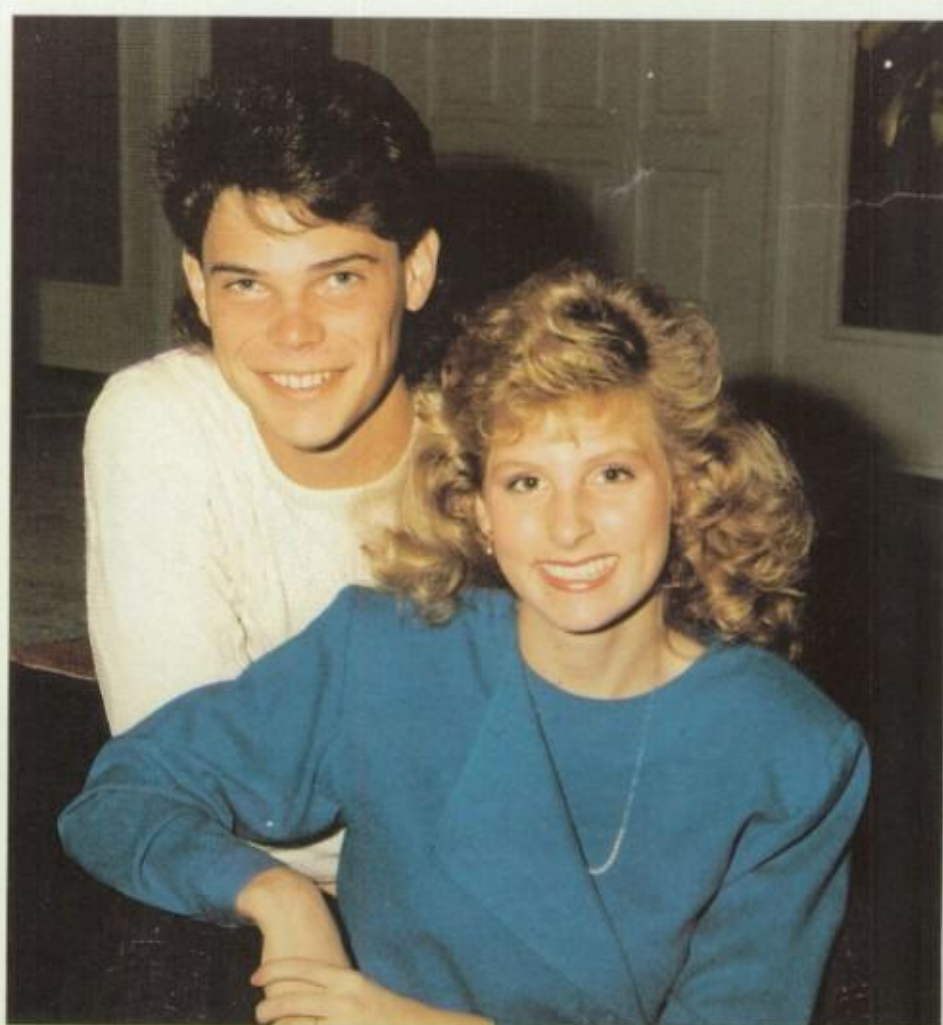

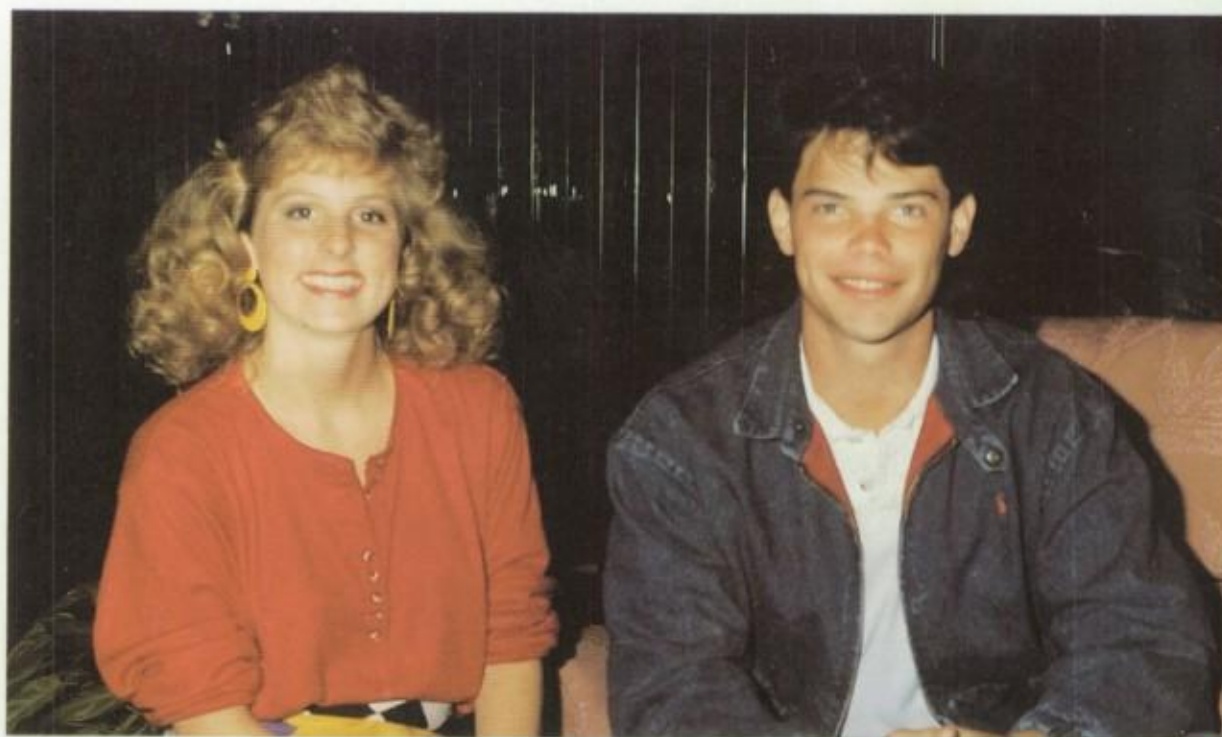

Mr. and Miss Northview

Mr. and Miss N.H.S. Runners-up

Amy West, the vivacious blonde cheerleader, is a favorite among all students at N.H.S. An active member of the student body, she is in Interact and the Junior Optimist. She is a varsity cheerleader, maid of honor of the 1987 homecoming court, and has been a Spectrum beauty. She enjoys foreign travel, gymnastics, and serving on the Gayfer's teen board. She is a vibrant, sparkling member of the senior class and will be missed next year. She attends First Presbyterian Church where she is active with the youth group.

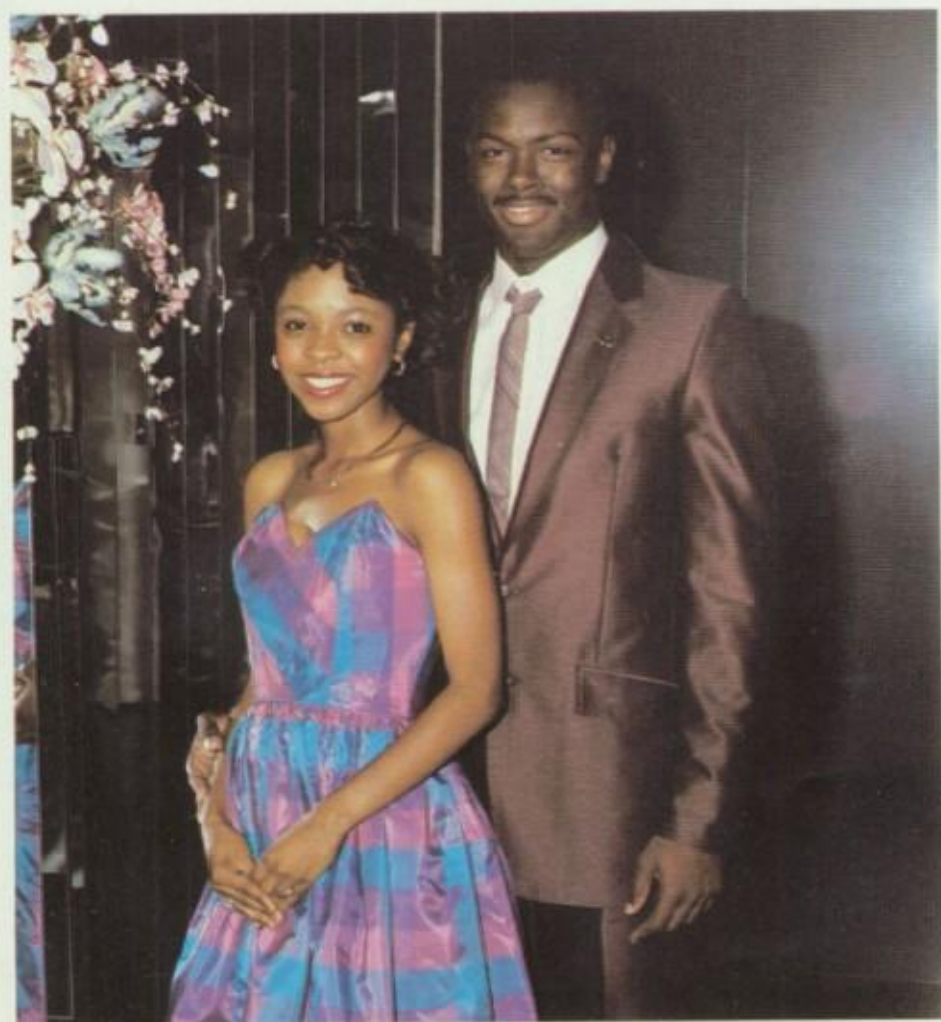

Vince Edge is a six foot senior with blue eyes and brown hair. He attends First Methodist Church and enjoys outdoor hobbies which include hunting, fishing, and playing golf. He was selected as Most Attractive in the Senior Who's Who. A member of the National Honor Society, he was chosen as a member of the Society of Distinguished American High School Students and Who's Who Among American High School Students. With a winning smile and charming good looks, he tends to captivate the attentions of the female portion of the student body.

It is easy to see why Sonja Whitters was chosen as a runner-up for Miss N.H.S. Sonja has added a lot of spirit to Northview football games as a varsity cheerleader in addition to being a homecoming attendant for three years and queen her senior year. This senior also represents the academic as well as the business side of Northview as a member of Who's Who Among American High School Students, F.B.L.A., and Gayfer's Teen Board. She is an active member of the First Missionary Baptist Church as well as the Eureka and Debutante Clubs. Meeting people and traveling are Sonja's favorite hobbies.

Derrick Flowers is the tall, friendly guy who works in the office during fourth period and can be seen on various fields of sport. An all around good athlete, Derrick is an outstanding football and basketball player for the Northview High School Cougars. At six feet two inches tall, this young man makes a great impression on his friends and those who come in contact with this mild mannered soul. Although sports are his main interests, he also enjoys singing and music. He is a member of the First Missionary Baptist Church.

Good Citizenship Students

Good citizenship is a highly recognized award that is chosen by the faculty of Northview and is presented to an outstanding individual with good citizenship qualities.

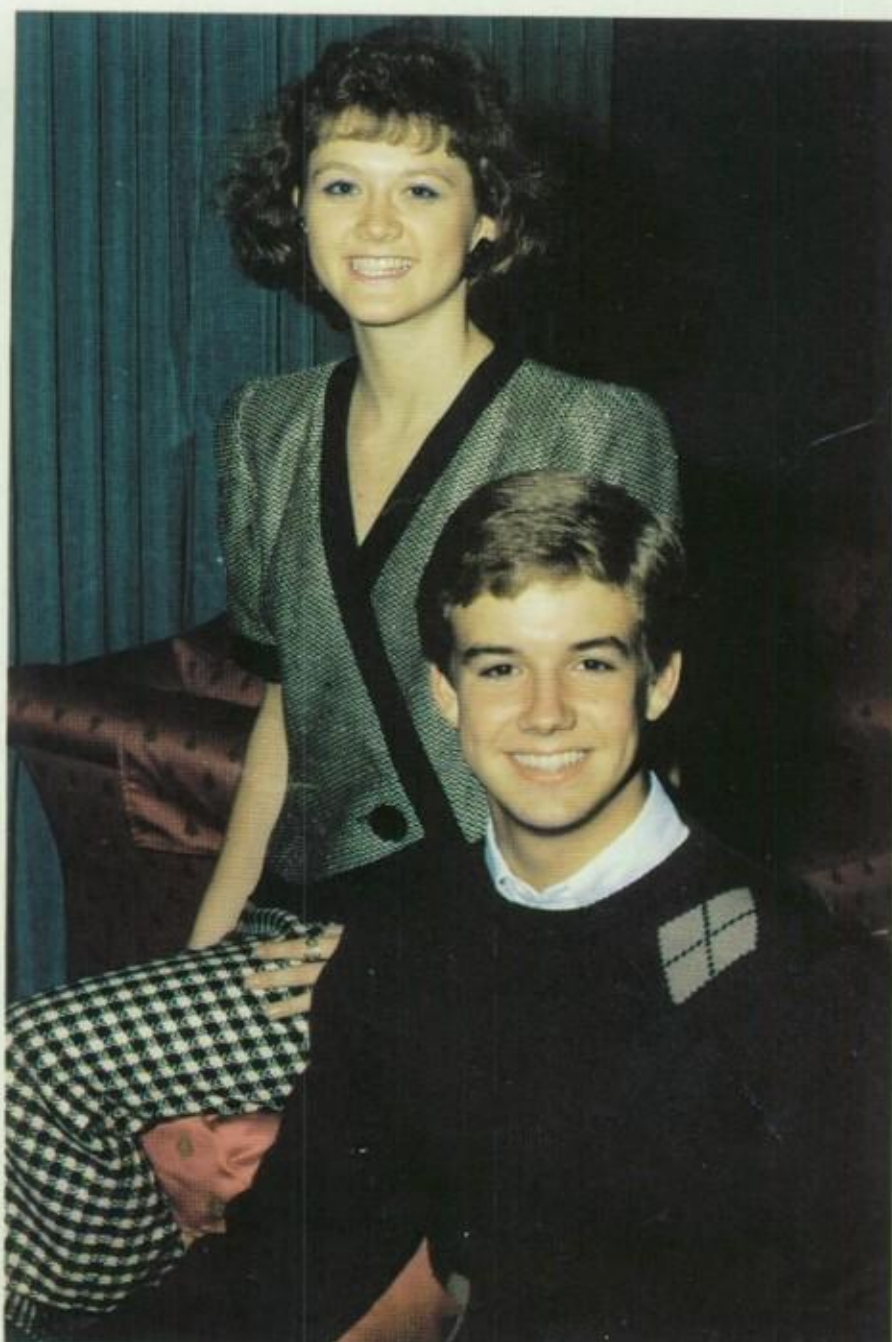

CiCi Cotton was chosen as good citizenship girl for the 1987 school year. As co-captain of the varsity cheerleaders, CiCi definitely knows how to raise school spirit. The vivacious senior also serves as secretary of Junior Civitans and is vice president of Gayfer's Teen Board.

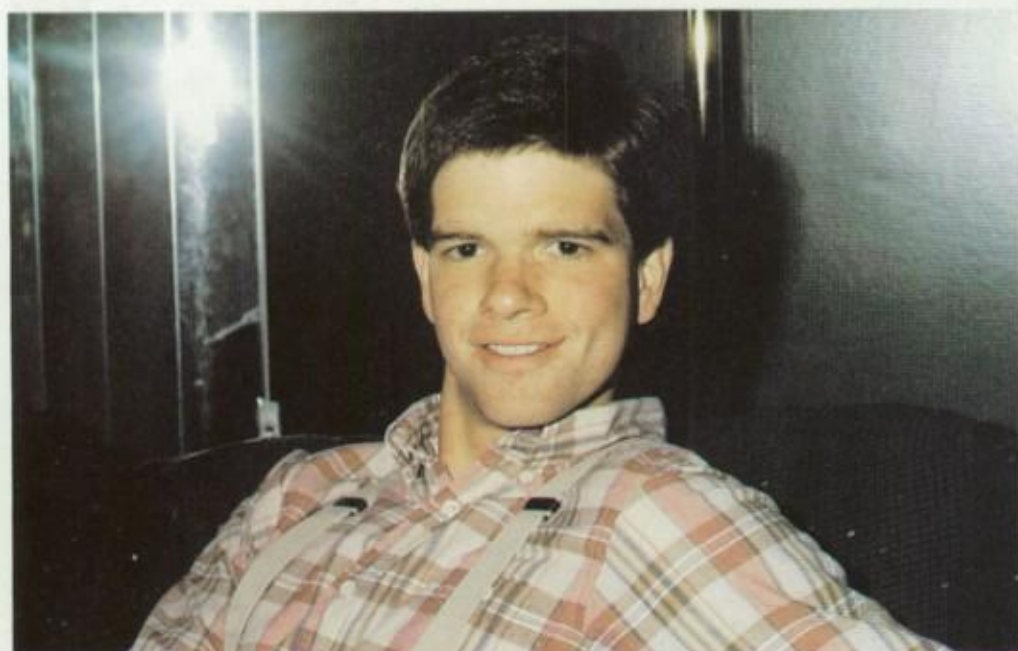

CiCi leadership abilities are obvious in all of her activities. Teen of the Month, Girls' State delegate, and 1986 Congressional scholar are just a few of CiCi's honors. She is also a member of the National Honor Society, Fellowship of Christian Athletes, and Junior Optimist. With what is left of CiCi's free time, she enjoys cheering for the Cougars and watching college and pro-football.

Ben Earnest was chosen as the Good Citizenship Boy, and the Northview faculty are saluted for their admirable choice. This attractive senior is well noted for his polite manners and behavior. As president of Junior Optimist and treasurer of Junior Civitans, Ben is well-respected for his leadership ability.

Spanish club and F.B.L.A. are other clubs that Ben takes an active interest in. He is an Eagle Scout and was selected as a member of Who's Who Among American High School Students. In his spare time, Ben enjoys racquetball and photography.

Northview is lucky to have such fine and outstanding students as Good Citizenship Boy and Girl.

Good Citizenship Boy and Girl Runners-up

Because of her outstanding attitude towards school life, Stacey Whitestone was chosen as Good Citizenship Girl runner-up. This senior enjoys traveling, sailing, and scuba diving. Because of her leadership and interests in politics, Stacey was chosen as Youth Governor of Alabama. Involved in the youth group at the Church of the Nativity, she is also active with the Young Republicans. Her junior year she received the honorary student council Sweat and Pride award. We look forward to seeing Stacey as perhaps the second woman governor of Alabama.

Carlisle Morris was runner-up to Good Citizenship Boy. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Morris, Jr., he is an active member of the First Assembly of God. He is a member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, and he takes an active part in the Northview High School Key Club. He is a long-distance runner and is an award-winning member of the Northview High School track and field team. The courteous and friendly senior is a winner among the Northview faculty and staff.

Newspapers, shades, silence. Everyone wondered Where Has All the Spirit Gone? It all started last year at pep rallies. Your behavior caused it. Silence at other pep rallies increased it.

On the first day of school, the faculty ruled that underclassmen would have to sit in homeroom at all assemblies.

Not being the kind of class to take things lying down, the juniors decided to take action and protest. At the first pep rally, students filed into the gym anxious to see all the sights and hear all the sounds that normally make a good pep rally. What they got was stone-cold silence from the juniors. Not one word.

The next week, the juniors were back with signs which read, YELL, SPIRIT, and NO HOMEROOM. Also in evidence were newspapers and sunglasses. However, there was no giving up on the part of the juniors. They sat there, silent and unmoving, through the rest of the pep rallies and the rest of the year.

Varsity cheerleader Tina Kizziah keeps her eyes open for flying paper. It's hard to tell what the juniors will do next!
Gina Grant watches as Bruner Stephenson, Vince Edge, Charles Buntin, Michael Dees, and Chuck Jackson clown during a pep rally.

Flag corps' members Carrie Knight and Autumn Baggott cheer the Cougars on.
Many interesting conversations take place at pep rallies as Tanya Oliver, Beth Stephenson, Jennifer Campbell, and Julie Johnston discuss Tanya's hairstyle.

SPIRIT WAS FOUND

by the lowly sophomores and freshmen during this year's pep rallies due to true love for the Cougars and due to the huge size of their classes. But, as novices would prove, get it (spirit) together, and fun, real fun, could be had even while sitting in homeroom sections. With the creation of the spirit stick, which was awarded to the class who demonstrated the most spirit during the pep rallies, the sophomores and freshman battled each week to see which class would win. Judges for the weekly competition were Ms. Hollis, Mrs. Burnham, and Mrs. Glanton. Although it may have been difficult to decide each week between the sophomores and freshmen, there was at least one class who they didn't have to worry about winning.

The cheerleaders, majorettes, band, and flag corps members gave great performances each week to the delight of alumni, parents, and students. Certainly, Northview could be proud of the spirit of its organizations.

With their protest, the juniors take us back to the Hippie Days.

Displaying their junior spirit at a pep rally are Lorrie Thomas, Janel Heinsen, Jenny Hogan, Julie Johnson, and Jennifer Hearn.

Goldie tries to decide what to do next as she leads the spirited freshmen and sophomores.

During Tequila, Flag Corps members Kim Davis and Julie Mullins overflow with talent.

O'Shawn Lagree and Tony Thompson contemplate their upcoming time in the spotlight in the game that night.

Coach Randy Ragsdale disapproves of the junior's paper and shades protest.

All the hard hours of work that it takes to be a majorette seem to pay off for Natalie McCurdy, Jamie Renfro, Kris Watson, Gina McKnight, and Gina Tuten.

Unsure of how to react to their first pep rally at Northview, freshmen Valerie Whaley and Wendy Wilkinson look on apprehensively.

Seniors always know what to do at pep rallies, and the great class of '87 is no exception. Flashing excited glances are Laura Peters, Shay Harville, Chase Abston, and Anna Akerman.

By the third or fourth pep rally, the freshmen seem to know what's going on, and they start to get into the swing of things.

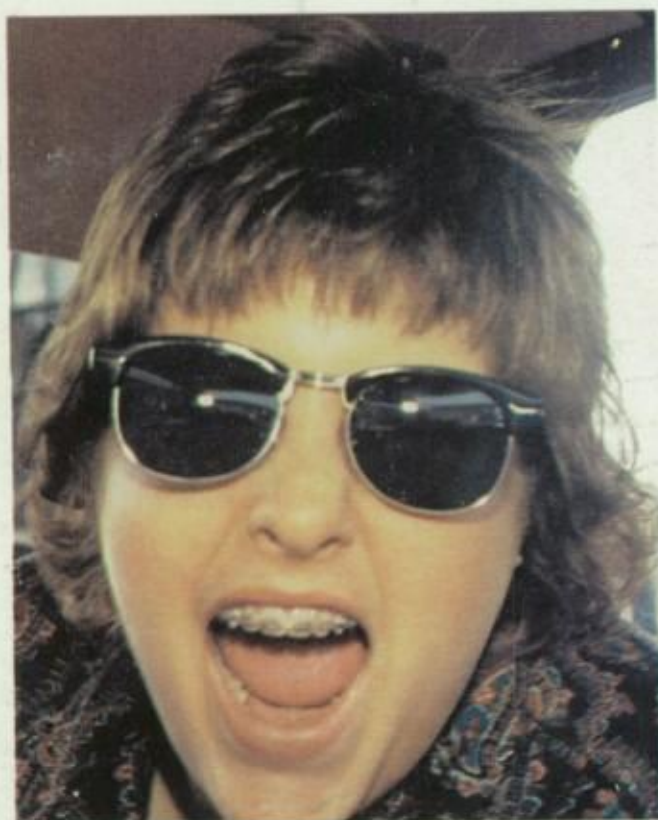

After playing and winning a hard game of football, Tim Reynolds, O' Shawn Lagree, and Reggie Pierson tell us which team is number one!

Juniors show their discontentment about sitting in homeroom sections in many ways. Wearing shades to all pep rallies was just one of them.

On the days of football games, students waited anxiously until teachers announced it was time for the pep rally. Spirits rose as the student body filed into the gym to view an exciting routine by the cheerleaders. Shouts filled the air as the students greeted Coach Parrish and cheered on the football team. Afterwards, Mr. Smith entered and delivered a lively poem with his usual eloquence. Maroon and gold filled the gym, representing the feeling that Northview students have for their school. The event ended as the band played the Alma Mater, leaving everyone with a feeling of nostalgia and expectations of a victorious game.

Alana Andrews and Amy Davis continue their support with the knowledge that in our hearts, Northview is Number One!

Dressed in camouflage, cheerleaders Kelli Matthews, Sonja Whithers, and CiCi Cotton join together to sing the Alma Mater.

Mr. James Smith enters the gym on a mini-tank during the battle cry pep rally and belies the school with another of his creative poems.

The spirit-filled Chrisy Edgar maintains her pep after a Friday afternoon rally as she is ready to chomp the opposing team.

Reginald Pierson and Michael Henry take in the sights and sounds of the pep rally before the team leaves to go take a break before the game.

Backed with spirited banners, Brad Mc Graw, T. J. Gilbert, and Heath Hillman view the raging Cougar spirit during a rally.

SYMBOLS OF CELEBRATION

In order to make homecoming successful, there are many jobs that are behind the scenes that must be done. This year was no different. Many hours of hard work and preparation went into the making of homecoming this year, and everyone agreed that it was well worth the effort.

The perspective candidates for queen were nominated by the football team and later voted on by the student body. This year the beautiful Sonja Whithers was chosen as queen with Amy West as the Maid of Honor.

Homeroom classes agonized over the question of whom to nominate for their attendants, and the following week, attendants for each class were selected.

Chosen by the class of '87 to represent them were Carmen Strickland and Sonja Baxter. The juniors selected were Dena Metcalf and Sharon Baxter. Sophomore attendants Jeina Rolan and Paula Knight represented their class with pride. Last but not least were the stylish freshmen who picked Wendy Pulliam, and Kim McLeod as their representatives.

After attendants were chosen, banners painted, and doors decorated, all that was left to do was to decorate Westgate for the dance. Student council members went early Friday morning to insure that the gym looked as great as it possibly could.

That night, the Cougars treated us to an exciting homecoming victory which did much to elevate everyone's spirits at the dance. Another homecoming came to an end, but it could never have happened without the many people who helped to PUT IT TOGETHER!

Mr. Whithers proudly escorts his daughter Sonja Whithers during halftime activities at Rip Hewes Stadium.

Providing superior entertainment for the homecoming pep rally is the award-winning N.H.S. stage band.

Keefer Cotton stands smartly at attention as the homecoming court is introduced at the beginning of the day's activities.

Senior girls Sherry Wood, Chrisy Edgar, and Carol Clemmons remember former homecomings as they make the best of their last one.

Door decorations carried out the themes of the week as we tried to Make Tracks Over Tigers.

Sharla Beaty took charge of the nametag preparations for the homecoming dance held at Westgate Park.

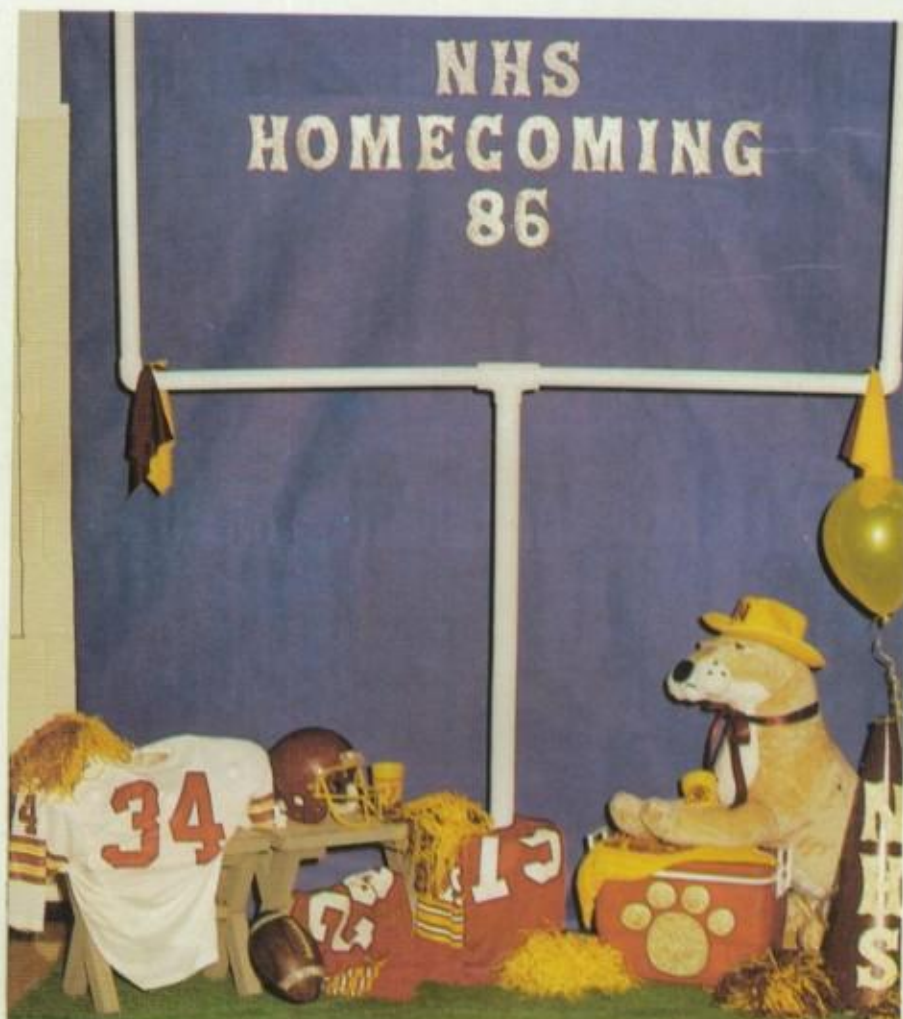

Code of Conduct rules still did not dampen the spirits of a happy homecoming for N.H.S. students.

The decorating committee of Robin Dunseth, Bill Holland, and Missy Wright took an unknowing design of this year's cover to the dance.

Jennifer Jones tried to get her hands into all of the activities of the week as she helps decorate the gym.

Eat Tiger Meat! was the theme of this year's spirited homecoming activities.

Symbols of the game and the questionable spirits of the paw container led the Cougars to a victorious homecoming weekend.

Charles Buntin and Stacey Whitestone

On the night of October 30, one hundred and forty of Northview's loveliest girls were ready to compete for Miss Spectrum in Symbols of Beauty.

At exactly seven o'clock, the curtain opened to reveal a striking backdrop of huge powder puffs, lipsticks, make-up brushes, and eye pencils which shimmered and reflected the stage lights as the contestants came on stage from the audience. Immediately, the contestants were announced as they presented to the judges and the audience their sportswear fashions and a symbol of their interests or or hobbies. The girls then competed in evening gowns. During each contestant's solo walk in evening gown, the hosts for the pageant, Mr. N.H.S., Charles Buntin, and the student governor of Alabama, Stacey Whitestone, introduced the contestant. Following the evening gown parade, two awards were announced. The first was a presentation by Jackson Trophies for the Academic Achievement Award. Stephanie Moreland was selected for this honor with her 4.36 academic average.

The second award was decided by the contestants earlier in the evening as they chose Miss Congeniality, senior Julia Beamon. Finally, Stacey and Charles were handed the decisions, and the winners were announced with Carla Hemby winning the coveted honor of Miss Spectrum. Roses and trophies were presented to the class representatives as the audience gave their approval of the contestants selected as the most beautiful girls at Northview High School.

Favorite Things

WIREGRASS COMMONS . . . For almost a year people anticipated it, and when it finally opened, there was no disappointment felt by anyone present. Gone were the trips to Montgomery and Panama City for new styles in clothes. Students could drive around the corner and find anything from the latest fashions to new and interesting art, music, and food.

Northview students have adopted The Commons as their favorite place to be, and when you get a bunch of Northview's favorite people together at Northview's favorite place, the only possible outcome is laughter, excitement, and lots of fun.

Dothan City Board of Education

Dr. Gene Watson

Dr. Gene J. Watson has been leading the Dothan City Schools as superintendent for over three years. A native of Georgianna, Alabama, he received his B.S., M.A., and Doctorate from the University of Alabama, and he completed his A.A. certification at Auburn University. He taught at Enterprise High School and was principal at both Andalusia and Benjamin Russell High Schools. Previous to coming to Dothan, he served as assistant to the superintendent of Opelika and Greenville, South Carolina, high schools, and as superintendent at Madison County schools in Huntsville, which led him to Dothan. The citizens of Dothan are proud of his fine accomplishments in education, and his contributions to the betterment of Dothan are numerable.

The Dothan Board of Education is an appointed position within the city government. The board is comprised of five members who represent the four wards and one appointee made by the mayor. This year's members include Chuck Dunseth, vice-chairman; Carol Mills, Ronnie Mendheim, Christine Daniels, and Orby Parker, chairman.

The board's job is to oversee all activities within the school system, which is a very difficult and complicated responsibility. Citizens of Dothan are generally hard to please and many times the school board cannot tailor its program to suit everyone. However, they do a fine job of suiting the needs of the students, and for this, they are to be commended.

This year was made extremely difficult by the reintroduction of proration. Always concerned for the welfare of the students, the school board stood up to much adversity and introduced the one-cent sales tax which did much to relieve the burden placed upon the school system by the state.

It is actions like advising the city commission and the county commissioners about the one cent sales tax that make life better for everyone, and we should all be grateful that we have a school board that will let nothing come in the way of excellence in education.

Administration

James A. Smith

Northview High School's principal, James A. Smith, finds his job rewarding and challenging as he strives to combine the roles of administrator, advisor, businessman, and disciplinarian. He has been with Northview since its inception and has always maintained standards of excellence while having strong ties of friendship with the students.

Mr. Smith is a man of many accomplishments and talents. In his education career he has been a coach, teacher, assistant principal, and principal in various communities in Alabama but primarily in Dothan at Carver Junior High, Carver High School, and finally Northview. As an administrator, he expects the best from his students, his faculty, and himself.

Smith has a very special relationship with the students of Northview. His involvement with student activities and his genuine interest in students' opinions have won him a special place in their memories. No pep rally would be complete without one of his spirit-filled poems and with him dressed in order to carry out the spirited theme of the pep rally.

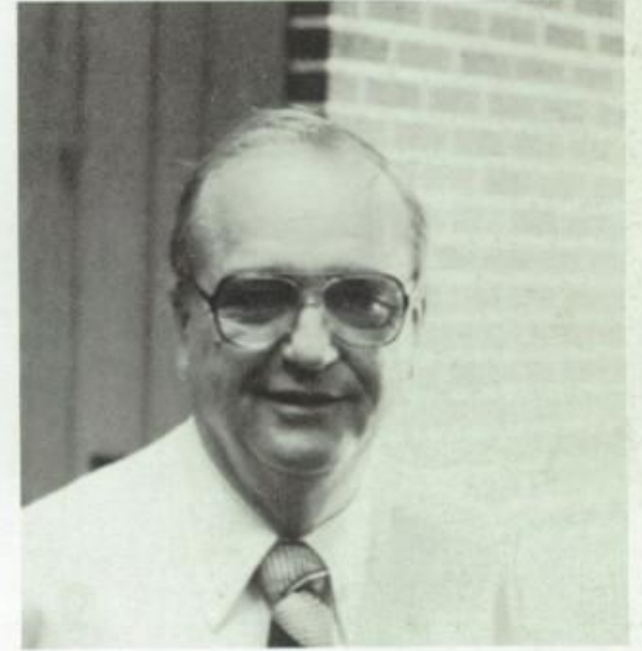

Randy Hicks

Randy Hicks has been assistant principal at Northview for three years and was previously a coach for the Cougars and a teacher. Hicks earned his masters in administration at Troy State. He is recognized as a strict disciplinarian and continues to help students solve problems they encounter at Northview. He and his wife have two sons who take an active portion of their time when they are away from Northview.

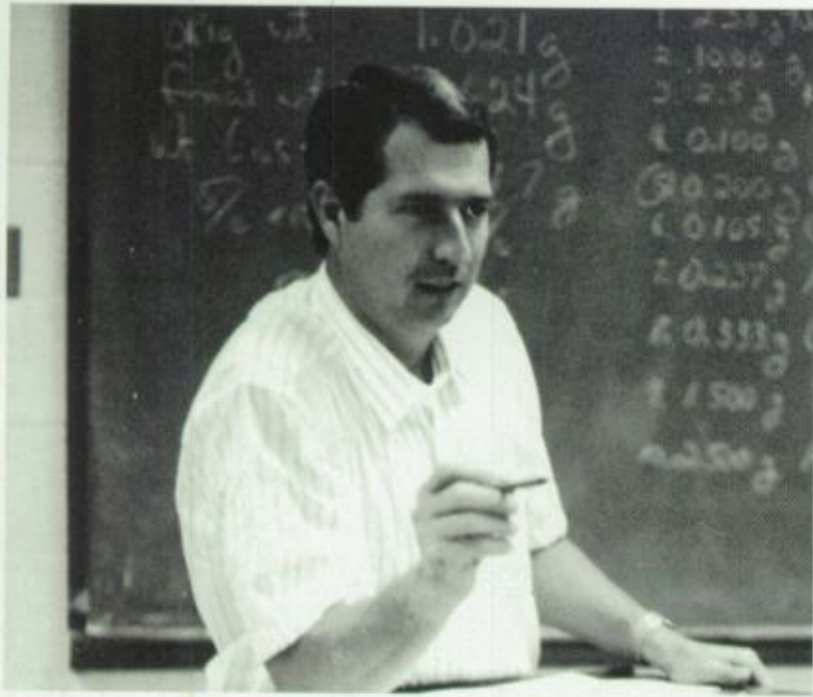

Crawford Drake

Crawford Drake has been involved with administrative duties at Northview for four years. A graduate of Mississippi College and Troy State University, he and his wife Betty have one son, Web, a junior at N.H.S. Mr. Drake sponsors the academic olympians, and his responsibilities with N.H.S. include scheduling of classes, computer operations, and curriculum guidance and planning. Scheduling over 80 teachers and over 1600 students, his task is a time-consuming and harrowing job.

Comer Moon

Comer Moon is known among students for his involvement with student activities at Northview. Earning his degrees at Troy State and Auburn, Mr. Moon's responsibilities deal mainly with overseeing the lunch room, school equipment, and issuance of textbooks to teachers. Both teachers and students appreciate his interest in them and are glad to have him as a member of the administrative staff.

Mr. Danny Adams finds time during his chemistry and algebra classes to give the students a bit of humor, a glimpse of humanity, and an insight into the vague mysteries of chemical equations. He is a co-sponsor of AJAS.

Kozue Armstrong has taught for nineteen years. With a major in English and American literature, she is a graduate of Troy State University. She attended Bible Missionary High School. She has one son, David, who is 19. During her spare time, she enjoys playing percussion with her husband, Dave, a professional musician.

Matt Bullard is an instructor of Driver's Ed. and has taught for sixteen years. A graduate of Dothan High, he was president of the student body and Mr. D.H.S. His politics continued with him as he currently serves as a city commissioner.

Jerry Andrews demonstrates his patience and calmness on a daily basis as instructor of Drivers' Education. A challenging responsibility in the field of education, Mr. Andrews also finds time to do some coaching on the side as coach of the N.H.S. golf team. He is a graduate of Troy State.

Angie Sasser Atwell is an instructor for the TMR class which gives her enough challenge for any day's time. She spends other hours at Northview as a junior varsity cheerleader sponsor, a responsibility that she really enjoys.

Michelle Andrews is a dedicated and fun teacher completing her fourteenth year in education. As instructor of health education, physical education, and the tennis team, she is also the varsity cheerleader sponsor. Her busy life is filled additionally with her son Josh and daughter Alana.

Trilbia Ausley is an active member of the N.H.S. business department as instructor of typing and accounting. A co-sponsor of FBLA, she is active in the club's local and state competitions. She has three children.

Martha Burnham attended Auburn and has been an instructor for 14 years. She is an active member of her church and enjoys her family activities, although with son David graduating this year, she expects to really enjoy the empty nest syndrome next year.

John Christian is one of the busiest persons around Northview during the fall as he prepares the Cougar Marching Band for its season on the field. He sculpts wood duck carvings in his free time.

Sharon Church has taught for eleven years and enjoys American and world history classes. She has two children, Trip and Hayes Wheelless. A graduate of Dothan High, she was in Who's Who and the pep club president. Now she is an official cheerleader for Auburn.

Ramona Cleveland is an instructor of government and economics. She attended Miles College where she was an honor student. She has been teaching for thirty years.

Sylvia Cooke has been teaching for 13 years. A graduate of Auburn, she claims she is too old to remember anything about high school. Her Spanish classes are fun and exciting with her wry sense of humor, but you have to understand Spanish!

Minnie Coggins is an instructor of mathematics. The proud mother of two University of Alabama majorettes, she finds the Tide's games just too much to resist. In her spare time she enjoys flying planes.

Jackie Cotton finds after CiCi is gone this spring, that it will be hard to return to the view. Planning to move after this year, we will miss her shining face and her dedication to Northview.

Ladora Cummings is an instructor of physical education at Northview. She enjoys sports, macrame, and motorcycling. She received her degree at Alabama State University.

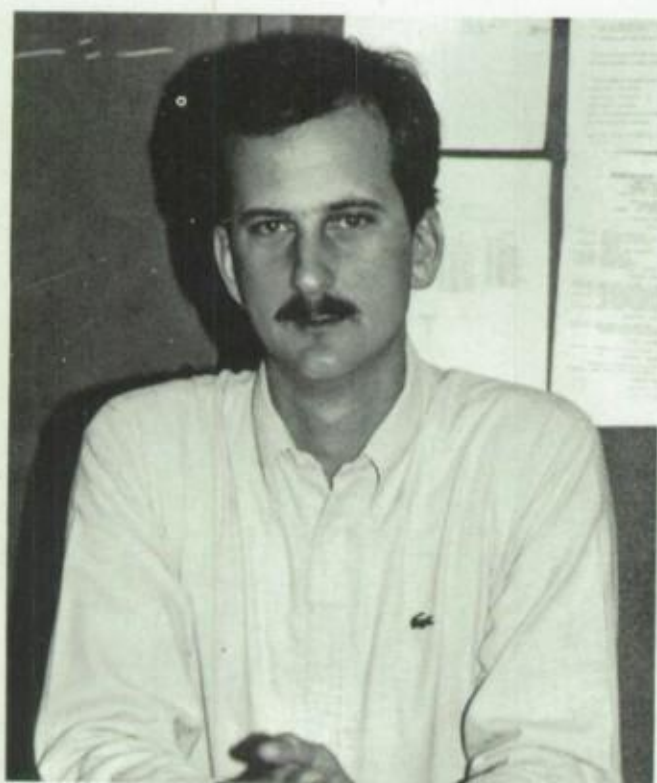

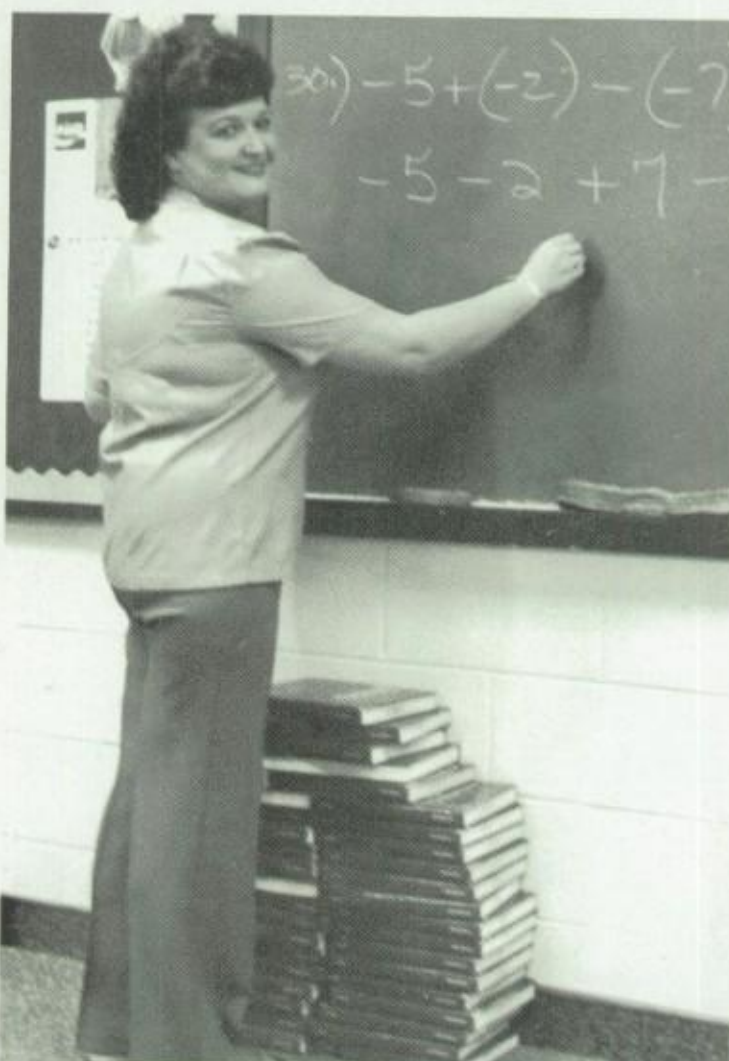

Martina Devane received her A.A. degree at Auburn University. She was valedictorian of her class as well as cheerleader captain, homecoming queen, and a beauty at Opp High School. She teaches Algebra I, II, and Competitive Algebra II. Her favorite thing about Northview is the students, and she least favors the interruptions. She has one son, Bo, who is a seventeen year old junior at Northview High School.

Lynda Daughtry teaches general and honors biology. An instructor for fifteen years, she was a senior class favorite, a majorette, and state president of F.H.A. as well as valedictorian of her class at Calera High School.

Vicki Dickert is an instructor and devoted friend to the TMR classes at Northview. A graduate of Troy State, she has been teaching for eight years.

Randy Ragsdale teaches physical education. He has been teaching for five years after graduating from Jax State.

Diane Sager teaches ninth and tenth grade English. She also attended Dothan High School.

Eugene Singletary is a graduate of Troy State. He teaches Alabama History and Consumer Economics.

Tallulah Snell is a T.S.U. graduate. She has been teaching for 17 years, and computer awareness is her game.

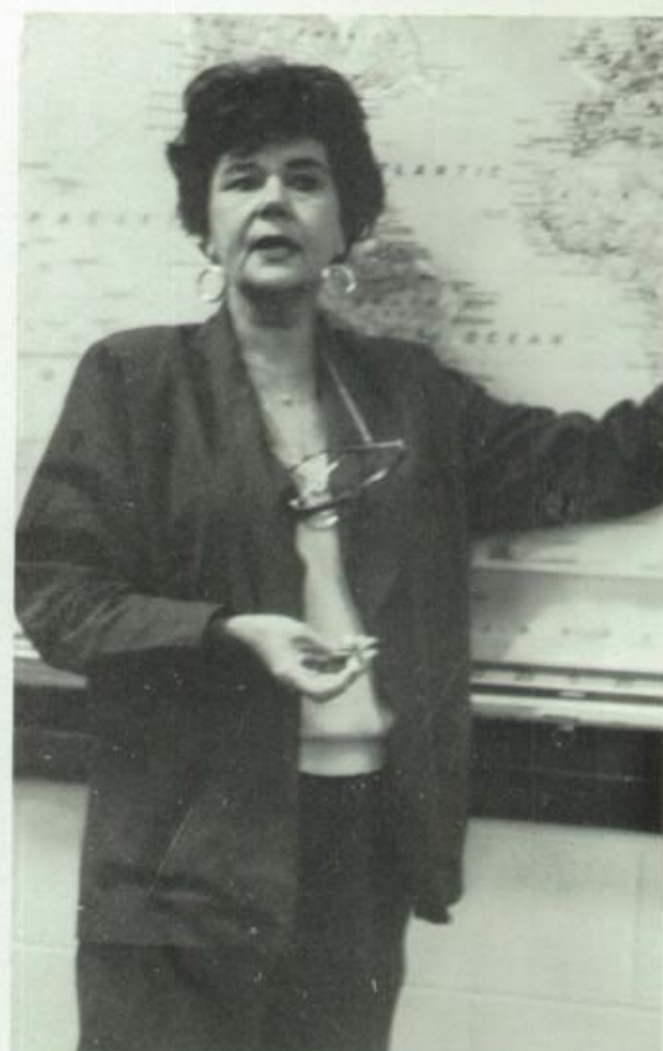

Mary Skipper teaches psychology and sociology. She attended Univ. of South Alabama.

Alice Sowell teaches Algebra III, Trigonometry, and Algebra I. She was valedictorian of her class, but has forgotten other high school memories. She has been teaching for 28 years.

Norma Jeanne Spivey's A.P. American history classes are her challenge for the year. She has been teaching for 17 years. In h.s. she was a class beauty and social chairman of her senior class. She graduated TSU.

Mary Thomas is an instructor of English. She has taught for 26 years. A majorette in high school, she was also editor of her school's newspaper, and Miss FHA. She has two sons, Gregory and Jon.

Carolyn Wallace speaks only French during the day at Northview. She is a graduate of Auburn and enjoys traveling.

Mary Ann Vanlandingham teaches mathematics at Northview. She graduated from Alabama College and has been teaching for 14 years.

Coach Donald Tribue finds basketball and sports a major interest in his life. He is a graduate of Alabama State University where he received his B.S. and his M.A.

Larry Williams finds drama, yearbook, and honors English 11 consuming large portions of his time.

Guidance Counselors

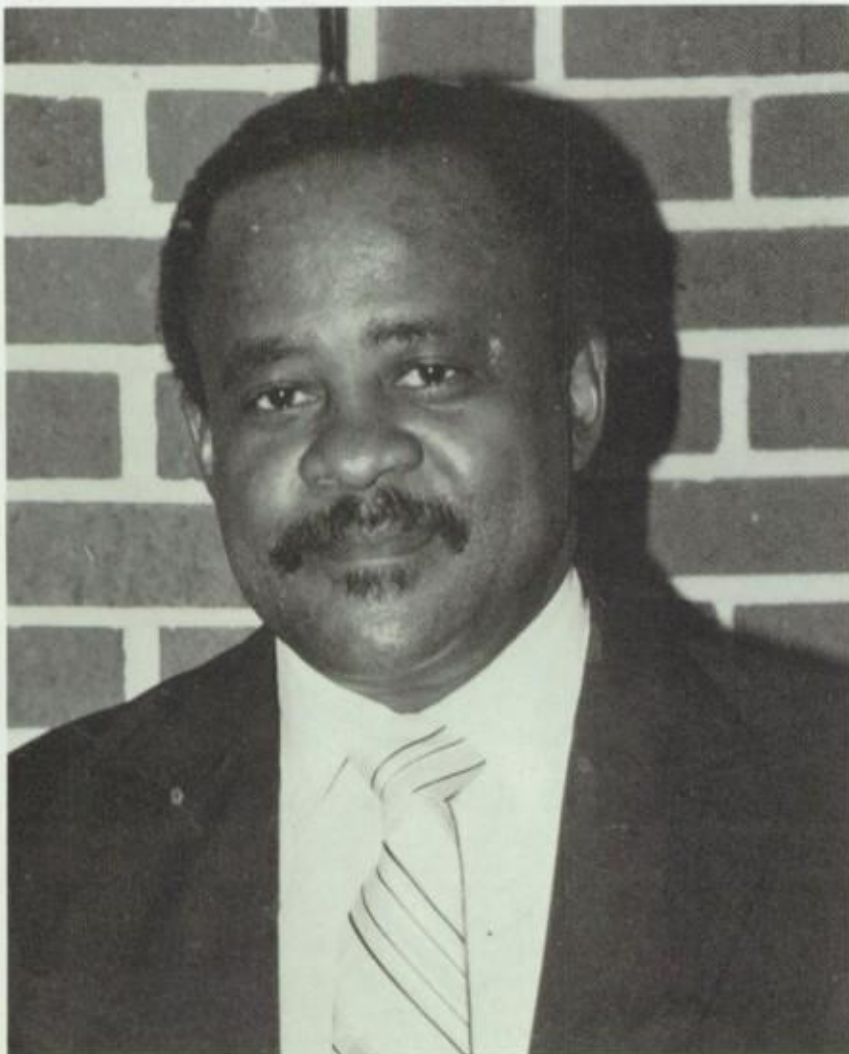

Carolyn Bass is a graduate of Troy State University where she received her B.S. and M.S. in guidance and counseling. She enjoys working with Northview students in the areas and career and college planning and finds great satisfaction when she sees students succeed or perform at their greatest potential. In her spare time she enjoys swimming and traveling.

Ruth Bevis turned to Northview last year after having been at Dothan High School for numerous years. She is a graduate of the University of Alabama where she received her degree in counseling. Among counseling skills, she finds working with students in career planning among the most enjoyable areas. Mrs. B. enjoys spending her free time with her children and grandchildren. A talented and creative person, she finds time to sew, create crafts, and go camping in her spare time.

Mr. Frank Reese is the chairman of the guidance office counselors. A graduate of Alabama State University, he received three degrees at that institution including his bachelor's, master's, and his A.A. degree. While he is not counseling, he enjoys reading, fishing, and traveling.

Where should I go to college? How can I change my schedule? When is the next ACT test date? Do these questions plague you? Well, the people to see are our Northview guidance counselors. These talented individuals help confused seniors, nervous freshmen, and any classmate who needs a listening ear. These caring counselors are the ones to turn to when it seems no one else can help. So do not panic — all is well when there are guidance counselors around.

Secretaries Keep It Going

When the going gets tough, the tough get going, and some of the toughest people around Northview are the secretaries. Not because they are mean, but because they have such tremendous responsibilities running this monster of a school. From records to the state and central office, to reports that have to be filled out in quintuplicate, these ladies contend with the sick, the mean, and the problem as well as the sneaky, the true, and the sincere. It all comes down to a matter of judgement, efficiency, and accuracy. And nowhere can one school system claim such enjoyable secretaries as these four. We appreciate all of their help throughout the year and say thank you for a job well done.

Dale Stamps has been with Northview since its inception, and although her duties have been varied, she is always excellent in her work and in her communication skills with students. She always has a smile for everyone who enters the guidance office.

Phyllis Gross has to have patience to contend with all the students who have problems who come to her each day. As secretary to Mr. Moon and the student affairs office she keeps a busy day. Mother of Brian and Cassie, she has a full career at school and at home.

Shirley Seay keeps everyone on their toes with notes and notices abounding from her office. She finds students, teachers, and Mr. Moon challenging to keep up with.

Janet Thigpen is busy working on records, and money, and attendance each day just so that we know who is here, and whether they have paid. She is accurate and picky, but that is just her job as anyone in accounting knows. But she is great at it.

Support Personnel

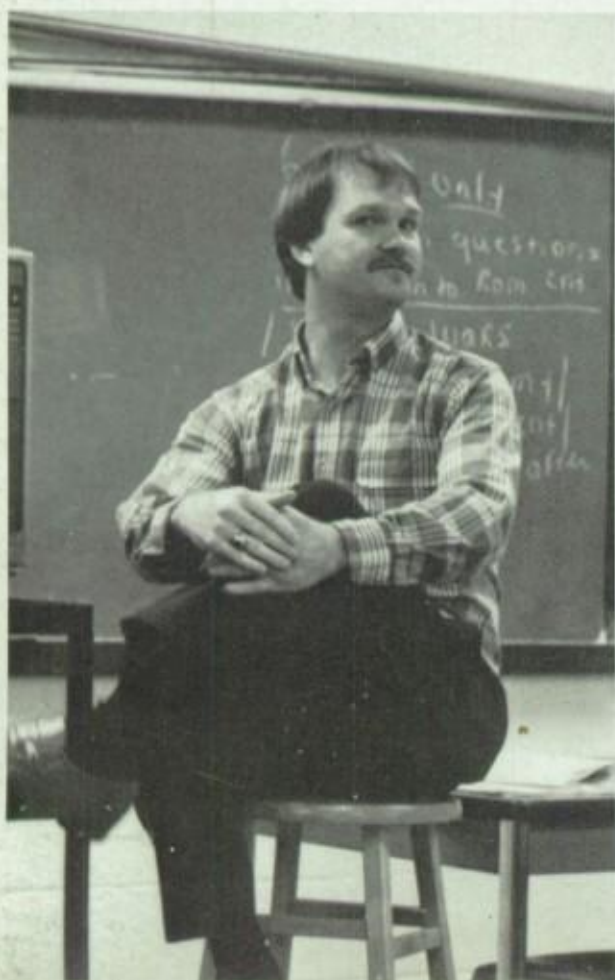

The Northview cafeteria staff consists of Eula Solomon, Earline Efurd, Janet Perry, and Joyce Dees, bookkeeper. Katherine Cotton, Belinda Metcalf, Mary Jo Bonner, Margaret Hestla, and Mary Alice Hughes, assistant manager. Sporman Collins, Nan Pratt, Rosa Thomas, Jerry Rabb, and Vernara J. Johnson, manager. The staff works hard to supply lunches for the numerous students and faculty members who pass through their lines each day.

Larry Pullins is the head custodian of Northview. Well-known for answering to all the demands of teachers, staff, and principals, as well as students, he is endlessly energetic. He oversees the staff which this year has continued to change, but always the building is as clean as structurally possible.

Senior Class Officers of 1987

Senior class officers for 1986-87 are president Cyndi Veale, vice-president Stephanie Hayes, and secretary Laura Marblestone.

Senior officers represent the leadership that prevails in the senior class. Everything they plan, and everything they do is a last for the officers and seniors. They take the responsibility for making their senior year the best.

Throughout the year, the senior officers and the seniors are busy raising money for the prom, the highlight of their senior year. Garage sales, dances, and car washes are a few of the work projects that are used to raise money.

Another responsibility that falls on the officers is the planning of the senior tee-shirts, those prized and treasured garments that best symbolize the class of 1987.

The senior prom themes are presented by the officers to the class for a general election. Senior officers then put the seniors to work on specific committees including backdrop, nametags, advertising, and decorating. From the decision election to the day of the prom, the entire class works hard to produce a memorable and creative prom that carries out the theme selected.

Graduation, prom, fund-raisers, and the spirit of Northview are dependent upon the work, dedication, and efforts of the senior class and its officers, but who could be more worthy of all the tiring hours of planning and executing the various activities than the great class of '87.

Trying to get their act together, the Seniors '87 show their spirit during the Kendrick pep rally.

Rebecca Irby, Joy Jones, and Laurie Milner enjoy time together in Accounting class.

Lucian Ward takes a break in Mrs. Hooks' English class, a once in a year moment to spare.

Senior cheerleaders Amy West, CiCi Cotton, Kelli Matthews, Cindy Merrill, and Sonja Whithers share togetherness during the singing of the Alma Mater.

Following the Ft. Walton game, Carla Hemby, Julia Holman, Melissa Miner, and Cyndi Veale take a second to lean back and relax.

Sonja Whithers bites her nails as she pauses to question an answer on her economics test

Boredom can really set in when working in the library according to senior Heather Kates, a library aide assembling test papers.

A perfect reaction to lunchroom menus, David Kinney expresses his feelings toward lunch, rules, and school.

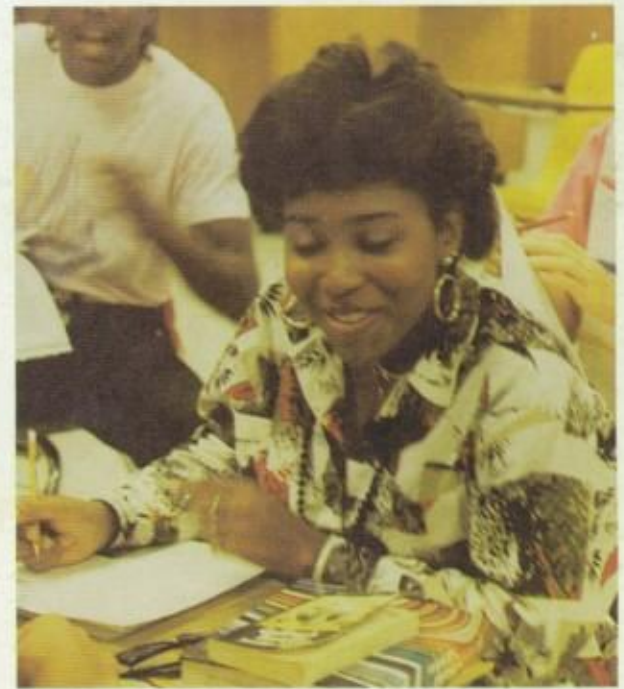

As Kelli Matthews rallies behind the senior class, enthusiasm spreads throughout the student body.

Taken by surprise, LeeAnne Berryhill clings to Bobby Estes as she looks for support with other seniors.

The excitement of another pep rally is demonstrated by the spirited class of '87 who really wanted that stick.

Samantha Satterwhite carries out the theme of the Kendrick pep rally as she stylishly dresses in her camouflage attire.

Wanda Yeater, Tina Grantham, Kenneth Franks, and Jason Moody expect success in the years that follow graduation.

Rick Cazenave plans his future studies in the guidance office with expectations of Miami in his mind.

Stephanie Hayes contemplates chemistry problems in another aspect of the senior class officer's life.

Michelle Shiver, Michael Hawkins, CiCi Cotton, and Dewey Bland participate in a Junior Optimist meeting in Mr. Lankford's room.

Gina Grant and Dawn Hathcock share a loving glance during their last pep rally. As seniors, they will always have a special bond for each other.

As pensive thoughts pass through Lisa Coley's mind, the world of Northview passes into view and just as easily passes into oblivion upon graduation.

When the day seems unpromising there is little to look forward to except being with friends as Keith Cooke arrives to begin another day.

Melvin Clark shows his basic style in shades, varied denims, and paisley. The man is always sharp and in style.

JoNell Walsingham and Melissa Persch react contrastingly to another pep rally on Friday afternoon.

Greg Holland and T.J. Gilbert spend a few last minutes in Government and Economics class making plans for the weekend.

Lynn Morey tries to abide by the rules and sits on the edge of her car as she prepares for another day at the View.

Bryan Johnston maintains his originality in his hat and feathered friend, one of his few true friends at N.H.S.

SENIOR WHO'S WHO

Each year part of the privileges of being a senior is to vote on those members of the class who over the years have proven to be outstanding members of the senior society. This year was no exception. As the senior's greeted the ballots early on a Monday morning, minds began to churn; people began to discuss; and ballots were completed and turned in during the day to the library.

Looking over the ballot, some previous categories were eliminated due to the duplicity of the category matching others or being almost the same. Some seniors gave us write in votes while others voiced their complaints. However, the results of the balloting emphasized the unity of the class and their ideas.

As you have viewed the results of your vote, we are sure that you will agree with the staff that the seniors of 1987 made some wise and difficult decisions. As time will pass, these selections will prove to be true or untrue and when the class of 87 has its future reunions, your prophecy will perhaps come true.

JUNIORS

Junior Class Officers

President: Missy Wright

Vice-president: Susan Ramsey

Secretary: Jennifer Stickler

Being a junior this year was a special experience; one that will never be forgotten. This year's class did all the typical junior things: got their class rings, looked forward to being a senior, and made many memories.

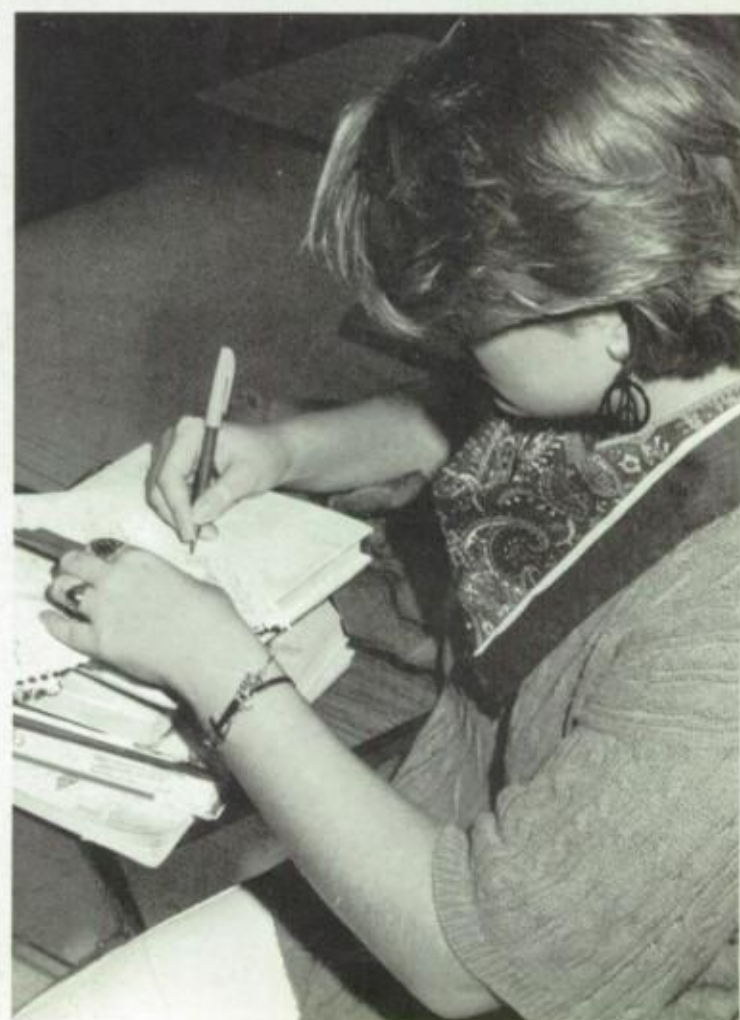

However, there was always something a little different about this class, even from the very beginning. Maybe the year they were born was a bad year for baby formula. Maybe it was just some strange twist of fate that brought them together, but whatever the cause for their original and deviant behavior, the teachers were not too worried about the excuse. They were worried about a way to stop them.

Almost piling in comparison to their behavior was the event which many students had waited for all their life: getting their class rings. When the rings finally came, many proud juniors could be seen comparing rings and beaming from ear to ear.

Of course, rings are a highlight, but the most exciting thing about being a junior could only be done in their imaginations: thinking about their senior year with all of its excitement — graduation, parties, prom, and more parties, etc. For most students, these thoughts would be the only thing to keep them going during what most would consider the longest nine months of their lives.

This year, juniors were slagged by teachers, parents, and other classes for their behavior, but they know that in years to come, the class of '88 will retain a special place in the memories of all who were present to witness the phenomenon of the juniors of 1987!

SOPHOMORES

President: Robert Nomberg

Vice-president: Cassie Gross

Secretary: Wendy Tyre

To Be or Not To Be a Sophomore. As a freshman, I always wanted to be a sophomore. As a sophomore, I want to be a junior . . . until now. As I write this article and think about my sophomore year, I realize how great it has been. The sophomore class of '89 is the most spirited and out-going group of people I have met. Each person contributes a special personality. The sophomores seem to work together and cooperate with each other no matter what the task. With determination and motivation, any goal can be accomplished. These sophomores may be fellow classmates for two more years, but they will be friends for a lifetime.

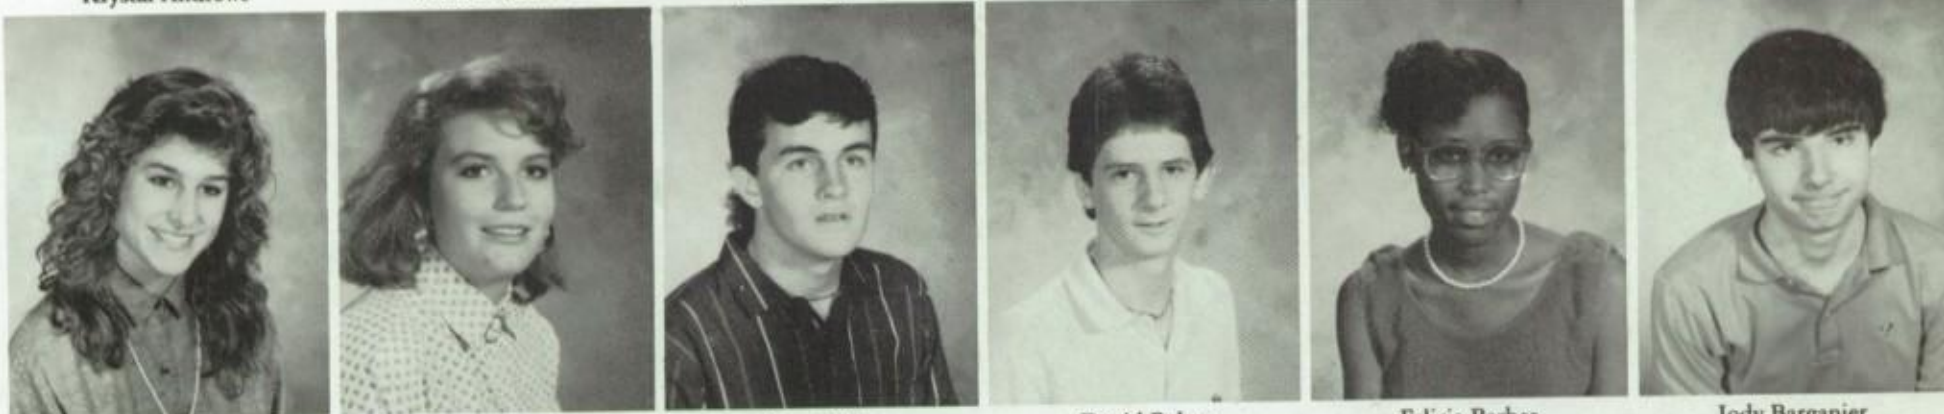

Although there are positive points for being a sophomore, there are also negative points. If we had to compare ourselves to something, a robot would be a great description. We work almost mechanically with the same program each day. The locker combinations are permanently imprinted on our brains. Our minds fumble with words and numbers until we are so confused, it is hard to figure out what time it is, even on a digital watch. Aching hands and fingers seem to be rejecting brain waves, and our necks might snap if we jerk our heads up too fast.

At 3:09 everyone stares at the clock until the final sixty seconds of the schoolday pass. Finally, by 3:10, the sophomores stampede out of the building. We may leave Northview High School physically, but we will never leave it mentally.

FRESHMEN

Freshmen

Class

Officers

President: Trip Wheelless

Vice-president: Kim Price

Secretary: Amy Davis

Led by their capable president Trip Wheelless, the class of 1990 hit the ground running as they began their first year at Northview in a whirlwind of activities ranging from pep rallies to club meetings to band practice. Always eager to impress, freshmen joined many clubs in hopes of making new friends (especially older ones with cars). Entering high school can be frightening, but this group of freshmen took it all in stride.

Upper classmen have always looked forward to having a new class of freshmen to tease, but this year the newcomers fought back with many sharp-tonqued comments. The class showed a lot of spirit and refused to be intimidated by the seniors. They were awarded the spirit stick many times and were commended for the enthusiasm they showed during pep rallies and football games.

As years pass and freshmen turn into sophomores, juniors, and finally seniors, they will always be able to look back on their one and only year as "baby cougars," and will remember it fondly for they were one of the best ever!

The first thing one notices about the TMR class is the happy and determined smiles of its students. Each seems happy to be at school and also appears determined to meet the new and old challenges that they face each day. Mrs. Atwell's class focuses on improving basics and learning daily living skills. Her students learn necessities such as addresses and phone numbers, basic reading skills, counting money, and housekeeping skills as well as good health practices.

Mrs. Atwell's students along with Miss Dickert's students enjoy several special activities throughout the year. They take one day away from school to attend the peanut festival fair. During the holiday season, they are treated to a movie at a local theatre and then Mr. Lankford's DECA students throw them a memorable Christmas party complete with dance contests for them. Annually they take swimming lessons and compete in the Special Olympics.

Miss Vickie Dickert's TMR Challenge Class is a true example of what kids can do when they work together. Her class is a working vocational class, and the students begin their day as any other with the morning roll call. Then each student goes to his or her work station and begins an assembly line. The finished products of the students' hardwork are beautiful Christmas wreaths which are sold to various customers. The students have also been known to create beautiful quilts.

The students in Miss Dickert's class join Mrs. Atwell's class in all the extra activities throughout the year. They too attend the fair, the Halloween carnival, the Christmas party, and the movies, as well as swimming lessons and the special olympics' activities. The class also participates in an annual Christmas play at Beverlye Middle School.

ORGANIZATIONS

Alabama Junior Academy of Science

The Alabama Junior Academy of Science forms the science club for Northview High School. The members' activities teach them more about biology, chemistry, and physics. The club participates in the Northview science fair each year and attends the state AJAS convention. The organization also sends a team to the science olympiad. The club plans several fund raising events yearly to finance these trips. Sponsors of the club are Danny Adams and Pam Hicks. The officers for this year include president Leigh Jer-nigan, vice-president Gavin Adams, and secretary Lisa Troutman.

Holding down the fort isn't always easy for Danny Adams, co-sponsor of the Alabama Junior Academy of Science.

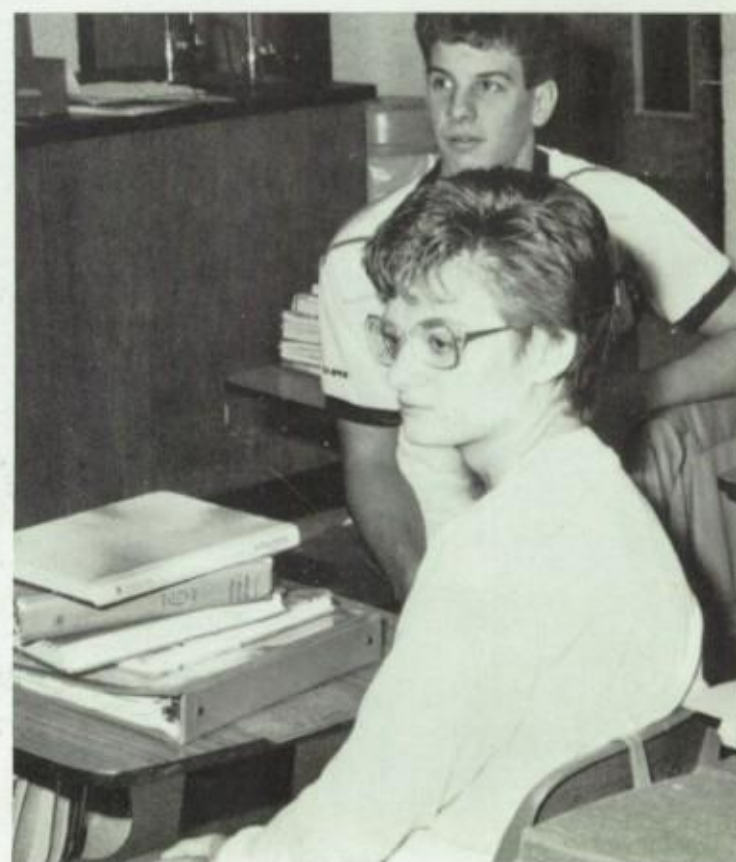

Along with her duties in the classroom, Pam Hicks finds time to co-sponsor science activities.

Obviously not working, Billy Vincent and Bo Devane find refuge in the back of the room.

Pondering on her duties as a member of AJAS, Kim Hathorn begins thinking about her science project due in the spring.

AJAS members for 1986-87 include the following: Gavin Adams, Jacquie Bradley, Angela Brownell, Kha Bui, Chris Campbell, Thomas Crowe, Todd Daughtry, Bo Devane, Nichole Donnell, Scott Dunn, Sean Dye, Barbara Hooks, Lori Hoskins, Leigh Jernigan, Mona Manley, Rod McCurdy, Brian McLeon, Stephanie Moreland, Dana Rister, Becky Stokes, Dutch Terry, Aubrey Tomlin, Lisa Troutman, Billy Vinson, Tracy Wynne, Stephen Zebehazy, and Rene Zeron.

Listening attentively to Mrs. Hicks, Lori Hoskins learns of the upcoming events planned for the science organization.

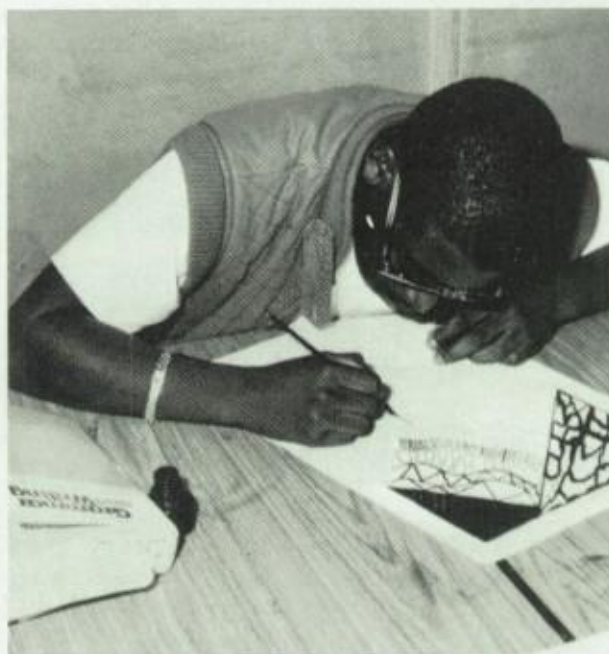

ART CLUB

The Art Club organized this fall under the sponsorship of Beverly Hall, and was formed to promote students' interests in drawing, painting, and sculpture. Members of the Art Club are encouraged to express themselves through their artworks and the artwork of their peers.

During the year the club had several speakers who have made art their career. One of the speakers was Candace Creel, an illustrator for a local advertising company, Slaughter-Hanson. Ms. Creel, a former student of Mrs. Hall's, shared her experiences and job background with the high school artists. Terry Slaughter, the creative designer for Slaughter-Hanson, also spoke to the club.

Art club members also participated in several local art shows this year including the Headland Art Festival and the Kaleidoscope Art Festival at Landmarks' Park.

Art Club officers for 1986-87 are: vice-president Elizabeth Wheat, secretary Johnny Adkinson, and president Lorie Woodard.

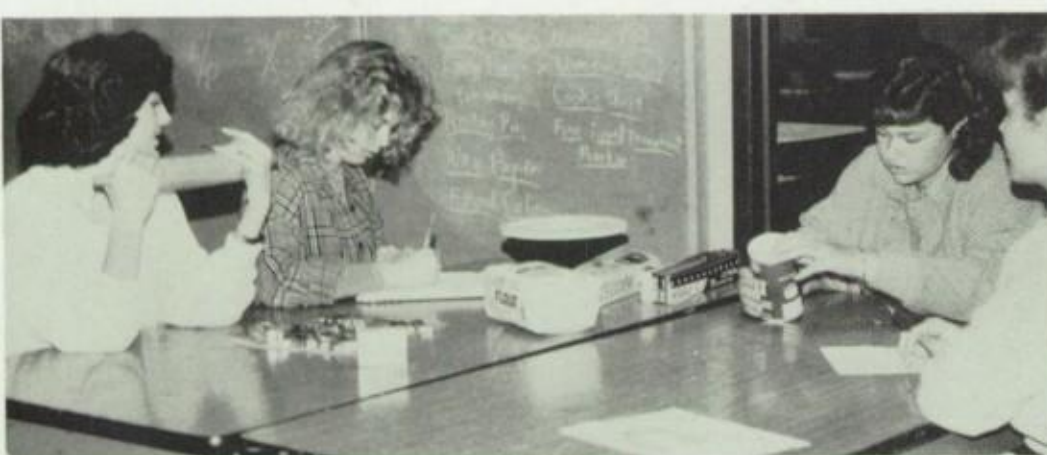

Practice does not always make perfect, but Larry Rich has high hopes of getting this one right.

Business Office Education

The Business Office Educational BOE program is an excellent opportunity for students to learn more about the business world with first hand experience. Students are placed in business offices to work. On the job they perform many business skills consisting of typing, filing, accounting, and telephone communications. Two great advantages of being a BOE student are the privilege of leaving school at the end of fourth period and going to work. Also, while getting school credit, the student is making money. The student may earn anything from minimum wages up to $5.50 an hour. Unlike the average Northview student, their day does not end usually until five o'clock in the afternoon. The co-operative program is a great experience to learn more about the working world.

Marketing Education

Northview's DECA is an organization designed to develop future leaders in marketing, retailing, or management. It gives high school juniors and seniors working experience that will be useful all of their lives. As they enter the working world, the students develop responsibility and an understanding of business.

DECA members constantly engage in worthwhile functions. They hold monthly business meetings to discuss current and future activities. Members also take an active interest in various levels of competition. Northview is proud of the many DECA members who excel at district or state competitions. However, when it comes to sentiments, no club derives as much gracious pleasure as at the TMR Christmas party that DECA generously hosts each year.

Mr. Mike Lankford is congratulated for his hard work as the sponsor of the DECA club, but the officers do help relieve him from the heavy work load he faces.

The DECA officers for 1986 include: Carol Clemmons, and David Kinney, presidents; Chrysy Edgar, senior vice-president; Kathleen Parr, junior vice-president; Michelle Daniels, secretary; Doug Blumberg, public relations; and Debbie Paulson, public relations.

Members for 1986-87 include: Laura Allen, Dewey Bland, Doug Blumberg, Brandi Bruner, Tina Buchanan, Warren Buckley, James Capps, Carol Clemmons, Michelle Daniels, Tommy Dixon, Chrysy Edgar, Greg Goldsborough, Regina Graham, Kim Grimsley, Jeff Hankins, Chris Harvey, Paula Holsemback, Hilary Hudson, Carl Jackson, Stephanie James, Rosalyn Jones, Nancy Kelly, David Kinney, Stephanie Knight, Julie McGovern, Lena McLaney, Kathy McQuain, Scott Odom, Sandy Parker, Kathleen Parr, Debbie Paulson, Kelly Peters, Kelly Powell, Samantha Satterwhite, Edward Slovinsky, Mark Smith, Heather Sweeney, Renee Terry, Wendy Walker, Lucian Ward, Melinda Williams, and Vince Wright.

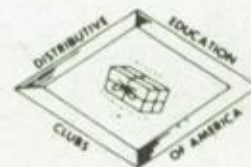

Plays Host to Christmas

The TMR Christmas Party is an event that is anticipated every year by both the DECA members and the TMR students. This year, the payoff for all the hard work came with all of the smiling faces of the TMRs as they entered a room which had magically been transformed into a winter wonderland of color and excitement.

Apollo Jones from WKMX emceed the dance contest and DECA members presented skits, and there was food and fun enough for the whole school.

Apollo and friend look on as several T.M.R. students present their version of "Walk Like An Egyptian."

TMR students spent a few rare minutes away from their work, and do not want the party to end.

As Chrisy Edgar watches the action, her thoughts turn to caroling, Santa, and clothes from Parisians.

Several faculty members attended the festivities and enjoyed the fun as school, teachers, and students were ready to get out for the holidays.

DECA members and guests enjoy the morning's festivities.

Fellowship of Christian Students

The Fellowship of Christian Students (FCS) is a newly formed organization at Northview which provides all students with a growing Christian atmosphere. Every Friday morning at an early 7:15, a dedicated group of students gather to listen to youth ministers, pastors, and special interest people and other students, who guide them forward with the word of God. The most important part of FCS is the students. Once a month any student has the opportunity to share his or her knowledge of Christ with the other students.

FCS is sponsored by Mr. Lamar Helms and Mrs. Jacquie Cotton. The freshmen class is represented by Sharon Beaty and Chandler Coe. The sophomore class is represented by Autumn Baggott and Hamp Baxley. The junior class is represented by Sharon Baxter and Becky Hand. The senior class is represented by Aubrey Tomlin and Belinda O'Neal.

As an officer in FCS, Becky Hand has many responsibilities other than conducting meetings.

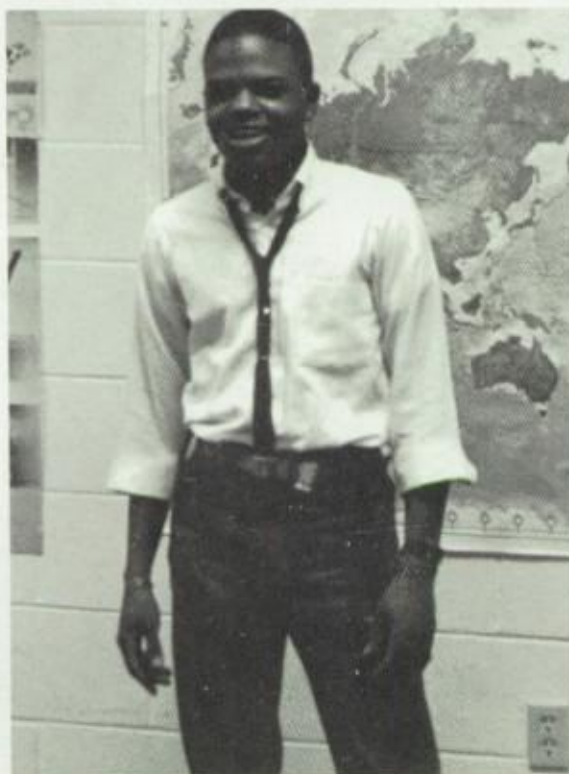

Autumn Baggott, Becky Hand, Belinda O'Neal, Hamp Baxley, Chadler Coe, and Aubrey Tomlin join other Northview students in their walk with Christ.

Cassie Gross, Amy Fraser, and Craig Drown think FCS is a great place to meet friends.

Chris Erbskorn, Dean Ohman, Amy Fraser, and Kitty Cobb always look forward to exhilarating conversation at FCS.

Amy Dees proves that FCS can put a smile on anyone's face.

Stacey Alford, Michelle Bevis, Dana Rister, Kha Bui, and April Ingram know FCS is the place to go for fellowship and food.

Waiting for the meeting to commence Joe Bohr and Dusty Hayes relax.

Listening attentively to a speaker, Jason Williams is undisturbed by the photographer.

Waiting for the meeting to begin, James Easley greets Northview students.

Wondering how long it is before refreshments, Joy Taylor, Denise McFall, Ann Hughes, and Kristin Morey discuss the question with friends.

FUTURE BUSINESS LEADERS OF AMERICA

The Future Business Leaders of America is a club whose purpose is to provide opportunities for students in business education classes to develop knowledge and competencies in business careers. During the year, FBLA members compete in competitive events in the area of accounting, typewriting, office procedures, job interview, and business communication. The club also chooses one boy and one girl to represent them in competing for Mr. and Miss FBLA. Winners on the local level will then move up to the district level. Those who win first or second proceed to the state level.

The first place winners at the state competition will then have a chance to go to Anaheim, California, and compete. The FBLA chapter of Northview claims the honor of having held three state offices, eight state winners, and three national winners! They are a truly outstanding group of students.

Sponsors for the organization are Sylvia Hemby and Trilbia Ausley. Officers for 1986-87 include: Carla Hemby, president; Leigh Jernigan, vice-president; Kim Watkins, secretary; and Melissa Miner, reporter.

Sophomores Jennifer Ishler and Alicia Jackson know that team work is the key to success.

FBLA seniors are on the right road to success in the business world.

Carla Hemby, Melissa Miner, Leigh Jernigan, and Kim Watkins are the dedicated officers of FBLA.

Realizing the important of teamwork, the juniors gather for a group picture.

The 1986-87 roster includes: Leigh Adams, Sharon Amanda, Amanda Barfield, Jason Barkley, Kim Barlow, Sonja Baxter, Julia Beamon, Michelle Bevis, Jennifer Bell, Renita Blanchard, Dewey Bland, Brad Bolden, David Brackin, Jeffrey Britt, Allen Brooks, Belinda Brown, David Burnham, Jennifer Campbell, Connie Cante, Sherell Carter, Libby Chafin, Karen Christmas, Terri Collier, Monica Copeland, Margaret Couey, Tawana Davis, Vickie Deese, Tommy Dixon, Kevin Donahoe, Nichole Donnell, Ben Earnest, Bobby Estes, Sylvia Etheridge, Michael Everett, Kim Fallon, Patrick Fitch, Lynn Forrester, Kim Girtman, Tina Grantham, Kelly Guthrie, Wendy Harpe, Shay Harville, Michael Hawkins, Austin Headland, Jennifer Hearn, Carla Hemby, Malisa Henley, Greg Holland, Hillary Hudson, Rebecca Irby, Carmen Ishler, Jennifer Ishler, Alicia Jackson, Teresa Jennings, Leigh Jernigan, Jimmy Johnson, Sharee Johnson, Jennifer Jones, Joy Jones, Christy Joyner, Heather Kates, Kim Kellum, Kim Kelly, Joe Kerper, Michelle Kinney, Lisa King, Keith Kirkland, Sheila Kirkland, Stephanie Knight, Katie Laing, Will Lee, David Lewis, Mona Manley, Emily McAllister, Prudence McCathern, Natalie McCurdy, Brad McGraw, Teresa Meadows, Jana Mericer, Tim Metcalf, Laurie Milner, Melissa Miner, Shawn Money, Bill Morris, Susan Myers, Damita Myles, Thomas Nichols, Kim Oakes, Tanya Oliver, Ellen Owens, Scott Owens, Becky Parker, Felecia Patterson, Phyllis Patterson, Michelle Penn, Kelley Peters, Carmine Powell, Kelly Powell, Holly Pridgen, Angie Rach, Marea Reynolds, Vickie Reynolds, Bob Rivers, Tina Rivers, Laura Rose, Karen Scarbrough, Ingrid Scott, Grace Sherman, Mark Smith, Shannon Solomon, David Spears, Bruner Stephenson, Krista Stephenson, Melissa Stevenson, Jennifer Stickler, Craig Strahl, Casi Strickland, Lee Strickland, Lorri Thomas, Sean Thomas, Robert Thompson, Angela Thornton, Cynthia Tisdale, Linda Turner, JoNell Walsingham, Lucian Ward, Donna Waterhouse, Kim Watkins, Kathryn White, Sonja Whiter, Michelle Wilkinson, Brian Williams, Christy Williams, James Williams, Melinda Williams, Tracy Williams, Michelle Wilson, Angela Woodham, Charla Woodham, and Wanda Yeater.

As Jennifer Ishler checks in at a club meeting, she is surprised by a staff photographer.

Ready to let the eating commence, Cyndi Veale signs in at the monthly dinner thrown by FBLA at Mr.J's Steakhouse.

Greg Holland, Tim Metcalf, Jimmy Johnson, Keith Kirkland, and Mark Smith are just "hanging out" with the guys at a FBLA meeting.

As juniors, Lori Thomas, Katie Laing, Tanya Oliver, Will Lee, and Michelle Bevis know that FBLA is the place to be.

Sylvia Hemby and Trilbia Ausley are the sponsors for FBLA. They also teach business classes at Northview.

FRENCH CLUB

The purpose of Northview's French Club is to increase understanding of the culture and way of life and customs of French speaking people. Through the course of a year, the club participates in various activities. They have a fondue party, sell carnations for Valentine's day as a fundraiser, attend a Mardi Gras banquet, and throw a French recipe tasting party. Anyone who is currently enrolled in French and maintains a C average, or any student who has received credit for French is eligible for membership.

Mrs. Carolyn Wallace is sponsor of the French Club. Officers include president: Abby Knight, vice-president: Rene Zeron, and secretary: Kevin Clark.

While waiting for the food at the Fondue Party, Ginger Gannon and Dana Roland relax outside Mrs. Wallace's house.

Kevin Clark, Abby Knight, and Rene Zeron are the leaders of Northview's French Club.

Taking a breather during a meeting, the French club stops to have their picture taken.

Along with teaching French and sponsoring the French Club, Carolyn Wallace finds time to host the fondue party.

Thinking of all the fun he is having, Chris Sherer studies the spread at the fondue party.

After contemplating whether to have just one more, Brian Williams goes for another tempting morsel.

The members of Northview's French Club for 1986-87 are: Hank Allen, Amy Ard, Sandra Baker, Mona Barnette, Joanne Barrick, Jason Benefield, David Bennett, Graham Bishop, Lisa Bishop, Leslie Brewton, Michele Brogden, Peggy Bryant, Kha Bui, Uyen Bui, Connie Cantey, Dana Carpenter, Tina Chappell, Kevin Clark, Kimberly Coe, Lisa Coley, Shane Dagostine, Todd Daughtry, Jason Davis, Amy Dees, Milt Dooling, Leesa Doster, James Easley, Nancy Eishen, Brad Faulk, Laura Feagin, Ginger Gannon, Kim Girtman, Chera Griffin, Ashley Hall, Becky Hand, Noelle Hara, Kim Harrison, Chris Haverl, Jennifer Hearn, Janel Heinsen, Julia Helmstadter, Malisa Henley, Tammy Henry, Carol Hollis, Jamie Holman, Julia Holman, Stacey Hornsby, John Howell, Pam Jackson, Joe Kerper, Tina

As dedicated members of the French Club, Kim Girtman and Tammy Henry never miss a meeting.

Societe Honoraire de Francais

The Northview chapter of the Societe Honoraire de Francais is a nation wide honor society sponsored by the American Association of Teachers of French. The purpose of the society is to stimulate interest in the study of French, to promote higher standards of scholarship, to reward high scholastic attainments, to create enthusiasm for an understanding of French-speaking culture and civilization, to promote and to perpetuate international friendship, and to reward efforts toward furthering solidarity in the French speaking world. To be eligible for membership into the society, a student must have an A average in French for three semesters and maintain an over-all three point average. Currently at Northview, the Societe Honoraire de Francais is purely an honorary society with no activities.

Members of the society include: Michelle Daniels, Beth Fairchild, Wright Gardner, Mark Hancher, Julia Holman, Stephanie Moreland, Jim Pike, Liesel Wellman, Elizabeth Wheat, Emily Wilkerson, and Brian Williams. The sponsor of the honorary is Carolyn Wallace.

GOVERNMENT CLUB

The Northview Government club is a growing organization that participates fully with the Alabama YMCA Youth Legislature. The Youth Legislature provides high school students all over the state an opportunity to experience first hand how our government operates. The students actually become senators and representatives debating bills of legislation that they have written themselves.

The Youth Legislature also branches out into two other programs which makes way for even more participation from high school students. The first of these programs is the judicial branch of government. In the judicial program judges are elected, jurors are selected, and students form prosecuting or defense teams. The students are given the graduating law case from Cambridge Law School. Then, they go through a process of evaluating and elimination until the best judicial team is chosen.

The newest program at Youth Legislature is the media program. With the help of WSFA News and Gina Gregory, students are able to broadcast their own news show. The students act as the cameramen, reporters, and anchormen reporting on all the events taking place at Youth Legislature.

The Government Club starts out the year with a city-wide banquet, and they continue throughout the year with several mock debates. The first state-wide event is Fall Planning Retreat where the delegates make all the rules for the coming year. The next event is Pre-Youth. At Pre-Youth the district elections are held. The last event before Youth Legislature is Electoral College where the state elections are held and the delegates get more practice at debate. All of these programs prepare the delegates for Youth Legislature in April.

The officers of the Government Club include president, Becky Hand; vice-president, Jimmy Johnson; secretary, Melanie Johnson; treasurer, Melissa Whitestone; and publicity manager, Susan Ware.

Government club members for 1986-87 include: Mary Adams, Jason Angeloff, Amy Ard, Autumn Baggot, Sandra Baker, Mona Barnette, Hamp Baxley, Pam Biba, Parrish Blackmon, Dana Carpenter, Tina Chapell, Aimee Cobb, Ashley Cobb, Kim Cole, Keith Cooke, Amy Dees, Web Drake, James Easley, Laura Feagin, Amy Fraser, Terry Funston, Ginger Gannon, Julia Helmstadter, Kelly Hollis, Barbara Hooks, Leigh Jernigan, Jimmy Johnson, Melanie Johnson, Joey Jordan, Nancy Kelly, Carl Knighton, Tricia Knowles, Nicole Margolies, Brian McLeod, Sonya McLoyd, Teresa Meadows, Morgan Page, Toby Page, Liza Park, Becky Parker, Jim Pike, Angela Price, Jamie Renfro, Ilene Rosh, Janabeth Snider, Barry Spears, Angela Stanford, Warren Thompson, Cindy Tisdale, Stewart Todd, Trip Todd, Katrina Van Tassel, Clay Wadsworth, Tara Walker, Susan Ware, Donna Waterhouse, Jon Watson, Kris Watson, Paul Watson, Kevin Webb, Emily Weeks, Lotte Whatley, Melissa Whitestone, Stacey Whitestone, and Janell Williams.

President Becky Hand explains what Camp Chandler's food is like.

Stacey Whitestone and Melissa Whitestone explain the process of enacting a bill through the legislature.

Jim Pike explains to new members how to really get your point across in a debate.

Mike Earnest and Hamp Baxley participate in games during a period of activity at Camp Chandler.

Stacey Whitestone Alabama's Youth Governor

On April 1, 1986, over 600 young people representing every city in Alabama waited anxiously in a crowded banquet room to discover who the next YMCA Youth Governor would be. There were three candidates, all very qualified. For the past six months, these candidates had been speaking, debating, and raising support all over Alabama. Anniston, Florence, Auburn, Montgomery . . . all had been rallying stops on the way to being the next Youth Governor. The room got deathly quiet as the retiring Youth Governor, Roger Spain from Montgomery, made the announcement. The 1987 YMCA Alabama Youth Governor was Stacy Whitestone.

Since that day, Stacey has been touring the United States doing public relations and administrative work for Alabama. She was named by Governor Wallace as the state representative for National Flag Day in Baltimore, Maryland. There Stacey carried the flag in the parade of states in ceremonies that took place in several parts of the state, even at a Baltimore Orioles game. She attended the Youth Governor's conference in Washington, D.C., and then she continued to the conference of National Affairs in North Carolina. She also traveled throughout the state speaking to local youth in their role in politics.

Stacey will serve as the top ranking officer in Youth Legislature for the 1987 year until April 5. Then she will pass on the role of Youth Governor to another outstanding citizen.

INTERACT

The Northview Interact Club consists of forty-three students, boys and girls, who work together as a group, along with the Dothan Rotary Club, to take part in civic fund raisers and community projects.

In previous years, Interact has worked with Wesley Manor, the Alabama Air Fair, needy families, the March of Dimes Walk-a-thon, and the annual Rotary Valentine's Ball.

Interact is a service club and is always open to suggestions on how to serve the community. The club has existed since the founding of Northview, and strives to be one of the top clubs of the school.

JUNIOR CIVITANS

Junior Civitans is a school sponsored service organization which works closely with the senior Civitans for the betterment of Dothan. Through Junior Civitans, students at Northview are able to demonstrate their leadership and service toward many organizations in the community.

Each year the Junior Civitans sponsor a Radio-A-Thon for the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital. Also, this year, the Junior Civitans chartered a program with Wesley Manor. The Adopt-a-Grandparent program proved successful.

The Junior Civitans have always proved to be an asset to the student life at Northview, and this year was no exception. This year the club was led by president Dewey Bland, vice-president Julia Holman, secretary CiCi Cotton, and treasurer Ben Earnest.

Miss Junior Civitan for 1986-87 was Stacy Drewry. The club itself consisted of representatives from each class at Northview. They are as follows: Scott Applefield, Drew Bailey, Hamp Baxley, Julia Beamon, David Bennett, Michelle Bevis, Lisa Bishop, Dewey Bland, CiCi Cotton, Stacy Drewry, Ben Earnest, Mike Earnest, Patrick Fitch, Ginger Gannon, Cassie Gross, Carla Hemby, Julia Holman, Lori Hoskins, Richard Lee, Robert Lee, Melissa Miner, Ashley Mitchell, Ross Morris, Tamara Mullen, Robert Nomberg, Liza Park, Jeina Rolan, Ilene Rosh, Ashley Scarborough, Leah Scarborough, Marianna Setzer, Michelle Shiver, Helen Slingluff, Jessica Tallman, Lori Thomas, Stewart Todd, Wendy Tyre, Cyndi Veale, Suzanne Waddell, Sean Wessell, and Christy Williams.

JUNIOR OPTIMIST

The Northview Junior Optimist Club was organized to provide students with opportunities to serve the community and develop leadership qualities and to prepare for responsible roles in society.

During the fall the Junior Optimists purchased planning books for all faculty members and assisted the Arthritis Foundation with their fundraising project, Up, Up, and Away. They also held an open house for prospective new members. Winter projects included preparing a Christmas basket for the needy, a Christmas party, and the Junior Optimist Landscape project. In the spring, the club sponsored the annual Valentine's Dance and a spring twirp dance. The club closed out the year by throwing an end of the year party.

KEY CLUB

Understanding Pathway to Progress is this year's Key Club International's major emphasis for 86-87 ending the trend of the past few years of working with youth. The new focus is now upon the more mature members of society. Key Club has recognized that a large part of our society, the elderly, has by and large been neglected by the youth organizations. Therefore, Key Club International instituted a new major emphasis involving youth with the elderly.

Key Club is also a school-oriented club. School projects have been encouraged by Key Club International due to nation-wide money problems in education. Northview's Key Club has been proud of its support for the Northview Library.

Currently Northview's Key Club is in a rebuilding stage. Hopefully, their contributions to school will increase in future years.

Junior members of the organization are Robert Lee, Scott Applefield, Milt Dooling, Trent Shemwell, Michelle Bevis, Craig Strahl, Jeff Peterson, Hank Allen, O'Shawn LaGree, Chris Singletary, and Jamie Holman.

Sophomore members for 1986-87 are Chris Cazenave, Robert Nomberg, Wendy Tyre, Hamp Baxley, and Chase Northcutt.

Ross Morris drums up support for the club's car wash.

MATH TEAM

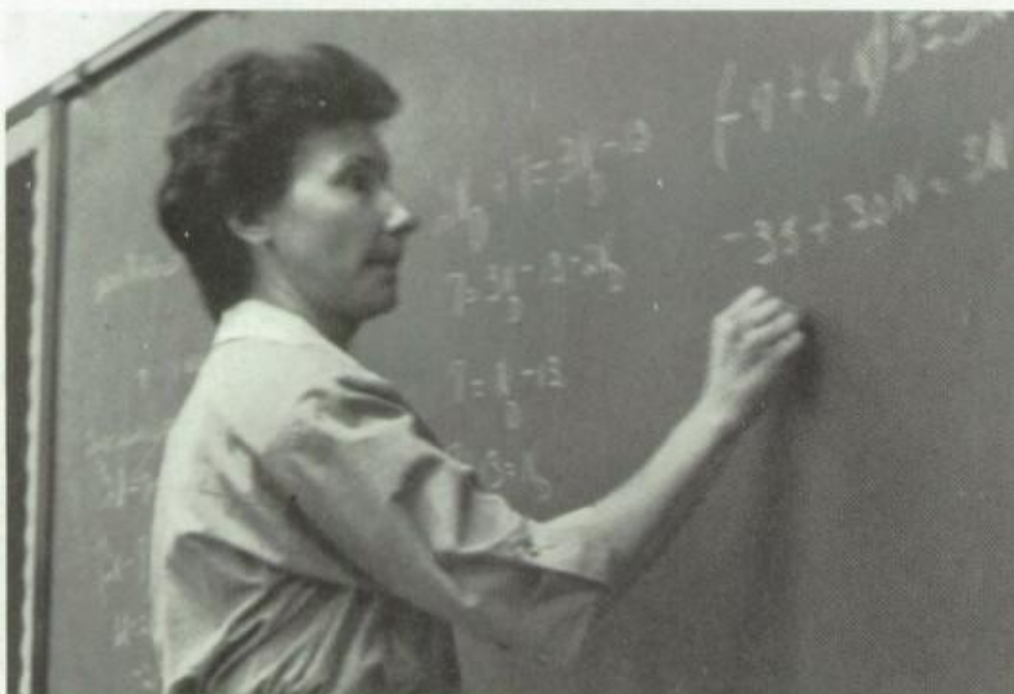

The Northview math team was organized to promote an interest in math and reward good math students. The group is sponsored by Martina Devane, Margaret Lucas, Alice Sowell, and Mary Ann Vanlandingham. These teachers work with the students in the areas of Algebra I, Geometry, Algebra II, and advanced mathematics in preparation for tournaments. In the spring, six members of the team are chosen to represent Northview in competitions at Wallace College and Enterprise State Junior College. Students involved in the school wide program for 1986-87 include: Mary Adams, Mona Barnette, David Bell, Heather Bruce, Carson Byrd, Rick Cazenave, Tina Chappell, Stephen Collins, Steve David, Bo Devane, Web Drake, Jason Esteve, Clint Groover, Becky Hand, Rona Hefferman, Lori Hoskins, Alicia Jackson, Chuck Jackson, Ron Johnson, Chuck King, Kristin Lockwood, Bill Lunceford, Bob McIntyre, Jenny Neher, Namita Patel, Paula Povlacs, Marty Ready, Jerry Rindfusz, Helen Slingluff, Richard Sherrod, Angela Stanford, Jessica Tallman, Ha Tram, Nham Tram, Lisa Troutman, Sam Tucker, Troy Tyson, Richard Veltman, Anne Walker, Mickey Watson, Stacey Watson, Jackson Whaley, Valeria Whaley, Melissa Whitestone, Janell Williams, Lisa Wright, and Wendy Wright.

Math team sponsors are Alice Sowell, Martina Devane, Mary Ann Vanlandingham, and Margaret Lucas.

Mrs. Sowell instructs Bo Devane in the principles of higher math.

Juniors Lisa Troutman and Becky Hand get carried away with math.

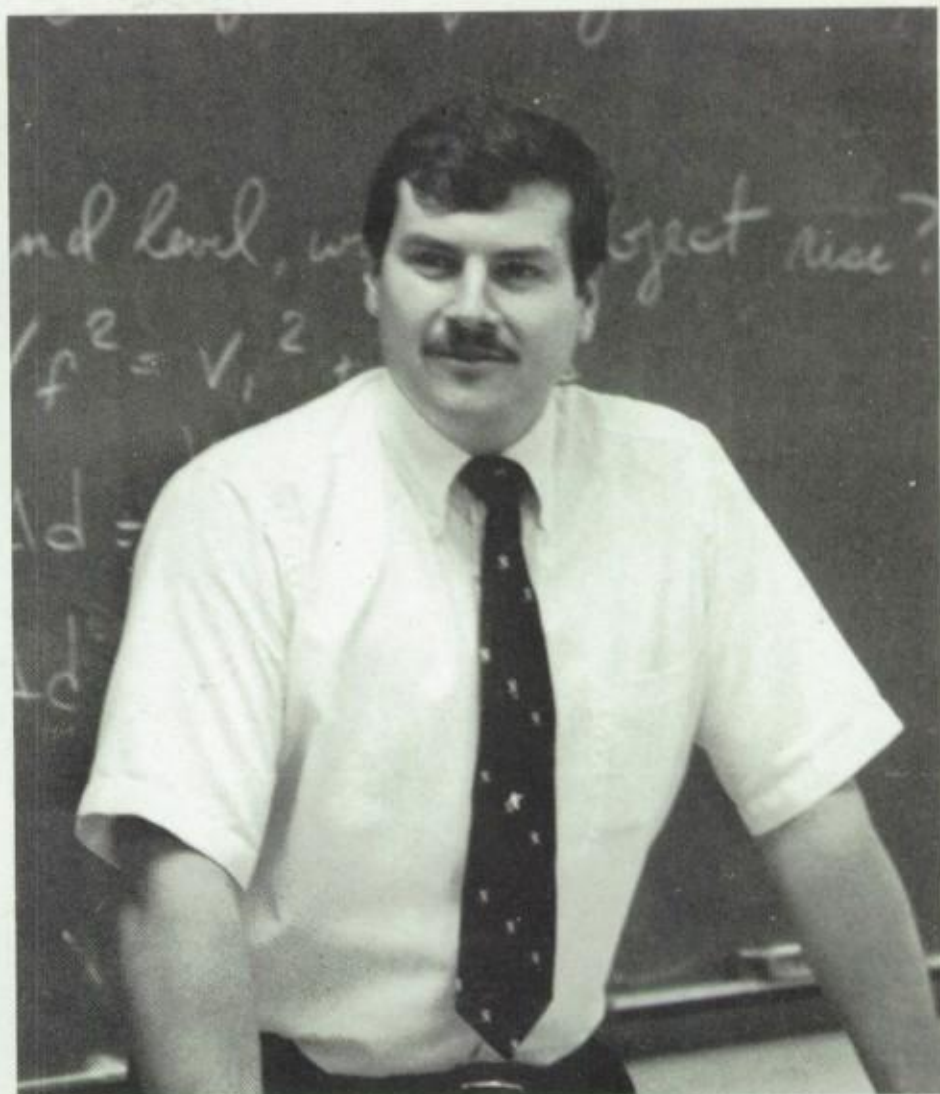

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

The members of this year's National Honor Society represent our school well by showing the qualities of discipline and leadership that have earned them the honor of being a member of this national organization. This year's officers are Julia Holman, president; CiCi Cotton, vice-president; and Todd Daughtry, secretary. Inductions for the society were held in the spring of 1987.

The members of the society included: Sharla Beaty, Dewey Bland, Charles Buntin, CiCi Cotton, Michelle Daniels, Michael Dees, Vince Edge, Nancy Eishen, Sylvia Ethridge, Lynn Forrester, Kenneth Gamber, Wright Gardner, Staci Gashaw, Tina Grantham, Sam Greenfield, Mark Hancher, Stephanie Hayes, Carla Hemby, Kelly Hollis, Julia Holman, Lori Hoskins, Chuck Jackson, Teresa Jennings, Leigh Jernigan, Kim Kellum, David Kinney, Aristotle Kirkland, Michelle Krist, Cindy Merrill, Melissa Miner, John Mitchell, Lynn Morey, Ross Morris, Damita Myles, Alison Ohman, Blake Outlaw, Dennis Pompa, Bill Pulford, Ashley Scarborough, Michelle Shiver, Andy Short, Mark Smith, Krista Stephenson, Carmen Strickland, Jill Thompson, Cindy Veale, JoNell Walsingham, Kim Watkins, Liesel Wellman, Felisha Whaley, Stacey Whitestone, and Sherry Wood, seniors.

These juniors agree that being a member of the society is not all work, but some play.

Michelle Shiver wonders if she will still be in the honor society after Mrs. Snell's computer test.

Rene Zeron seems quite pleased to be one of the newest members of the society.

Mr. Glen Hughes is caught making a sincere attempt to keep the honor society under control.

Stephanie Moreland still is not quite sure if she got into the society.

National Honor Society officers are Julia Holman, president; CiCi Cotton, vice-president; and Todd Daughtry, secretary.

PSI CHI

The Psi Chi club is an organization whose chief purpose is to promote good mental health in the Wiregrass area. To achieve this purpose the club makes contributions to various social services, guest speakers are invited to meetings, and volunteer work is done by club members. The most exciting exercise of the club is a yearly trip to a mental hospital.

This year, the club held a special project during the Christmas holidays by adopting one family and furnishing a complete Christmas for them. It is through these activities that Psi Chi endears themselves to the community and the school.

Members of Psi Chi include: Jennifer Bell, Jodi Bensley, Carol Benton, Kelli Burton, Connie Cante, Libby Chafin, Kelly Crews, Kitty Cobb, Margaret Couey, Neva Dean, Debbie Dodson, Stacy Drewy, Chris Erbskorn, Staci Gashaw, Kelli Gormley, Ashley Hall, Jennifer Hearn, Jenny Hogan, Julia Holman, Greg Holland, Barbara Hooks, Hilary Hudson, Joy Jones, Heather Kates, Yvette Keel, D'Etta Kelly, Kim Kelley, Stephanie Knight, Shannon Laney, Robin Majors, Kelly Martin, Tyrone Martin, Emily McAllister, Lynn Meadows, Ross Mendheim, Amy Miller, Paula Murphy, Tanya Oliver, Laura Rose, Celina Seawright, Caci Strickland, Lee Strickland, Gerald Thomas, Lorri Thomas, Angela Thornton, Donna Waterhouse, Amy West, Kathryn White, Christy Williams, Jason Williams, Sherry Wood, and T.C. SPANISH CLUB

The Spanish Club was reorganized this year under Ms. Sylvia Cooke, and gives students a chance to further their understanding of Hispanic cultures and develops a deeper appreciation for ways of life different than their own. Members of the club hope to promote international goodwill and peace. During the year the Spanish club sponsored a "fiesta" dance and held a Spanish dinner for club members and with the French club, held an international night dinner.

THESPIANS

From Muncie To SEACT

The summer of 1986 saw much activity from Northview's drama department. Noted statewide for their excellence, the department and its members have been awarded many honors. Perhaps one of the largest honors was when Northview's troupe was invited to perform on mainstage at the International Theatre Arts Festival in Muncie, Indiana. Out of all the schools that are members of the International Thespian Society, only twelve schools were invited to perform.

A cast of seniors performed in Northview's production of A.R. Gurney's The Dining Room, a very entertaining and highly unusual play. The actors who portrayed multiple roles in the play included Ricky Bitner, George Flowers-Linn, Carrie Johnson, Heather McCracken, Chris Oakes, and former N.H.S. Thespian, Tina Thompson. The Dining Room is a series of vignettes portraying present middle class life. It is a very difficult play to do as actors change characters in every scene. These seniors left behind a legacy of talent and a piece of unforgettable art for all N.H.S. faculty and students to take pride in.

Associate thespian members are Jacquie Bradley, Michael Dees, Debbie Dodson, Leesa Doster, Debbie Duncan, Vince Edge, Beth Fairchild, Kelli Gormley, Malisa Henley, Julia Holman, Barbara Hooks, Jennifer Logsdon, Stephanie Moreland, Tanya Oliver, Helen Slingluff, Beth Stephenson, Cindy Stephenson, Lee Strickland, Joy Taylor, Rachel Thompson, Stewart Todd, and Brian Williams.

Carrie Johnson and Ricky Bitner share a tender moment on stage as a daughter discussing her serious problems with her father.

Cast members act out infantile remembrances of a child's birthday party.

Carrie Johnson grows pensive as yet another scene dissolves into a new story in Gurney's exercise in character development.

Ricky Bitner and Heather McCracken check under the dining table for repair work that may be needed.

SEACT

Not only are Northview's thespians dedicated to high standards in high school theatre, many of them regularly support and are associated with the Southeast Alabama Community Theatre, SEACT.

Although SEACT's plays are adult plays with adults playing the roles, many of Northview's students have graced the stage as dancers and chorus members as well as backstage technicians. Northview's participants in SEACT's fall production of Carousel included Larry P. Williams as director of the production with Michelle Brogden as Louise, a featured dance role; Laura Feagin and Malisa Henley in the chorus; Jennifer Logsdon, dancing chorus; Stephanie Moreland as the oldest Snow girl, and Berkley Shirah as Enoch Snow, Jr.

Northview students can also be found hammering, painting, and generally helping out with sets and properties. As well as Carousel, there were several students who assisted with SEACT's first production in their own building, Of Mice and Men by John Steinbeck, as well as the winter production of You Can't Take It With You.

Northview technicians included Joseph Blankenship, Dusty Hayes, Malisa Henley, Bryan Johnston, Jennifer Logsdon, Lee Strickland, and Brian Williams.

Pictured at top left: Bryan Johnston, Joseph Blankenship, Brian Williams, and Jennifer Logsdon relax after a smooth performance of "Mice and Men." They clearly have a cast party on their mind.

VICA

The Vocational Industrial Clubs of America is an organization best described by their motto: "Preparing for leadership in the world of work." They participate in various leadership conferences and also in the Skill Olympics competition. Northview VICA is sponsored by Beverly McAnulty and Warren Palmer. The 1986-87 officers are: Ricky Plummer, president; Sam Tucker, vice-president; Clark Lopez, secretary; Sharla Beaty, treasurer; Belinda O'Neal, parliamentarian; with Jonell Walsingham and Jason Williams, historian and reporter, respectively.

VICA members are: Sharla Beaty, Christopher Bell, LeeAnee Berryhill, Michael Bolick, Jason Boyd, Brian Boyle, David Brackin, John Brackin, John Bragan, John Braswell, Michael Braswell, John Bridges, Bernard Brinkley, Allen Brooks, Ramon Bruner, Richard Brunson, William Bryant, David Burnham, Bhrett Butler, Mike Byers, Eddie Bynum, Gary Campbell, Cedric Canady, Glen Carter, James Carter, Putt Church, Todd Clearman, Michael Coel, Bill Davis, Anthony Dawsey, Jawanna Dawsey, Todd Daughtry, Tracey Driver, Keith Dudley, Philip Eishen, Robb Elert, Ronald Elert, Bobby Estes, Kayla Ethridge, Brad Faulk, Sam Fisher, Harvey Flowers, Tony Ford, Kenneth Franks, Vickie Frazier, Tony Galloway, Erik Gamache, Matthew Graham, Gina Grant, Hank Gregory, Bobby Griggs, Scott Griswold, Becky Hand, Noelle Hara, Blake Hare, Gary Harrison, Stuart Harrison, John Hayes, Brian Heath, Steve Herman, Cynthia Heyman, Matt Holland, Kelly Hollis, Christy Holmes, Stephen Howard, Charles Hudson, Vlado Ivan, Connie Johnson, Robert Johnson, Ross Jones, Brad Judy, Brandon Kiley, Derek Kilgore, Keith Kirkland, Carl Knighton, Alicia Lokey, Clark Lopez, Christopher Lovely, Kelvin Lowe, Greg Maier, Laura Marblestone, Tracey May, Allen McMillan, Ronald Mills, Christopher Milner, Charles Moore, Nealie Moree, Andrew Morris, Alexander Murphree, Michael Neale, Eric Nelson, Joey Nelson, Randall Newberry, Erin O'Neal, Chris Parker, Melissa Persch, Richard Plumer, Eric Posey, Forrest Register, Scott Riley, Alvin Rivers, Russell Robbins, Bronson Robinson, James Earl Robinson, Jeina Rolen, Craig Scarbrough, Gary Schildgen, Paul Shiver, Sterling Smith, Eddie Sorrells, Scott Spann, Bruner Stephenson, Gary Sullivan, Christopher Taylor, Rachel Thompson, Stacy Thompson, Emil Tolbert, Bryan Tolleson, John Trobaugh, Sam Tucker, Jarrod Valcourt, Curtis Vance, Scott Walden, Bobby Walker, Wendy Walker, Ryan Waller, Jonell Walsingham, Gerald Ward, Del Warrington, Stephen Waters, Jason Williams, William Woodham, and T.C. Vocational Industrial Clubs of America

Preparing for leadership in the world of work. This is the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America motto which is put to the test everyday. VICA is a national organization for students training in trades and industrial education.

VICA members number almost 12,000 in the state of Alabama alone. As its motto says, the club's main objective is to promote leadership in the world of work.

The Northview Club is involved in a range of VICA activities. Officers attend meetings in Montgomery for several days of training each year, as well as a local leadership conference. These training sessions teach parliamentary procedure which is used at all formal meetings.

The meetings' topics range from fundraisers to service projects and competitions. There are many fundraisers in which the club is actively involved in particular the yearly fruit sale and barbeque. The money raised is used for local charities and to send the officers to the state meetings each spring.

The VICA organization is proud to have Mr. Warren Palmer and Mrs. Beverly McNulty as its sponsors.

SPECTRUM STAFF 1987

"Draw layouts, write copy, when can you get it done?"

"When do you need it?"

"Yesterday!"

Such goes a typical discussion between instructor and staff during second period yearbook class. This year, the SPECTRUM staff consisted of twenty members, each of whom worked hard in their own special way to make this year's SPECTRUM the best ever!

Many staffers pulled multiple duty as copywriters, designers, editors, and computer operators. In addition to all of their design responsibilities, yearbook staffers are also responsible for sales, promotion, and distribution of the yearbook. At the end of the year, they take a well-deserved rest, and dread summer which holds promises of yearbook camp, and the same old stuff all over again.

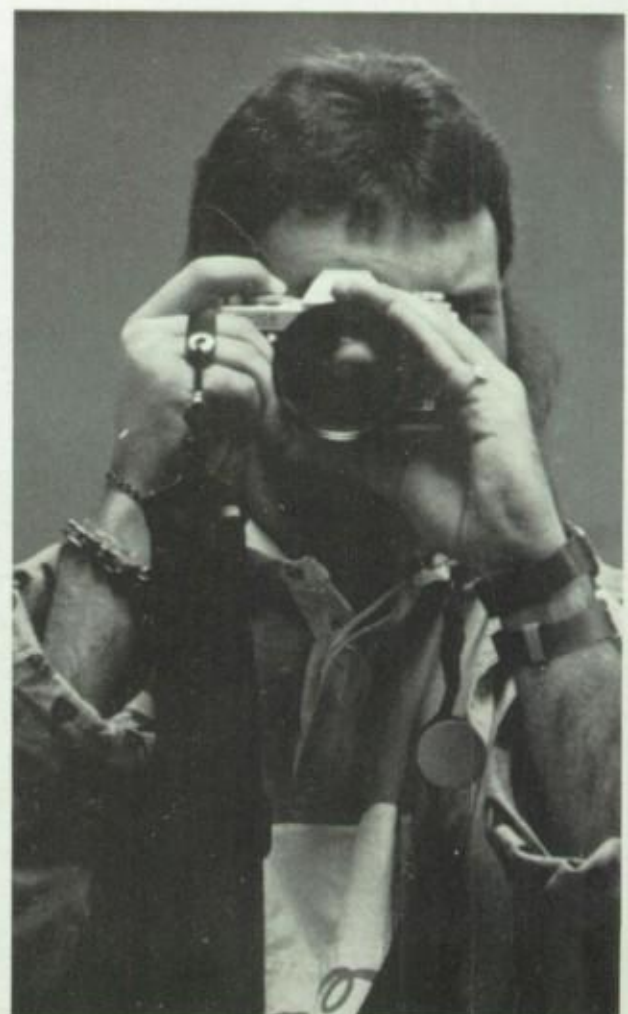

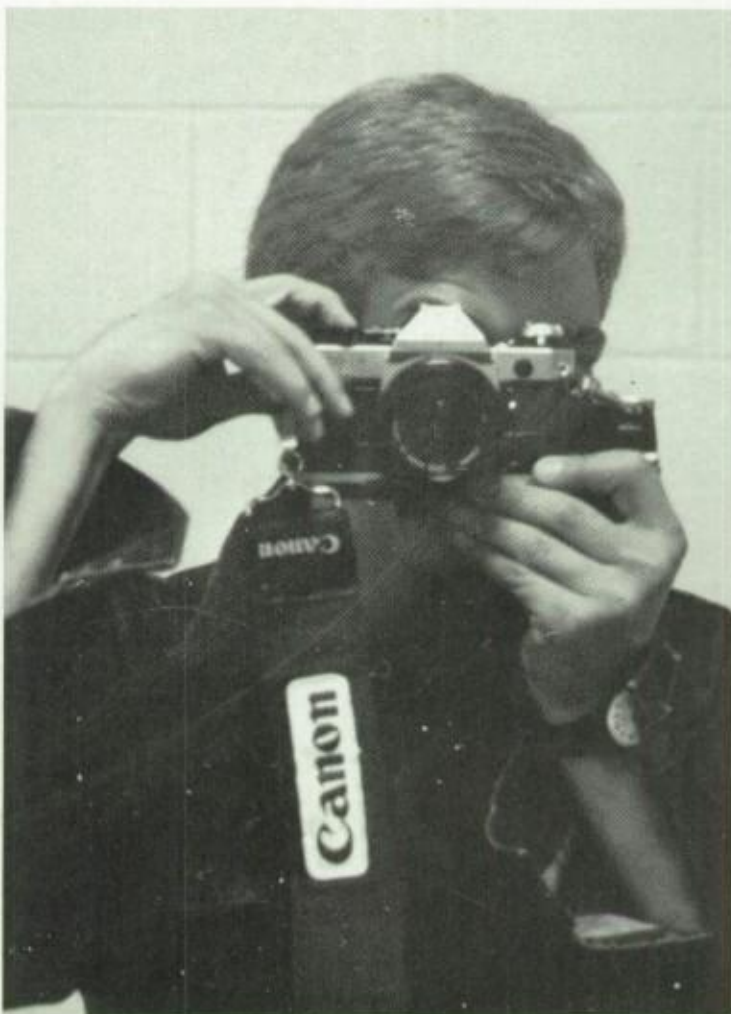

Spectrum staff members take advantage of an opportunity to get their picture in the yearbook — a rare chance.

Larry P. Williams, sponsor, expresses his feelings about yearbook camp on hot July days.

Bryan Johnston, photographer.

Editors for this year's book are Laura Rose, Jennifer Bell, and Laura Marblestone.

Senior members Cyndi Veale, Carla Hemby, and Laura Marblestone ignore all of the evil that permeates the air at yearbook camp.

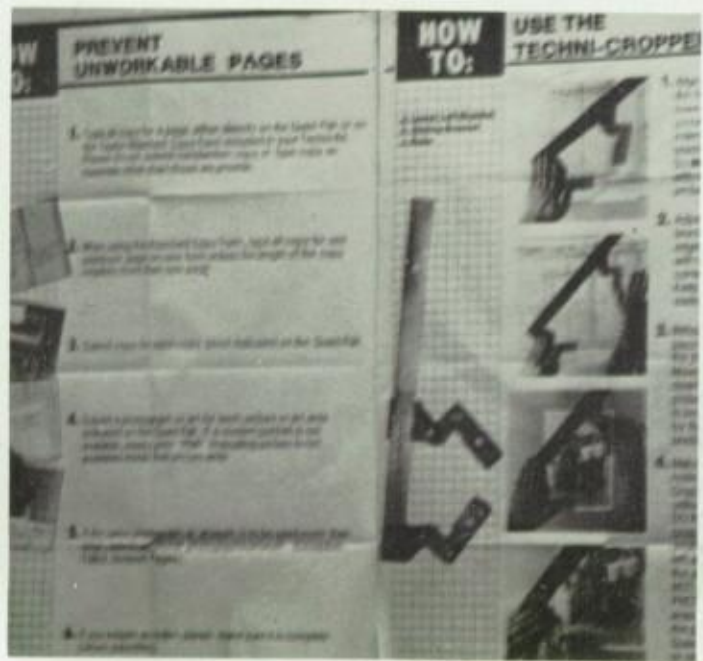

Sophomores Sarah Gamache, Hamp Baxley, and Ashley Pelland enjoy getting out of class to run yearbook errands.

Cindy Stephenson, Bryan Johnston, Sharla Beaty, and Carla Hemby are but a few of the senior staffers.

Cindy Stephenson works hard to make sure her layouts are the best!

Junior members include Milt Dooling, Kandy Wilkinson, Brian Williams, Katrina Van Tassel, Rene Zeron, Jacquie Bradley, and Amy Ard.

FINE ARTS

ART FOR ART'S SAKE

Since the inception of Northview High School, Beverly Hall has been the sole instructor of art, and with this accomplished artist at the wheel of the class, the students get a complete and full background in all phases and aspects of art. From creative ceramics and work with Alabama clay, to studies in observation, drawing techniques, and various mediums, the students in art classes are exposed to the multitude of techniques which will eventually lead to mastering of a particular medium during their years at Northview.

With emphasis on drawing techniques and color mixing, students find art creative and exciting in its four year program. While other classes are usually completed within a year, students in art are able to continue studies over the four year period of high school since mastery of the medium is a continual learning process.

During the year students are encouraged to compete in local, city, county, and regional art shows and contests. It is to the department's credit that in the past and assuredly in the future, Northview's students in art will walk away with many honors and awards.

Taking a break from the work at hand gives Alanda Sherman a chance to smile for the camera.

Chrisy Edgar and LeeAnne Berryhill add finishing touches to their work while Alex Cothell tries to sneak in a little biology.

Susan Ramsey's oil painting illustrates what two years of art can teach one if the potential is present within the student.

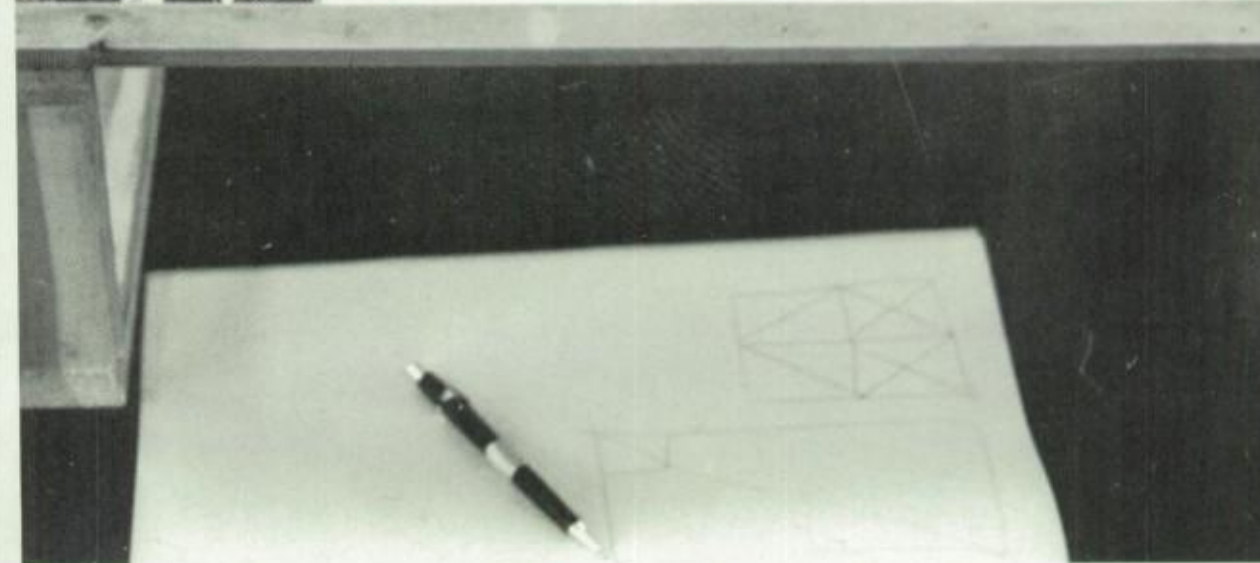

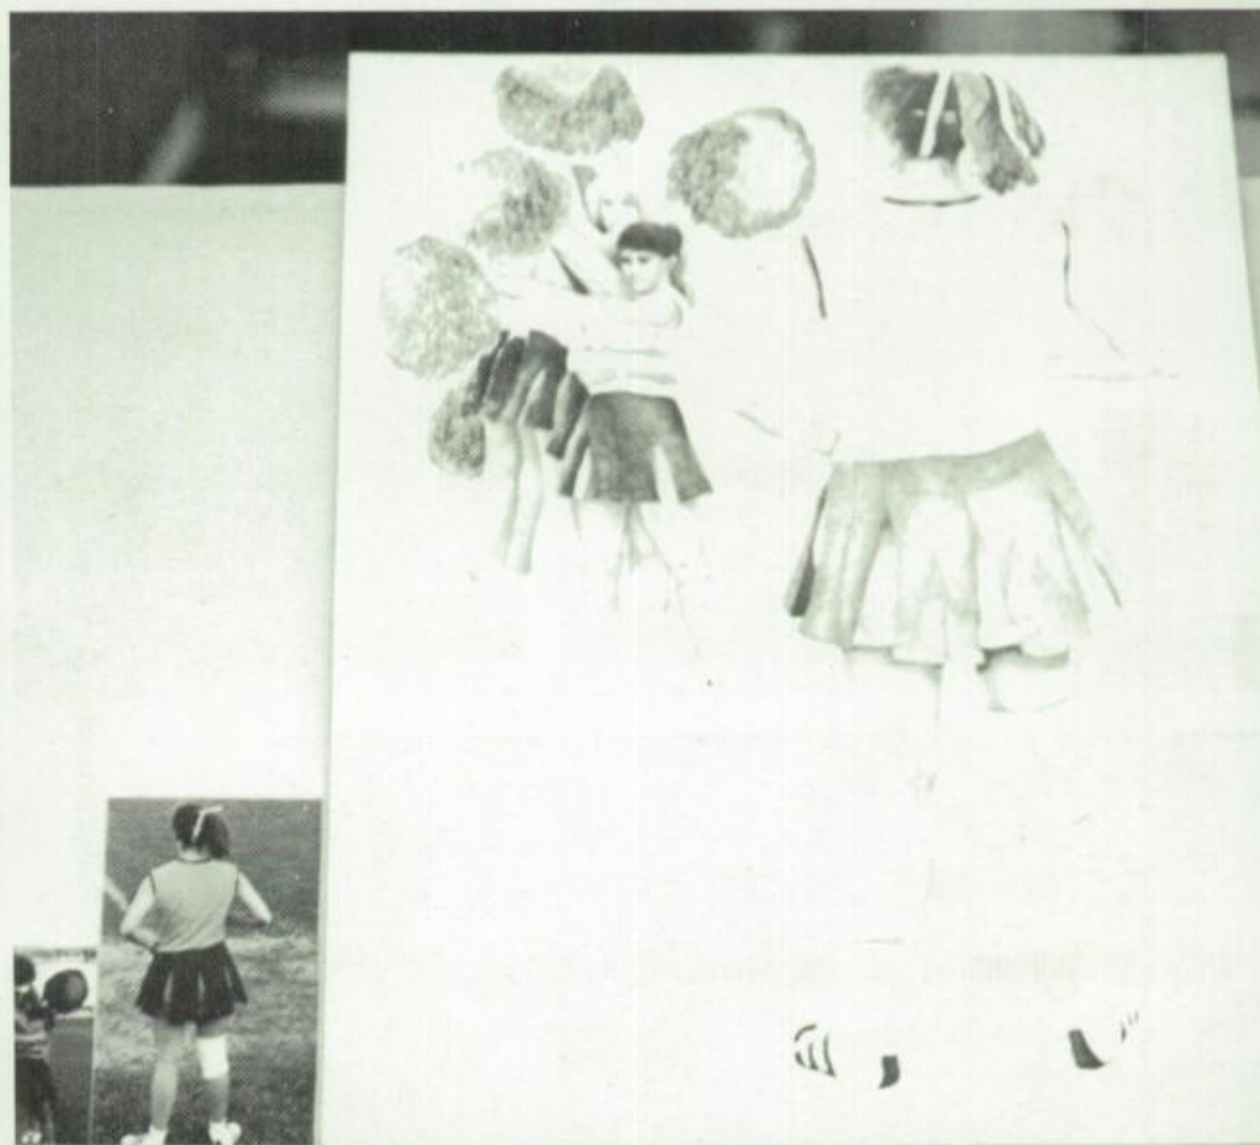

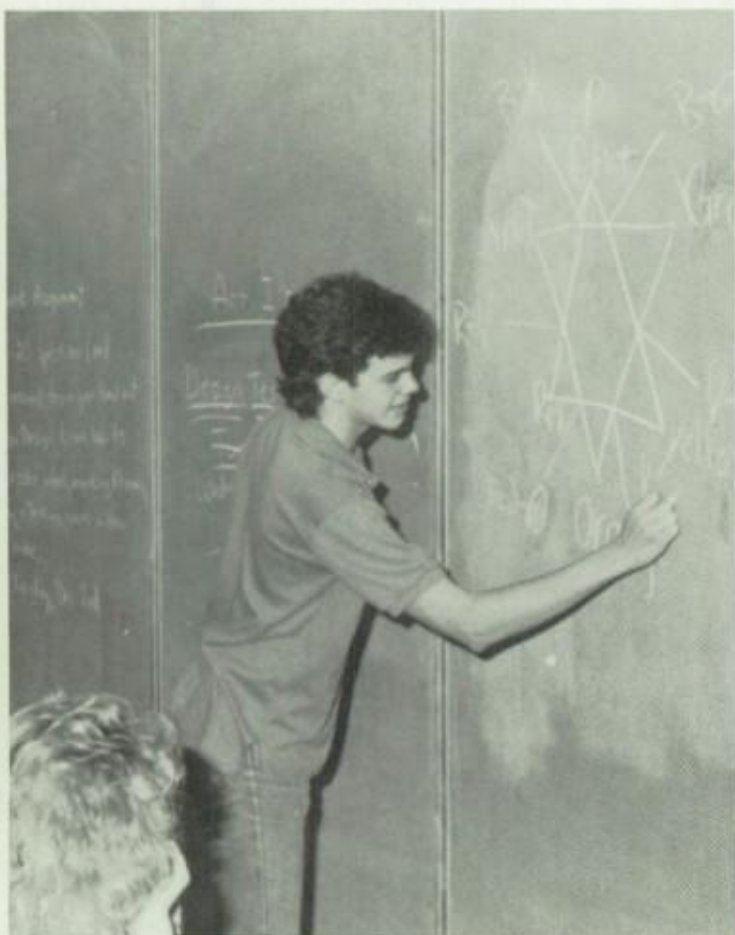

Beverly Hall smiles reassuringly as she gives a glance of approval to the work of Jay Hutto.

Mrs. Hall's pride in Connie Johnson's work gives Connie a feeling of accomplishment.

Jonathan Sullivan demonstrates one of the many intricate concepts of color used in art.

LeeAnne Berryhill shows her enthusiasm as the product of her efforts finally comes together in her oil painting.

Grace Kunz Paints N.H.S.

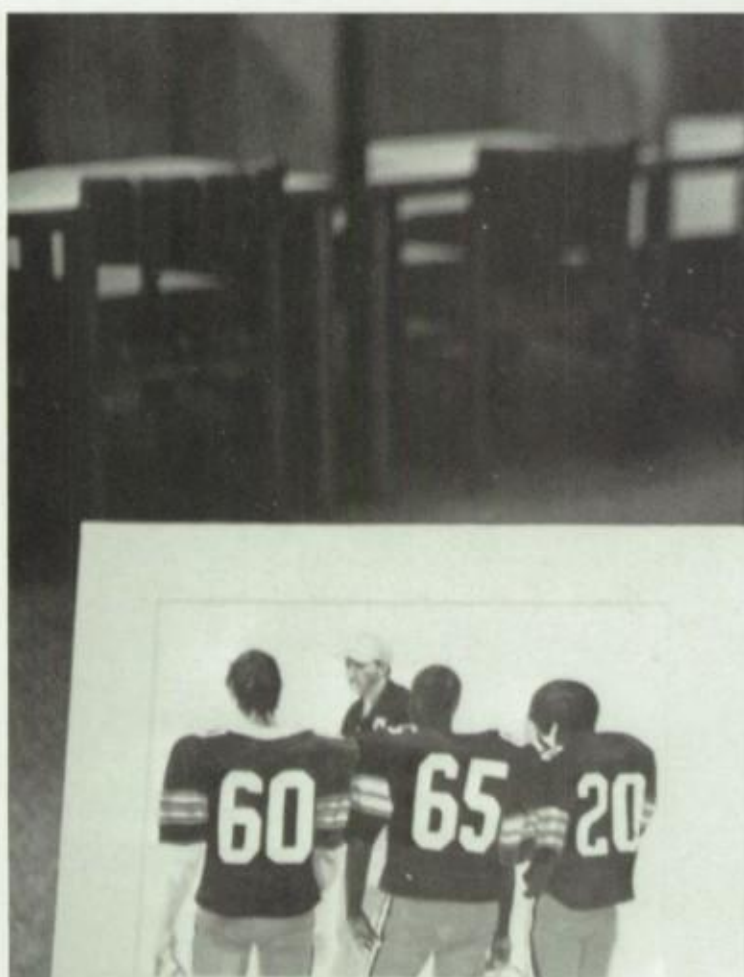

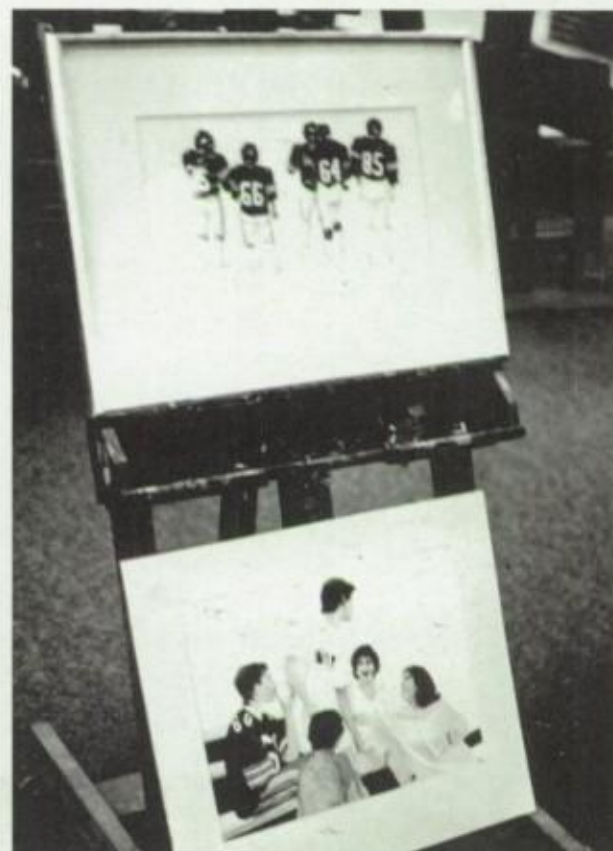

Canvas, pencils, and a splash of color if you please. All of these things, added to a great deal of talent, are what go into the creation of a Grace Kunz art exhibit like the one presented at Northview this fall.

Mrs. Kunz has been showing her work since 1982 and has received much recognition for her art in the recent years. This year was especially rewarding due to the fact that for the second year in a row, she was invited to exhibit her work at the acclaimed Coconut Grove Art Show in Miami.

Northview has been a great inspiration to Mrs. Kunz who, after realizing it was time to begin something new, decided to begin a series of Northview students. Some of the groups involved are band members, members of the freshman and junior varsity football teams, cheerleaders, and drama members. She is hopeful that next year will present her with an opportunity to include the varsity football and basketball teams.

Mrs. Kunz feels that she owes something to the students of Northview and because of this, she has donated a portion of the profits from her work to the art department. She is a strong supporter of many aspects of Northview life and is very enthusiastic about the students here. Northview is pleased to have such a respected and talented artist behind it.

COUGAR BANDS

"Go back! One more time!" were the cries that could be heard from a delirious John Christian for the duration of the summer band practices. The six hour a day ordeal that is named band camp is looked forward to with a mixture of anxiety and excitement every year. But these sizzling hours in the hot August sun are what makes the Cougar band seem to burst out with talent and spirit during the many pep rallies and football games in the fall. In band camp the complicated drills are planned, learned, and rehearsed, but perhaps more importantly, many new and lasting friendships are made.

Northview's marching band was 150 members strong this season, and they looked and sounded better than ever. With new trousers and a new style of show, Northview was chosen band of the week twice this year. In addition to this honor, the band was asked to play at "Up, Up, and Away," an Arthritis Foundation benefit.

Not only does Northview boast the best marching band in Cougarland, it is also proud of several groups not well-known by other students, but who have been recognized with many awards.

The Better Late Than Never program is one in which students in any grade take a beginning band course and are able to continue their musical education in marching and concert bands the next year.

The Northview stage band performs for many civic functions including the Spectrum Pageant. They lead a very busy life and are always in demand for weddings, socials, and bat mitzvahs.

The symphonic and concert bands are the ones who comprise marching band in the fall but are split into two groups to further advance their musical knowledge. These groups work all year long whether on Christmas music, solo and ensemble competitions, contests, and fundraising. In fact one of the band's biggest accomplishments this year was its participation in the selling of Wiregrass Today subscriptions. Every subscription over three months that was sold by band members put twenty dollars into the band account, and the seller received three dollars personally! Because of this business venture, the band earned over ten thousand dollars.

All of this adds up to what can only be considered the best year ever for all five of Northview's bands!

Theresa Gilley
Auxiliary Sponsor

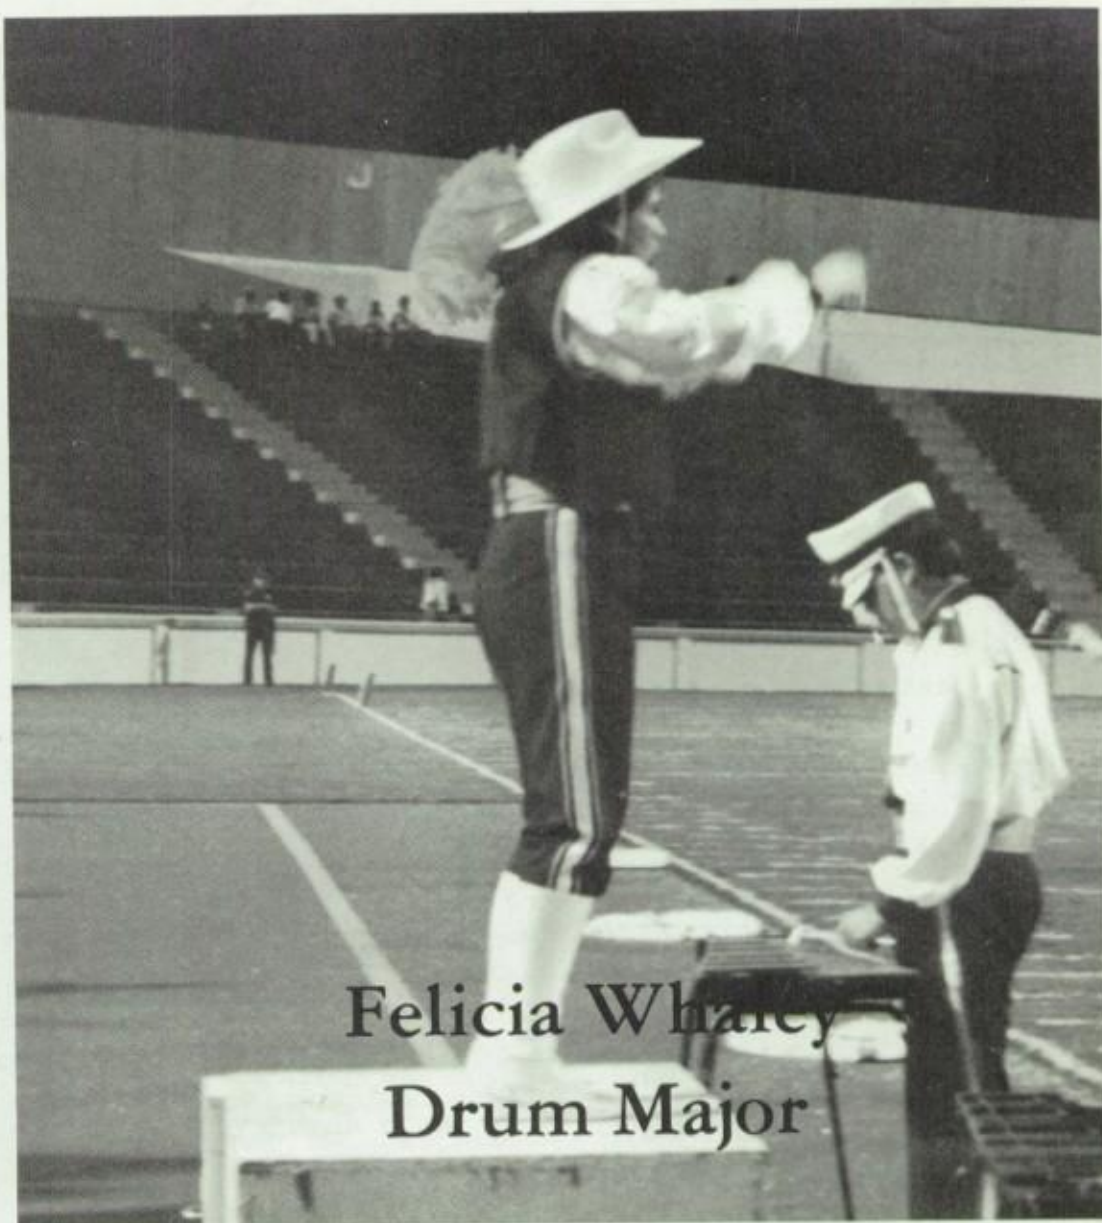

John Christian, the jovial director of Northview's award winning bands, has been teaching at Northview since its inception in 1978. He truly enjoys his job and music in general. When not busy at school, he can be found spending time hunting, fishing, carving ducks, and spending time with his wife June and his son Wyn.

Tim Gilley is in his second year of teaching at Northview. Mr. Gilley is also the band teacher at Girard Middle School and divides his school day as well as his spare time between the two schools. In addition to his two teaching responsibilities, he has played in orchestras for SEACT and with the Moonlighters.

Theresa Gilley made a homecoming this year. A former head majorette at Northview, she returned in 1986 as flag corps and majorette sponsor. She has worked her girls very hard this year, and both she and her husband Tim agree that it really paid off.

BAND AUXILIARY

Heather Kates

Band auxiliary came alive this year with bright, energetic routines which were worked and reworked into various incarnations throughout the year. Everyone involved knew back in April during try-outs that this year would be truly special. A sad goodbye was said to Mrs. Minnie Coggins, and a happy hello to Mrs. Theresa Gilley, a former NHS head majorette, as she was welcomed as the sponsor.

In addition to the lengthy hours and hard work they put into creating their routines, the flag corps sponsored a car wash, and the majorettes presented a beauty pageant as well as

"Cougarettes," in order to raise funds for much needed new uniforms.

The flag corps had many new faces this year, including two sisters, Carrie Knight and Shelley Knight. Other new members included Neva Dean, Kelly Martin, Lisa Reed, Dena Kyle, Julie Mullins, Amelia Kunz, and Autumn Baggot.

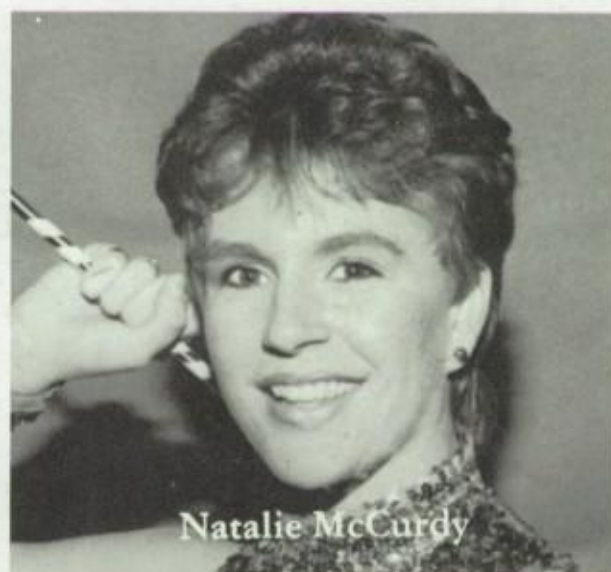

New majorettes included Natalie McCurdy and Gina Tuten. The flag captain was Carrie Knight, who was assisted by Venecia Reeves, while Michelle Krist acted as head majorette, and Kelly Hollis served as co-head.

CHORAL DEPARTMENT

Kathryn Foster, the choral director at Northview, plays an active role in the Wiregrass community through her involvement in Cub Scouts, summer camps, United Methodist Women, and American Association of University Women.

She feels that she provides her students with opportunities for civic involvement through concerts and fund-raising projects. Mrs. Foster and husband Tom have two sons, Mitch and Josh who is a sophomore at Northview. Josh shares his mother's love for music and plays trombone in the band. When not singing and involved in rehearsals, Mrs. Foster enjoys fishing and sailing with her family.

Mrs. Foster received her B.A. degree at LaGrange College and earned her masters in music education from Columbus College.

MADRIGALS WIN COMPETITION

This fall the Madrigals competed in the National Peanut Festival Choral competition and walked away with the top honors. Out of sixty-seven singing groups, the Northview Madrigals were the only ones to receive straight superior ratings. They also received awards for Best-All Around, Best Ensemble, and Best of Festival, the highest award given.

Their selections included "Sweet Day," "My Heart Doth Beg You'll Not Forget," and "It Was a Lover and His Lass."

Kathryn Foster, choral director

Choir officers for the year are Laurie Milner, business manager; Mike Henry, vice-president; Stacy Gashaw, treasurer; Kenneth Franks, president; and Lydia McKay, secretary.

Accompanists for the choral program are Holly Pridgen, Jessica Tallman, and Lydia McKay.

CONCERT CHOIR

Concert choir members include: Frankie Amos, Angel Andrews, Mike Andrews, Jason Angeloff, Casey Benson, Vanessa Brackins, Vanessa Bryant, Melissa Ann Clark, Keysha Cochran, Alicia Cook, Keefer Cotton, Thomas Crowe, Anissa Covington, Cassandra Covington, Joe Day, Wade Ethridge, Kambiz Farzamdoost, Jerome Fleming, David Ford, Dawn Girtman, Clark Harris, Michael Henry, Amy Kelley, Leigh Kelley, Juliane Kirk, Melanie Kirkland, Paula Knight, O'Shawn LaGree, David Loftin, Tina Legette, Selene Lynn, Michelle Matthews, Bivens Mayo, Rod McCurdy, Lydia McKay, Laurie Milner, Terry O'Byrne, Youlanda Payton, David Pride, Cindy Seago, Benjamin Smith, Becky Stokes, Jerwain Taylor, Gidget Trawick, Helen Trawick, Shana Reaves, Katina Reynolds, Larry Reynolds, Tracy Roberts, Amy Rotherham, and Brad Woodham.

MADRIGALS

The award-winning Madrigals of 1986-87 included the very talented musicians of Drue Bailey, Brad Franks, Kenneth Franks, Staci Gashaw, Michael Henry, Jason Hollingsworth, Rebecca Irby, Joy Jones, Selene Lynn, Randy McDonald, Lydia McKay, Jason Moody, Holly Pridgen, Krista Stephenson, and Curt Vance.

The Madrigals celebrate their victorious winning of Best of the Festival at the National Peanut Festival.

GIRLS' ENSEMBLE

LADIES' CHORUS

Members of the Ladies Chorus include: Jenie Arnold, Jennifer Ballard, Vickie Brown, Heather Bruce, Beth Bryan, Beth Buchanan, Shelisa Buckley, Gina Estes, Kristi Granberry, Stephanie Gross, Leigh Guy, Cynthia Harrison, Jennifer Hawkins, Meloney Hawkins, Americus Hodge, Anne Marie Hughes, Deborah Irby, Lara Ivey, Carol Johns, Christy Joyner, Amanda Love, Tiffini Matthews, Natalie McCurdy, Kimberly McLeod, Pam Nall, Aletha Owen, Angelica Pride, Sharon Register, Celina Seawright, Laura Sherwood, Heather Smith, Sarah Stiver, Amy Walker, Ursula Walker, Emily Weeks, and Cindy Wilson.

Singing is a positive experience for choral students.

DRAFTING

Creating new designs for the future is what drafting is all about. Diligent students learn to design such things as floor plans, electrical plans such as heating and ventilation, and blue print pages. These students become familiar with such tools as protractors, compasses, and triangles.

Although the class demands hard work, there is also a lot of fun involved. Every year brings anticipation of the big oyster party in which the students design the oyster bar and make the best of a convenient situation.

After this, students get back to the business of finishing out the last semester of school and Drafting I students prepare for Drafting II.

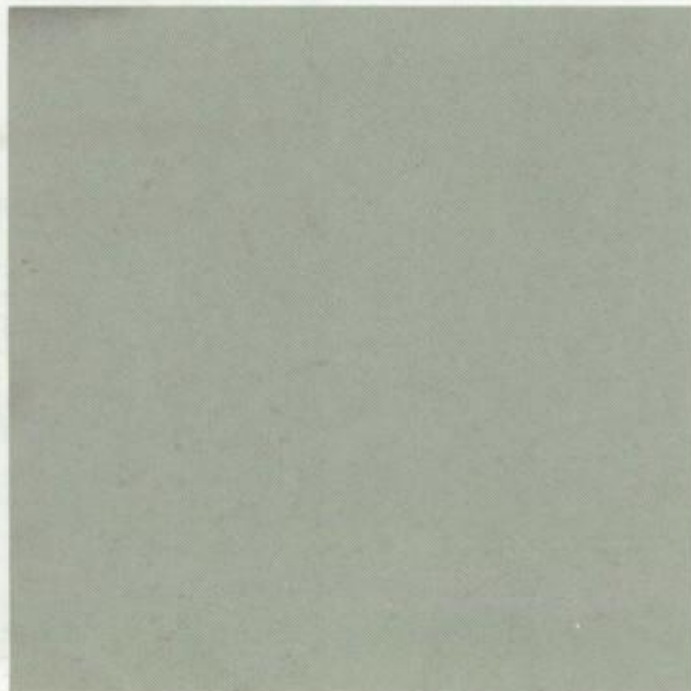

Derrick Kilgore, Ricky Brunson, and Stuart Harrison show their degree of interest in the work at hand.

Chris Parker ponders over the floor plans he has just completed.

Hard at work, Scott Griswold is a good example for the rest of the class.

Lengths, angles, and measurement keep people like Andy Morris hard at work in drafting.

Becky Hand realizes that precision is the key factor in designing.

Experience in Design

Nealie Moree knows there can be no mistakes when designing her floor plans.

Palmer gets ready to go out and face the trials his classes bring him.

Palmer's tips are definitely worth hearing, and so Brian Heath takes time to pay attention.

Brad Judy gets some supervision from Mr. Palmer.

This group of students are all involved in their own creation.

The Art of Performing

Acting includes not only speaking but also embraces the mediums of dance and song as well.

Emotion! Emotion! Helen Slingluff demonstrates how the actor must feel — the emotions the character possesses.

Lots of smiles are the product of a day's worth of effort.

The unseemly may at times be required as with this scene including Chris Heffernan and Cindy Stephenson.

Joy Jones recites her lines only to see that Rebecca Irby has her own worries on her mind.

Facial expression, movement, and timing are the ingredients that will make this scene with Rachel Thompson and Lisa Coley work.

Rachel Thompson and Lisa Coley rehearse their parts one last time before presenting their excerpt from Agnes of God on stage.

Kay Wenzel makes it clear that theatre does include a little work along with the play as he studies his lines for Waiting for Godot.

John Floyd looks on anxiously as Paul Watson struggles to remember his lines for Mass Appeal.

A working human machine is the first step in learning to work well together on stage.

A COACH FOR ALL SEASONS

Coach Sellers can be found teaching health as well as directing Junior Varsity football squads.

Coach Singletary coaches J.V. basketball and J.V. football in addition to teaching Alabama History.

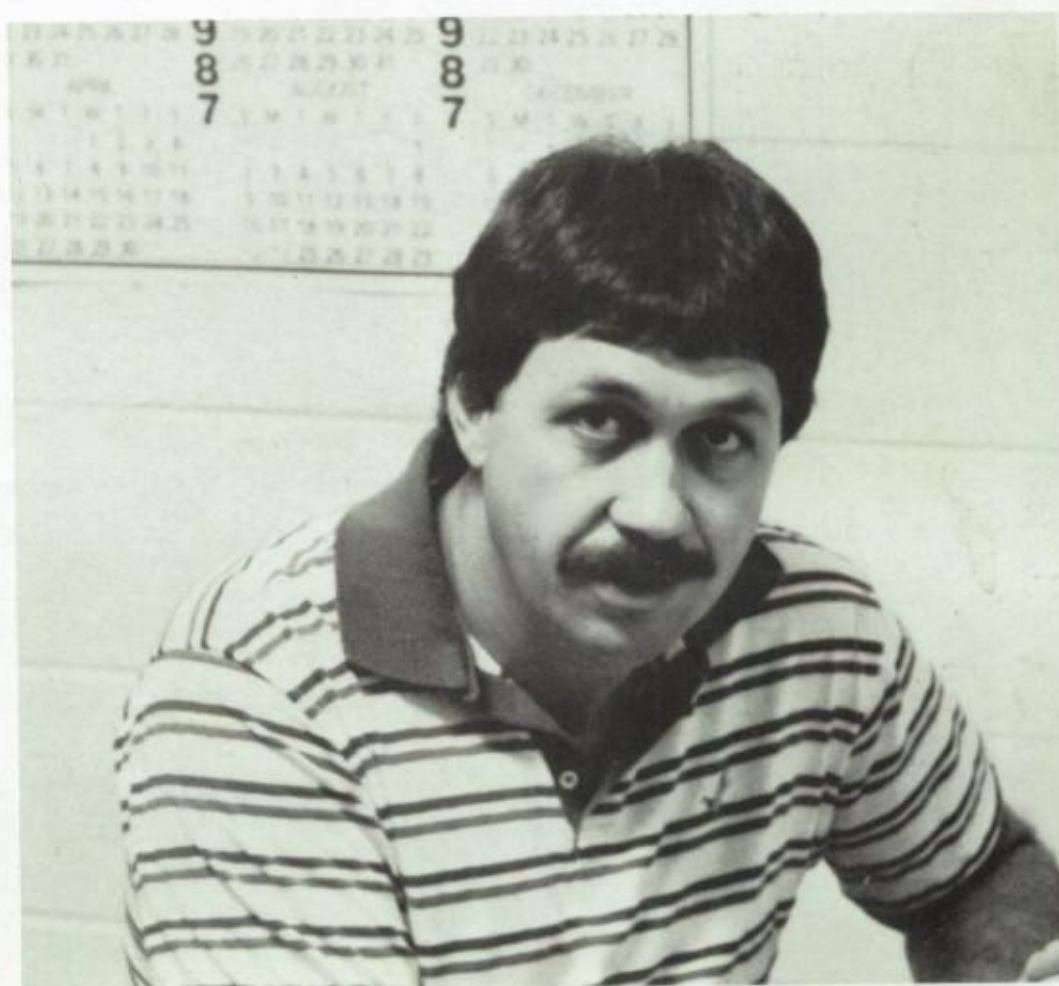

When not making cute faces, Coach Johnson coaches baseball and teaches Health.

Coach Parrish is head coach of the varsity football team and is director of the athletic program.

Coach Griffin can be found on the business hall teaching Business Law as well as in the gym coaching track and football.

Coach Andrews is the one who teaches everyone to drive in Driver's Education. He also coaches ninth grade football, girls' basketball and golf.

Northview 7 Lanier 6

The Cardiac Cougars opened the season against the Sidney Lanier Poets. The win marked the first time in four seasons that the Cougars have won their first game. The first points were provided by the Poets as Lanier intercepted a Jamie Holman pass and returned it to the Northview three yard line. The Cougars held for three downs, but the Poets scored on their fourth attempt. The Poets failed to make the extra point which made the score 6-0. Early in the fourth quarter Issac Salter broke open and ran eighty-two yards for a touchdown. Clark Lopez added the PAT to win the game for Northview, 7-6.

Northview 13 Carver 12

The Cougars received their second win with another one point victory when they met the Carver Tigers of Columbus, Georgia. The Tigers held their 6-0 lead until the third period when Issac Salter was unleashed to make the score 6-6. Carver regained the lead on its next possession making the score 12-6. The persistent Cougars successfully added a touchdown when Holman snuck across from the one yard line. The PAT was good for a 13-12 win for the Cougars.

Issac Salter looks ahead as he runs for yardage.

Northview 0 Kendrick 12

The Cougars experienced their first loss of the season to the Cherokees. After a scoreless first quarter, Kendrick put six points on the board. They once again reached paydirt to make the score 12-0 at the half. Unable to put any points on the board, the Cougars went away with a loss to make the record 2-1.

Northview 24

Choctawhatchee 21

Back on track, the Cougars took to the road to defeat the Indians. The Cougars and the Indians rallied back and forth, keeping the score relatively equal. However, in the fourth quarter the Indians eased ahead by a score of 21-14. The Cougars felt a breath of fresh air as they received a safety, making the score 21-16. With only 47 seconds on the clock, Reggie Pierson connected with Issac Salter to make the final score 24-21.

Northview 0 Carver 20

The Cougars felt another loss when they came up against the Carver Wolverines who drove down the field in the first quarter and scored on a 7-yard pass the Cougars ended up losing.

With a 7-0 lead for Carver. The Wolverines scored two more times to make the final score 20-0. The Cougars went home with a disappointing loss and a 3-2 record.

Northview 21 Enterprise 7

A big regional win for the Cougars started off with none other than Issac Salter who scored from seven yards out and Clark Lopez who kicked the PAT to make the score 7-0. Enterprise drove to the Northview 7 where the drive was stalled when on the third down Bernard Brinkley sacked the Enterprise quarter back for a 21 yard loss. Aristotle Kirkland intercepted an Enterprise pass to stall the Wildcats once again. The next drive saw Issac pick up 80 yards on the ground. The final TD came on a 20 yard sprint up the middle by Salter. The PAT was good, and the Cougars won 21-7.

Northview 7 Berry 21

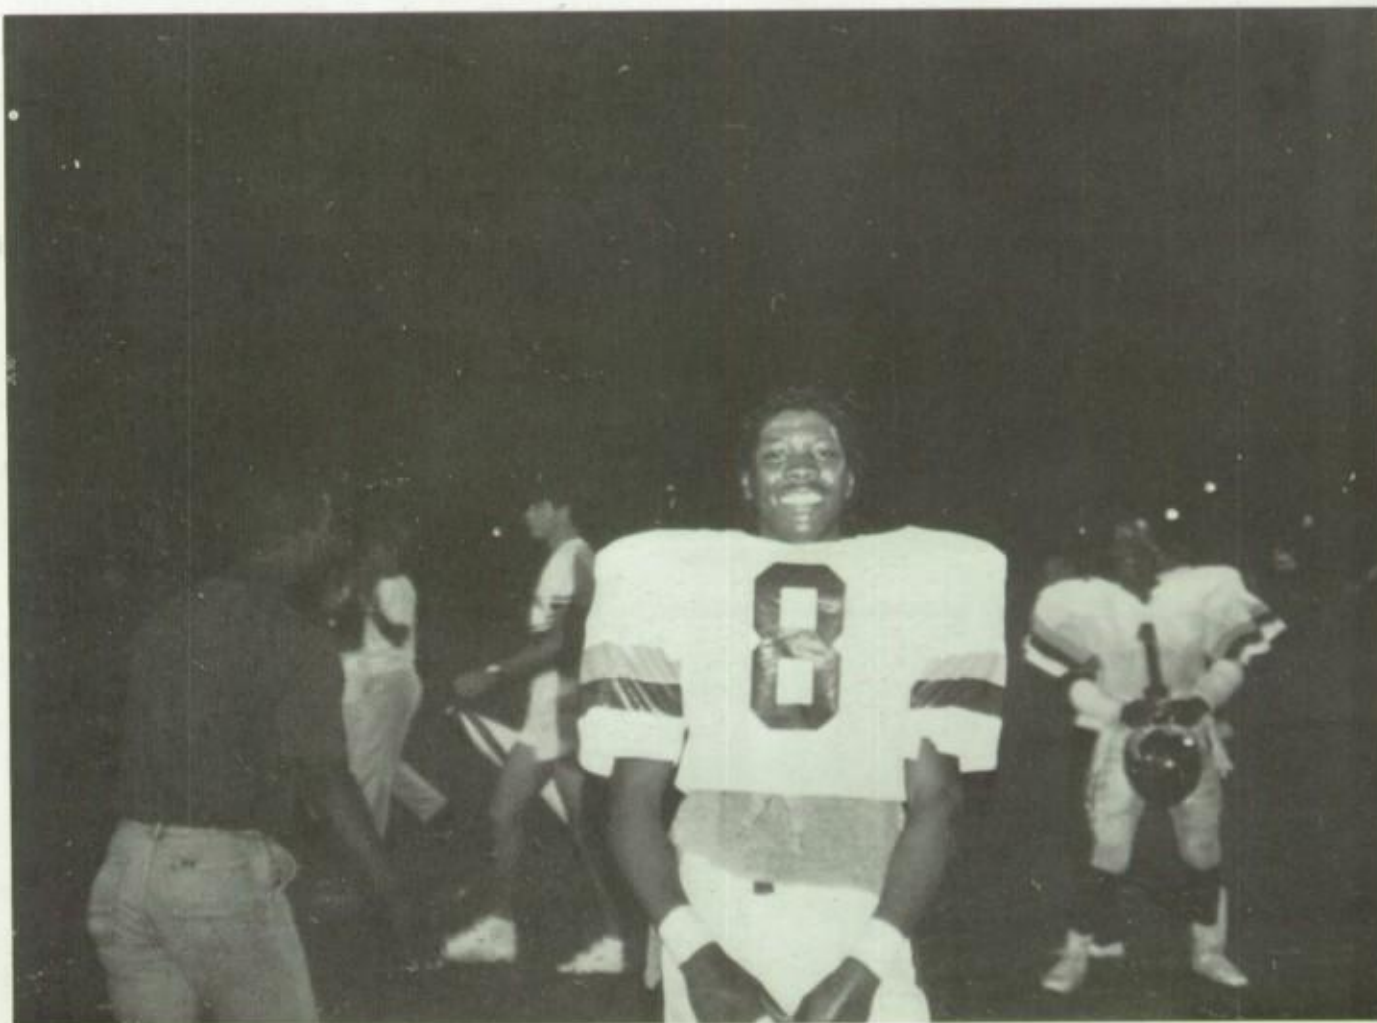

Berry scored on runs of two and nine yards in the first half to build a 14-0 lead. The Cougars opened the second half playing very well. They controlled the ball and clock for most of the third quarter. But a fumble stalled the Northview drive. The Buccaneers capitalized on the turnover with another touchdown. With the PAT the Bucs led 21-0. With 10:27 left in the game, Reggie Pierson hit Tony Thompson on a 32-yard pass play for a TD. Clark Lopez's extra point was good to make the score 21-7. Berry turned back the Cougar's last attempt to come back. The Cougars record went to 4-3 with the loss.

Northview 9 Dothan 13

The Cougars faced a heart-breaking loss to their city rival. The Cougars started off with a bang in the first half as they scored with a touchdown and a safety to make the board read 9-0 for Northview. However, the second half was dominated by the Tigers as they scored two touchdowns. With the Cougars unable to capitalize, the final score was 13-9 Dothan.

Aristotle Kirkland gives a big smile after a Cougar victory.

Northview 16 Greenville 13

Things did not look good for the Cougars as the Greenville Tigers scored on their first drive. However, on their next possession, the Cougars connected for a field goal making the score 7-3 at the half. In the third, Jamie Holman reached Tony Thompson for a 10 yard TD play, while Clark Lopez added the PAT. The Tigers took possession in the fourth to score a 69 yard TD. Cougar Mike Henry blocked the extra point making the score 13-10 Greenville. With 17 seconds left in the game, Lopez nailed a field goal to tie the score. The outcome was an overtime in which Northview capitalized to win with the score of 16-13.

Northview 27 Ozark 34

Northview Cougars ended their season on a sad note as they fell to the Ozark Eagles. The game seemed one-sided as the Eagles drove the score up to 27-8 in the first half. After halftime, the Cougars bounced back to move the score up to 34-27. With less than a minute left in the game, the Cougars had the chance to even the score, but the weary Cougars were unable to add the needed points. The Cougars finished the season with a 5-5 record.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

Towanna Cook, Linda Franklin, Amy Fraser, Wanda Rich, Debra Franklin, and Dana Rister are the six members of the Lady Cougars.

The record of the Lady Cougars is not an accurate account of the ability and skills that the team members actually possess. During this season they faced many upsets by 2 or 3 baskets each time, but the team is improving all of the time.

One disadvantage that the team faces is that they are a relatively newly organized team. They are also an average team as far as height goes. With only one senior leaving, and a 6'1" center at the helm, Coach Jerry Andrews expects a great 88 season.

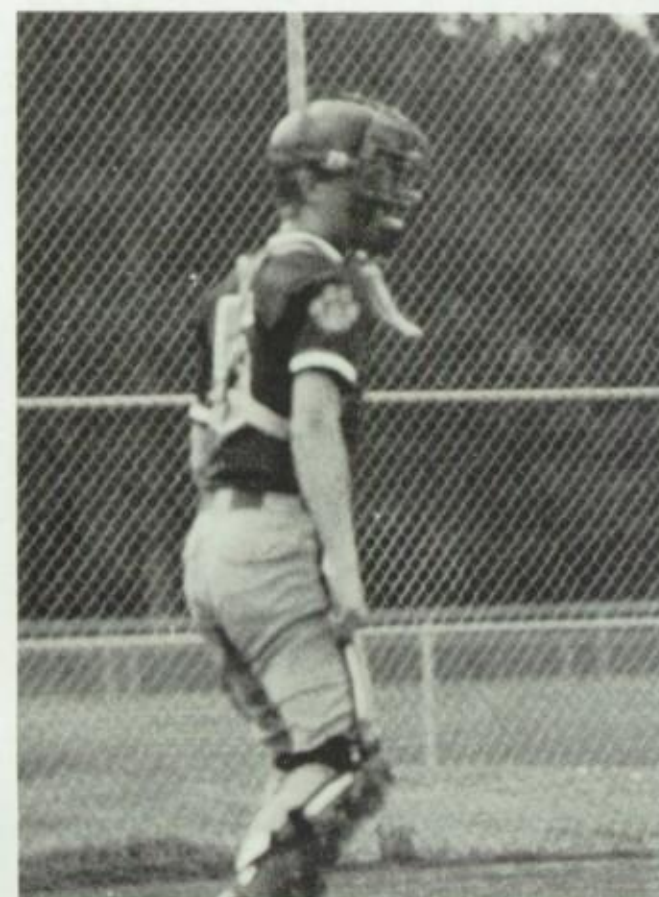

Trying to avoid a blocked shot, Lady Cougars attempt to score.

GOLF TEAM

The golf team at Northview expected a good year in 1987. Behind the senior leadership of Vince Edge, David Lewis, Michael Dees, and Rod Williams, Northview expects to better last year's record of 61-4. Will Lee and Chase Northcutt are also expecting to play an important role this year.

Last year Northview was ranked third in the state. Through the leadership of Coach Jerry Andrews and many hours of practice at the Dothan Country Club, the golf team will better their record with hopes of the state championship in sight.

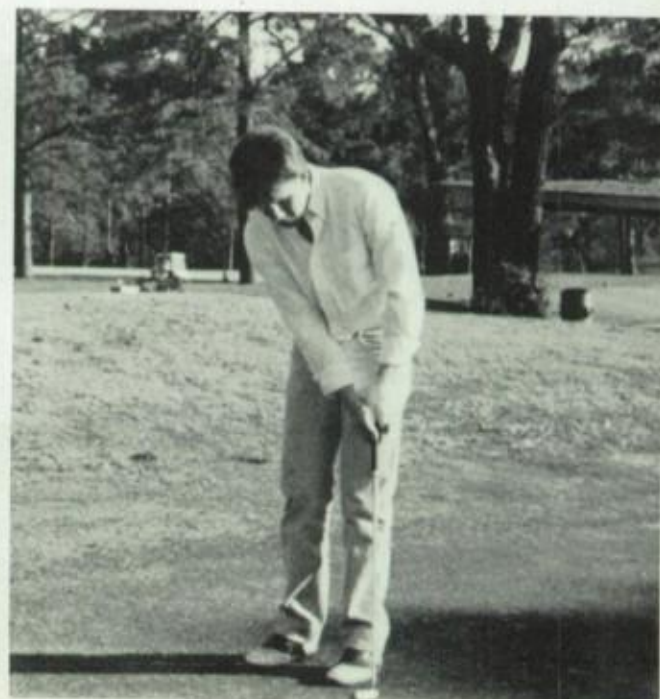

Will Lee, David Lewis, Michael Dees, Rod Williams, Chase Northcutt, and Vince Edge (not pictured) compose part of the varsity golf team.

BOYS' TENNIS TEAM

Northview's boys' tennis faced a tough challenge this year: to rebuild a team devastated by the loss of three seniors. They do, however, have all six of their varsity members returning.

Coached by Lane Dykes, the team was expected to do very well in doubles. Members returning this year are Kevin Clark, Wright Gardner, David Hufham, Walter Joyce, Clark Stankoski, Rob Stankoski, Bill Morris, and Jason Pelham, and not pictured, Sam Tucker.

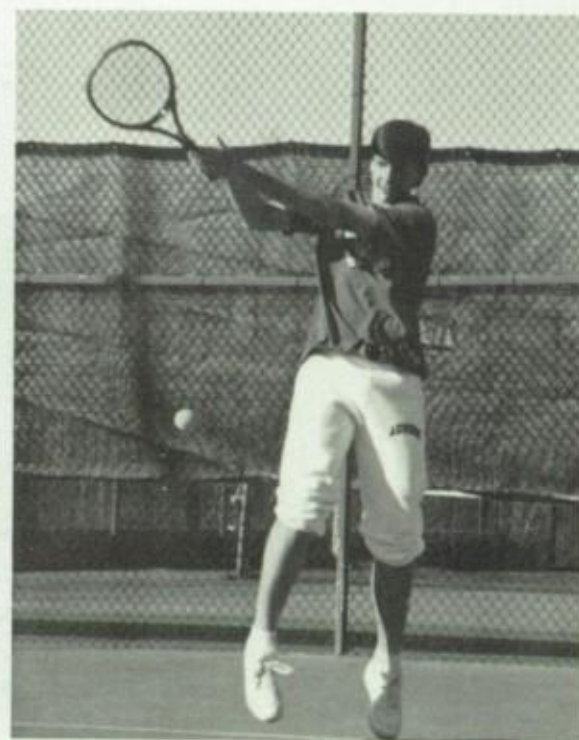

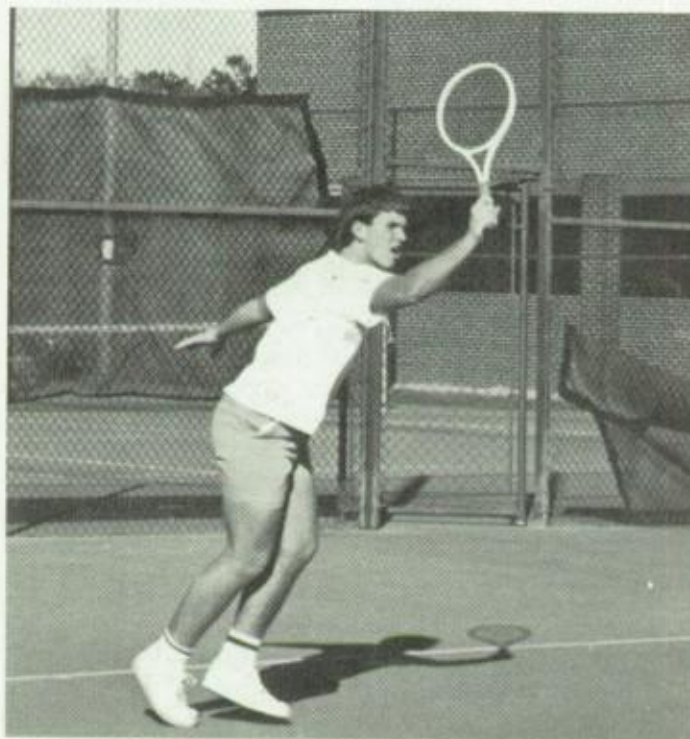

With hard work and a lot of sweat, this year's tennis team proved that dedication can pay off.

GIRLS' TENNIS TEAM

The Girls' tennis team this year includes members Amy Rotherham, Ann Rotherham, Stacy Alford, Dawn Hathcock, manager, Kitty Cobb, Shay Harville, Robin Dunseth, Chris Lilliard, and not pictured Michelle Bevis, and Coach Michelle Andrews.

Junior varsity members include: Autumn Baggott, Heather Lurie, Beth Fairchild, Stephanie Moreland, Ashley Cobb, and Dana Carpenter.

Ann Rotherham shows her tennis ability in making a difficult shot.

Robin Dunseth puts some feeling into her game.

Shay Harville, a senior at Northview, returns her ball with ease.

TRACK AND FIELD

86-22 was the 1986 winning record for Northview's track and field team. An impressive record for a rather unsupported sport, since folks in south Alabama, according to Coach Griffin, don't really care about track and field. However, the Northview Track Team continues to win in competitive events throughout the state and region each year. This year's team holds a lot of promise and will surely be recognized for its accomplishments during the spring track season.

Coach Floyd Griffin has great expectations for this year's team. With several returning members on the team, 1987 should be a great year for track and field Cougars.

YEAR IN REVIEW

LIVE FOR TODAY.
PLAN FOR TOMORROW.
PARTY TONIGHT!

Bringing Politics Downhome . . .

On July 2nd, 1986, the announcement that Ronald Reagan was coming to Dothan to deliver a major speech hit the press. Invited by the Dothan-Houston County Chamber of Commerce, Reagan gladly accepted. He stated that he decided to come to Dothan because, "It is a key city in a key state."

The purpose of his visit was to make a speech on his new tax reform package. The media coverage during the ensuing week of preparation was incredible. There was everything from an article on the Secret Service men who were scouting the area to one on the caterers who cooked the infamous fried chicken.

The tickets went on sale Friday, July 4th, and were snapped up in two and a half hours. Many of the people who got tickets had come to the civic center as early as 9:30 that Thursday night and spent the night on lawn chairs. Only 1500 people were lucky enough to get tickets, but better seats without doubt were found in front of the television set.

On July 10, everyone in the civic center was dressed to the nines, the food was cooked, expectations were high, and people stood on chairs to get a glimpse of the popular president.

As Reagan entered, electricity sizzled in the air, and the Troy State University band struck up a thrilling arrangement of "Hail To The Chief!" He was greeted with a thunderous roar of applause. During the course of his visit, he received four standing ovations, the largest of which occurred when he entered the civic center.

Reagan had declared that he wanted a home-cooked meal, and a home cooked meal was exactly what he got. Prepared by Morrison's, the luncheon menu was comprised of fried chicken, (which Reagan ate with his fingers), mashed potatoes, green beans, rolls, and fruit salad.

He delivered a brief address on tax reform which was televised nationally. In the speech he told his admiring audience to say "Hot Darn" to tax reform. He then added, "You realize I can only say darn, but you know what I mean."

After the speech, he beat a hasty retreat to the presidential limousine, leaving the audience very satisfied. They had enjoyed a good Southern-fried down-home lunch and had been a part of history in the process.

Footnote: Following the luncheon, the President's table service was quickly snatched up by a local dignitary as a souvenir. As the staff went to retrieve the silverware and china, it was nowhere to be found. After several public pleas, the missing Presidential setting was returned for future placement in the museum.

... And Around The World

In 1983 she was a widowed homemaker; in 1986 Corazon Aquino was elected president of the Philippines. She was elected over the dictatorship of Ferdinand Marcos. Before Marcos left, though, he had managed to dip into the national treasury enough to leave behind a $26 billion foreign debt and unemployment at around 40 percent. But Marcos wasn't the only thing troubling Aquino. The communist led insurgents of the New Peoples' Army also caused many problems. There numbers increased greatly during and after the election. Their purpose was to keep the infant government under Aquino off balance. Nonetheless, Aquino held strongly. She was determined to bring democracy to the Philippines. Aquino ended out the year hopeful that her country could defend itself against its foes and begin economic recovery.

PHILLIPINES

"Why not invite Qaddafi to San Francisco, he likes to dress up so much?" quipped Ronald Reagan to the Washington Post.

LIBYA

April 14, 1986, the U.S. released an air assault on Arab leader, Muammar Qadhafi. After months of talk, President Reagan boldly gave orders for a night raid on the Libyan capital. This act emerged from scores of savage attacks by terrorists that were backed by Libya. The U.S. attack was considered an assertion of leadership with obvious risk to lives and national prestige. After being overwhelmed by support at home, Reagan warned as his bombers returned to base that, if necessary, "We shall do it again."

Initial reaction to the U.S. attack was generally hostile—particularly the Russian reaction. The dramatic reaction occurred because Moscow supplied arms and political support to Qadhafi. Thus the Russians postponed a planning session of foreign ministers, and the Reagan-Gorbachev summit, scheduled for the summer, was ruled out.

A bitter debate also swirled around France and Spain because both denied overflight rights to the American bombers. As a result, the bombers took a long detour which required hazardous aerial refuelings before reaching Libya. Of course, we must realize that these two countries are geographically nearer to Libya than we are — thus they are open to more danger. Basically, this attack represented a complete 180 degree swing in policy for American, who are known for their nonresponse to terrorism.

Since that time relations between Libya and American have not improved, however there have not been any further retaliations or terrorist attacks.

The tale sounds really too bizarre to be true. The U.S. sent arms shipments to Iran and tried to keep the whole scandal from Congress and the rest of the government. To Iran of all places! The country who held American hostages for 444 days in 1979 were receiving arms from us!

Who knows what intentions were behind these dealings? In the beginning it is possible that the U.S. hoped to gain some type of influence with the Iranian government, maybe even winning the freedom of hostages held in Lebanon. All in all, someone in the Reagan administration approved the shipments of military equipment — including ammunition, spare parts for tanks and jet fighters — to Iran through Israel. Seemingly enough, three American hostages were released from the Lebanonese.

The White House warned against much speculation in the event of endangering the lives of the remaining hostages, and therefore, the American press was limited in information.

Many details are still either murky or disputed, and some may never be known, but this much seems clear: sometime around August of 1985 the White House received word that the Iranian government was re-establishing contact with the U.S. With Reagan's approval, a few secret meetings took place in Europe. The administration claimed its primary motives were to open some kind of back channel into the struggles of Tehran and to gain attention for some politicians looking for a post in the Iranian government which lead to the arms' transfer.

In October of 1986, General Secretary of the USSR, Mikhail Gorbachev, and President Ronald Reagan met in Iceland for a pre-summit meeting. The U.S. saw the meet as a no lose situation. The Soviets, however, had to make an attempt at coming to terms with some sort of arms deal to help better communications with European countries and to strengthen propaganda on their peace initiative. Reagan was determined not to jeopardize his Strategic Defense Initiative or Star Wars. The U.S. reasoned that the Soviets attempts to kill SDI was due to inadequate Soviet technology leaving them behind in their plans for their own SDI program. After much talk between the two men, nothing was decided. Gorbachev left and was quick to criticize the U.S., winning propaganda material for the Soviets. Reagan left feeling as if he had accomplished little in what was supposed to be a big win situation. He hadn't even managed to set a date for the next summit, but he did have hope for the future. He was quoted as saying, "The ultimate goal of American foreign policy is not just prevention of war but the expansion of freedom." He saw the meeting in Iceland as only a stepping stone.

ICELAND

April 26, 1986, was possibly the worst day in our lifetime. It began an era of tragedy and cover-up that would have the western world very uncertain about further dealings with the Russian government. The tragedy was not discovered until two days later, and then by accident.

Around 9:00 A.M., on April 28, technicians at a nuclear plant in Stockholm, Sweden, noticed very high levels of radiation registering on their computer. Searching for a leak in their own reactor, they found nothing. They then arranged for workers to be tested for the deadly poisons. The workers' clothing emitted radiation far above normal contamination levels.

The same thing was happening throughout Scandinavia with no apparent cause. From out of nowhere, it seemed, this radiation was leaking out and was being breathed in by everyone in Sweden, Norway, and Denmark.

Looking at wind patterns, the Scandinavians decided that the only possible source for the emissions was the Soviet Union. Officials from Moscow denied the entire story, until the following Monday.

Of course, it turned out that there had indeed been a meltdown, the worst in the thirty-three years of commercial atomic power. What exactly happened is not quite known, but suppositions have suggested that a loss of cooling water caused fuel rods to rapidly overheat. The fire burned for over a week, and the fallout will be around for years to come. The Soviets' cover-up caused further distrust and left the world with a legacy of fear that will last several lifetimes.

CHERNOBYL Year In Review 197

An Ironic Day in Alabama

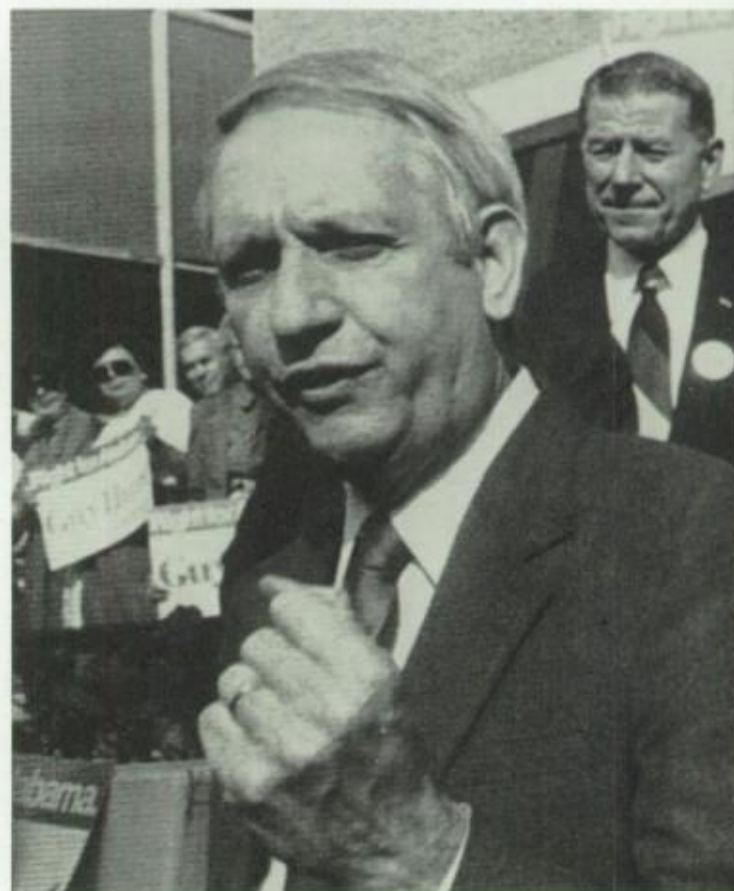

occurred on January 19, 1987. People across the state celebrated the birthdays of Martin Luther King, Jr. and Robert E. Lee, as well as the inauguration of the first Republican governor since 1874.

Martin Luther King, a strong fighter for equal rights, was known for the march he led from Selma, Alabama, to the steps of the state capitol in Montgomery. His work with the NAACP was remarkable and through his valiant efforts, he achieved his dream that "One day, all men shall be free." He was assassinated on April 4, 1968, in Memphis, Tennessee. Dr. King was certainly a positive asset to the people in the state of Alabama and throughout the nation.

On the day that Dr. King's birthday was celebrated, a historic ceremony took place. Governor Guy Hunt took his oath of office and "began a new day in Alabama." He succeeded the governor, George C. Wallace, who played a large role in history with his fight for states' rights. Over the decades that Wallace ruled Alabama politics, there were many changes in the ruling elements of the state. Attitudes changed, not only those of the governor but those of the people of Alabama as well. Bigotism was reduced, federal judges' decisions which affected only Alabamians and other southern states were enforced, and state growth took flight in industry and new businesses. All much to the credit and dedication of the hard work of the governor. As he stepped down on January 19 to finally turn the governorship over to Hunt, the Wallasonian era was closed, and a new era of political rule entered the scene.

With the inauguration of Hunt, a year of nasty politics between political parties and inner-party disturbances was quieted as the new governor took office. With expectations of great accomplishments, his new day in Alabama will prove to be a challenging four years.

The Honorable Guy Hunt made his final appearance before election day, November 4th.

After many a year in Alabama politics, the outgoing Governor George C. Wallace steps down from the political scene. This memorable moment in history will never be forgotten.

Martin Luther King, a true leader in his affairs is shown at a peaceful moment in his life.

Selected by a Panel . . .

GIRLS' AND BOYS' STATE

Cici Cotton and David Kinney were delegates selected by a panel of the American Legion Auxilliary and the American Legion, respectively, on the basis of leadership and moral character from the rising seniors of Northview. Girls' and Boys' State allows two students from each high school to be involved in state politics by discovering how and why it works. Throughout these programs the students get acquainted with the leaders of Alabama, including the honorable Governor George Wallace. These two students represented Northview quite well, and they are both truly well-rounded students.

Cici has been involved in cheerleading for four years and has also maintained an A average throughout her years at Northview. David, too, has been involved in the sports scene where he plays soccer. David also played a big part in the concert band organized through the school.

The students personally participate in various activities throughout the summer week of political oriented scene. Local, county, and state governments, along with the two-party system, party caucuses, conventions, and campaigns are a few of the many areas covered in this once in a lifetime event.

David Kinney states that at Boys' State, he went, he saw, he conquered!

Cici exclaims over the many new friends and newly found knowledge she received at Girls' State.

From Sea to Shining Sea

On Independence Day in 1986, the U.S. celebrated a very special lady's birthday. The Statue of Liberty turned 100 years old. For this event New York City turned into a four day party zone. On July 3, 1986, President Reagan pushed the button to light her newly reconstructed torch. On the days that followed, the nation watched as New York harbor filled with ships and sea vessels of every size. Twenty-two tall ships sailed into New York Harbor to watch over the festivities while boats, destroyers, aircraft carriers, and private launches added to the melee of the harbor. Over 20,000 sailors on leave mingled with tourists from all over the country to join in the celebration.

In an act that symbolized the spirit of Miss Liberty herself, 16,000 immigrants participated in a nationally televised naturalization ceremony. Lady Liberty celebrated by showing off her renovations which were completed through contributions of the American people. The contributions which totaled over $252 million, four times the amount needed, were raised by the chairman of the celebration, Lee Iacocca, Chrysler Corporation chairman, who is himself the son of immigrants.

New Yorkers and tourists celebrated with a two-hour fireworks display, the largest ever, while concerts, performances, and the finale of the party, an extravaganza that took over the Giants' stadium with a cast of literally thousands, saluted the music of America from Broadway to Hollywood and all varieties in between.

Happy Birthday Lady Liberty!

Hands Across America was yet another attempt to call attention to the problems of hunger in the United States as well as the world. It was possibly the most involved effort of pulling together all Americans in a singular and united effort as citizens from New York to California joined hands across a 4,152 mile route that covered sixteen states, two deserts, ten rivers, and two mountain ranges.

The hand holders were asked to donate between ten and thirty-five dollars to participate in the event which took place on May 25, 1986. The participants joined hands for fifteen minutes starting at 3:00 p.m. EDT and sang "America the Beautiful," "We Are the World," and "Hands Across America."

To connect the gaps in the chain, organizers strung miles of red and blue ribbon and rope. It was an impressive spectacle to be sure, but the question remains: What can a human chain really do to help the homeless? From the treasury, sixty percent was scheduled to go to charities and forty percent for "innovative ideas."

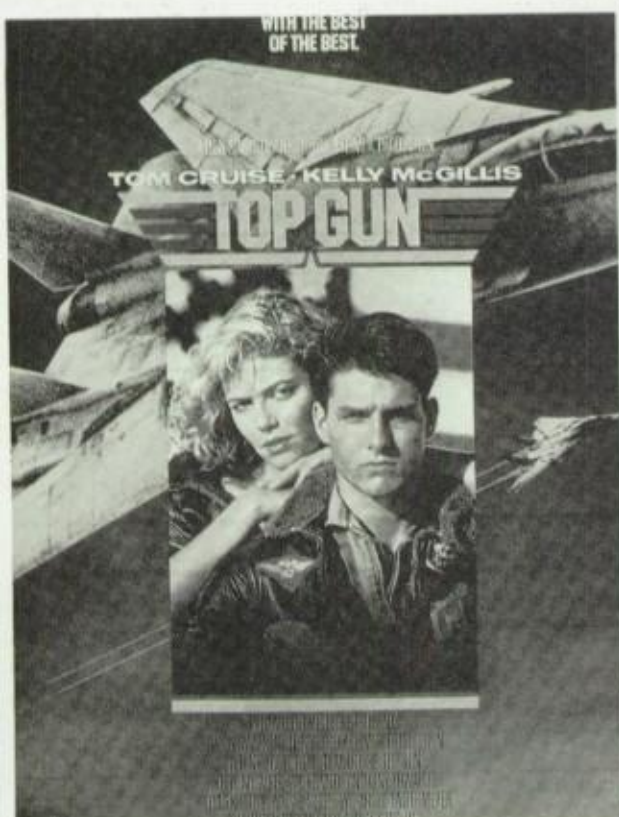

Many eyebrows were raised at the appropriation of the funds, but when it finally came off, the smiles replaced them, if only for a little while.

Dothan's own Hands Across America was scheduled at a later date in the summer. Church leaders and groups organized the event which was held on a Sunday afternoon. Unfortunately, the fierce thunderclouds and downpour of showers thwarted the celebration, and few braved the weather in order to participate.

BEST AND WORST OF '86

The top movie of 1986 donned the best actor of the year. TOP GUN with Tom Cruise grossed $162 million from May 16 to November 10, 1986.

The best actress of the year was Sigourney Weaver. Starring in Alien, this "Ram-bolina" figure captured everyone's eye as the bossy marine leader fighting against a fourteen foot monster.

Need we mention the worst soap climax? Well, it was the day Bobby Ewing returned to Dallas, in the shower! Surprise, Pam!

The best comeback occurred when the Monkees returned to the scene. These 60's veterans reunited for a seven month tour of the U.S. The old songs were back on the charts, and the old shows were on MTV.

The best sitcom of '86, no doubt, was Moonlighting. With Cybill Shephard and Bruce Willis at the helm, the show was nominated for sixteen Emmys.

Matt Frewer, better known as Max Hedroom, was by all means the best commercial star of 1986 who fascinated audiences everywhere.

The best charity concert of the year was the Amnesty tour to help end political imprisonment and torture around the world.

The best phrase of 1986 was spoken by Jon Lovitz, star of Saturday Night Live. "Yeah, that's it. That's the ticket."

Howard the Duck won the title of worst movie! Need we say more?!?!

SYMBOLS OF VICTORY . . . DEFEAT

November 29, 1986

Friends against friends — relatives against relatives — families divided — friends and enemies united. Just a football game??

No. It was the 1986 Auburn vs. Alabama game. It was excitement and hope. It was eighty-thousand screaming maniacs in Legion Field split fifty-fifty in unswerving allegiance. Alabama was going for three straight wins over its arch rival. Auburn was trying to reclaim the title after two last-minute defeats in previous years.

The great crescendo of WAR EAGLE! and ROLL TIDE! reached ten on the Richter scale. For the next three hours every play would bring a deafening roar. One side's misfortune was to be the other side's GLORY!

Alabama took control and built a 17-7 lead at the half with Bobby Humphrey dazzling the Auburn defense. However, in the third quarter, a strange thing happened. Van Tiffin missed a field goal. Auburn responded with a powerful touchdown drive which made the score 17-14. The drama of last second heroics built up again. Suddenly, Auburn took control with five minutes remaining, and marched to a firstdown at the Tide's four with only forty-two seconds to go.

The Auburn sidelines were in total confusion! Split-end Tillman was in the game by mistake! Too Late!! Burger called the play- reverse left! Tillman runs the ball, body leans right, head fakes left, dives into the endzone — TOUCHDOWN AUBURN! The Tigers had defeated the Tide, 21-17!

After making the winning touchdown, Lawyer Tillman enjoys the victory.

All American candidate Tracy Rocker, pursues Gator quarterback in an attempt to sack him.

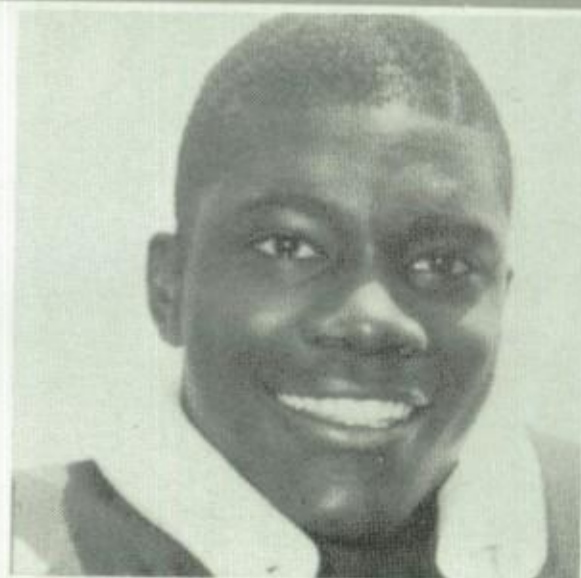

Andre Bruce shows his abilities as he tackles a Tennessee running back.

Citrus Bowl MVP, Aundray Bruce, seems very pleased with his performance in the Tigers' victorious finale.

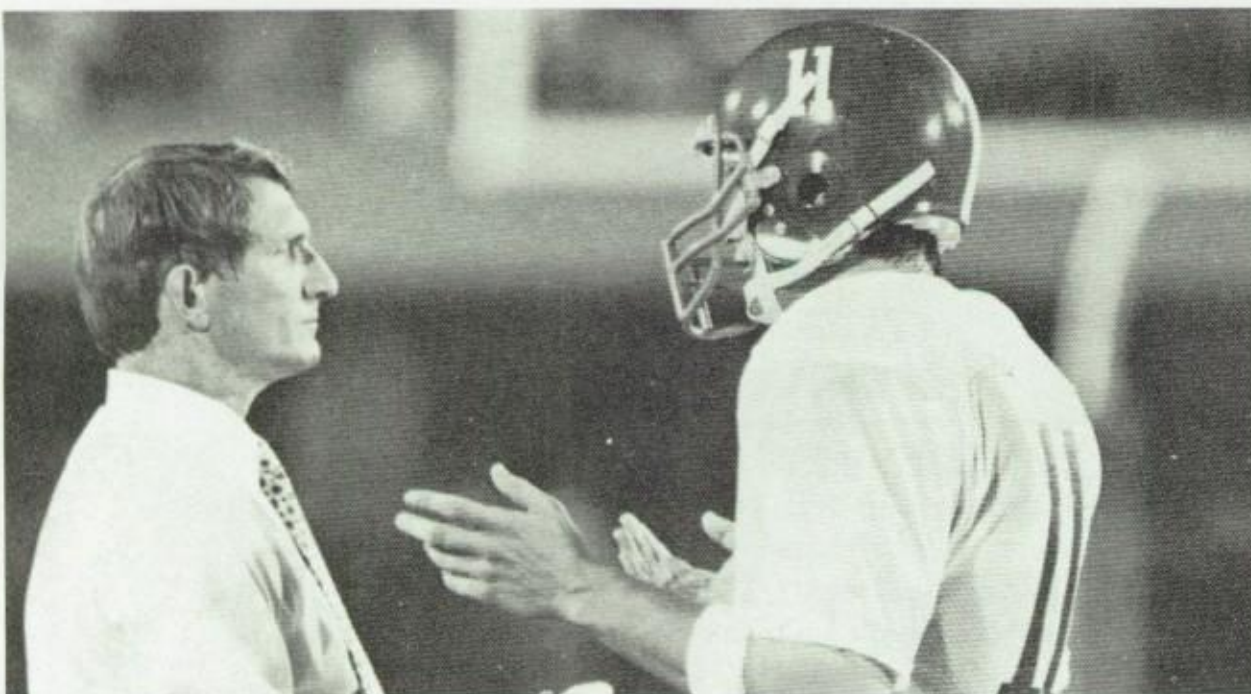

Citrus Bowl in Orlando

Auburn celebrated the end of an exciting victorious season with a win over Southern California in this year's Citrus Bowl. Auburn's defense again rose to the occasion refusing to allow Southern Cal into the end zone. Southern Cal's only touchdown came from a pass interception early in the game. Throughout the game it seemed the powerful Auburn defense was led by linebacker Andrea Bruce, later named the game's Most Valuable Player. The game ended in a 16-7 victory for Auburn.

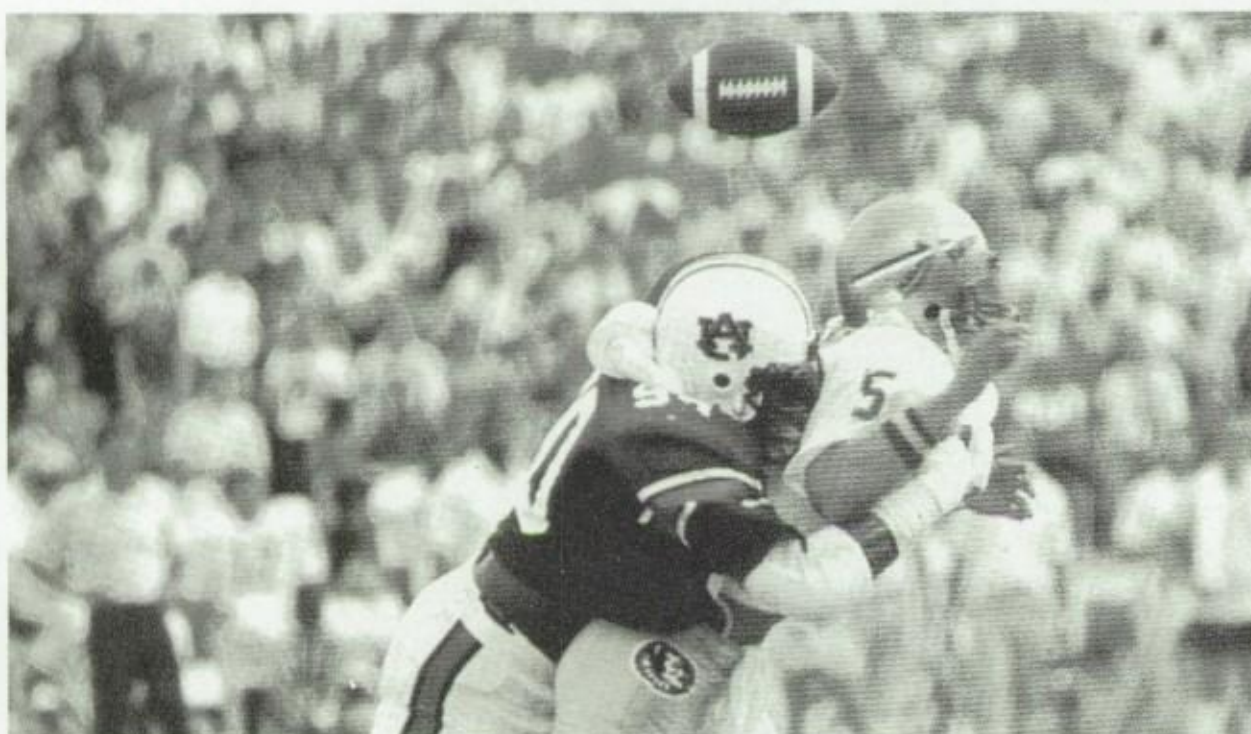

Practice . . . Competition . . . Reward . . .

The 1986 season was a bitter-sweet proposition for Alabama Crimson Tide football. An opening game victory over highly-rated Ohio State in the kick-off classic gave credence to the Tide's ambitions of a national championship. Impressive victories over Vanderbilt, Southern Mississippi, and Florida followed.

The Tide was 4-0 and ranked in the nation's top five as it prepared for Notre Dame. The tide quickly took charge and rolled to a surprisingly easy 28-10 win. One-sided victories over Memphis State and Tennessee followed, and Alabama carried a 7-0 record into its game with powerful Penn State. Inexplicably, Alabama's high-powered offense took the day off and Penn State departed Tuscaloosa with a solid 23-3 victory.

From this point Alabama's season turned mediocre as they won two more games but also lost two to SEC rivals LSU and Auburn. The season finished on an up note with a strong win over Washington in the Sun Bowl, but that elation was quickly tempered by the resignation of head coach Ray Perkins.

The Auburn Tigers began the 1986 football season as an unknown entity. There was ample talent on defense, but the offense faced opponents without Bo Jackson and without a proven quarterback.

"How good was Auburn?"

The Tigers quickly blasted their initial seven foes and found themselves ranked in the nation's top five as they travelled to Gainesville to play Florida. An inspired performance by Florida quarterback Kerwin Bell did the Tigers in. Dreams of an undefeated season were no more.

Auburn rebounded to beat Cincinnati but then lost to Georgia. The one game season remained — Alabama at legendary Legion Field in Birmingham. The underdog Tigers scored a last second victory over the Tide to finish the season at 9-2. Not too bad for a re-building year. "War Eagle!"

(See other stories in this section on Auburn Tiger football.)

Masterminding the Alabama offense, quarterback Mike Shula and Head Coach Ray Perkins demonstrated their success as they challenged Washington in the Sun Bowl.

Linebacker Brian Smith (90) destroys FSU'S offensive passing strategy.

Bobby Humphrey, a well known tailback from Birmingham, did not waste any time making a name for himself in the history books of Alabama.

Lawyer Tillman again shows his great athletic ability catching this touchdown pass against Georgia Tech.

Making his final Crimson Tide appearance in the Sun Bowl, Alabama's All American linebacker Cornelius Bennett, will be greatly missed by the Tide.

Sun Bowl

It was a great day for Bama fans everywhere. On December 25, Bama locked horns with Washington to do battle in El Paso, Texas. Bobby Humphrey dominated the game by gaining 106 yards rushing. He scored two touchdowns while Bama quarterback Mike Shula had one touchdown pass. Cornelius Bennett was named the Most Valuable Player. Score: Bama — 28, Washington — 6.

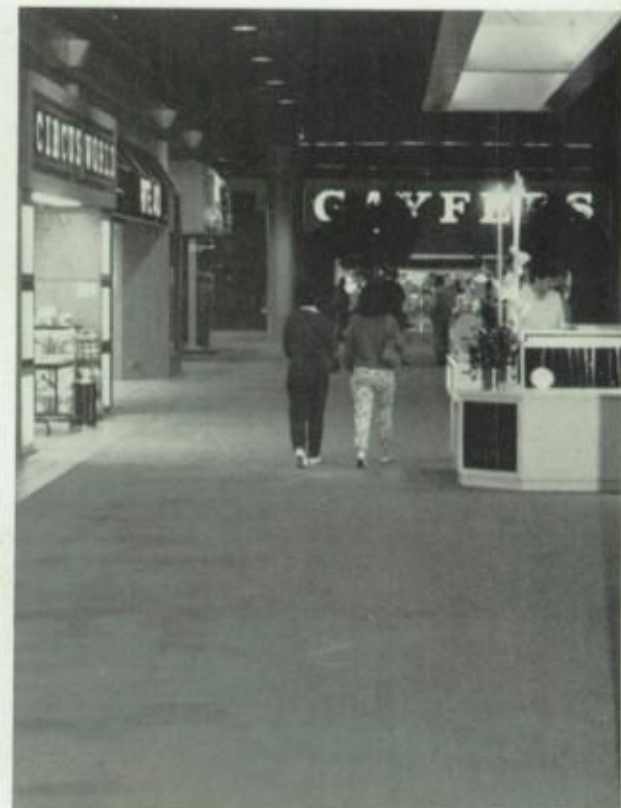

WIREGRASS COMMONS:

A new addition to the Dothan area this year was the Wiregrass Commons Mall. The mall was built by Jim Wilson, who also built the renowned Riverchase Galleria in Birmingham. Containing 106 specialty shops, three anchor department stores, eleven food shops, and two restaurants, Wiregrass Commons Mall brought a much needed boost to Dothan's economy. Besides providing a wide spectrum of variety shopping, Wiregrass Commons offered an entertaining past time for many people. Fashion shows, choirs, bands, charity balls, etc., were presented frequently and enjoyed by many.

In a very real sense Wiregrass Commons signaled the end of Dothan as a small town and its beginning as a thriving regional metropolis. When Wiregrass Commons opened its doors in the fall of 1986, Dothan became the shopping destination for residents of southeast Alabama, southwest Georgia, and northwest Florida. Hundreds of full and part time jobs were created in the mall and in businesses which were affected by the mall's presence.

In addition to the mall complex already in place, long range site plans call for the building of a luxury hotel, condominiums, and movie theatres.

It is obvious that Wiregrass Commons is prepared to grow with Dothan, a city of 50,000 people and blessed with three shopping malls, Northside, Porter Square, and Commons. These facilities combined with the presence of two regional medical centers has insured Dothan's progress into the next century.

A NEW STYLE FOR DOTHAN

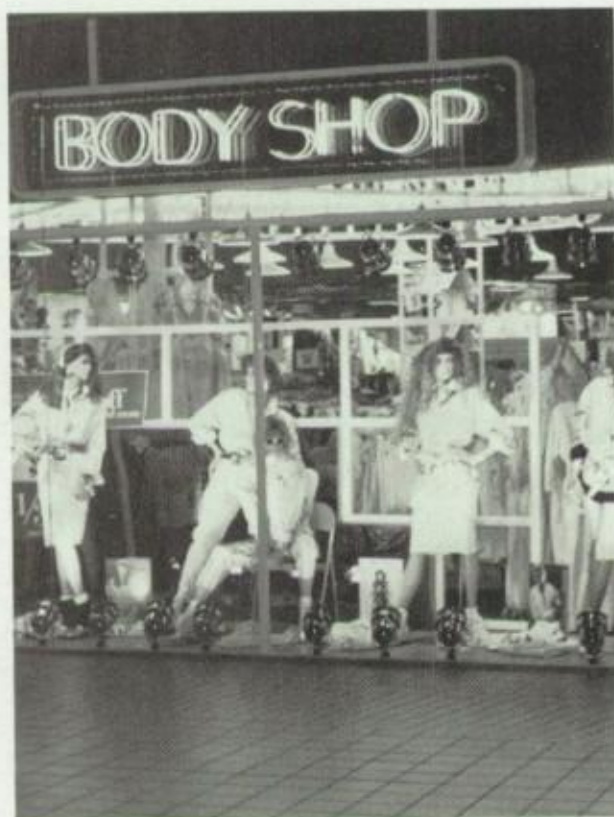

As all candy lovers know, the mall's unique candy store, Pinch or Pound offers 500 delicious varieties of sweet and salty snack items.

As another shopping night is ending, Michelle Daniels and Nancy Kelly run into Rave to buy one last item.

Bringing Dothan and the surrounding counties into the trend of the 80's is Wiregrass Commons, the newest mall of the deep south.

Awaiting the closing announcement from the mall office, Wendy Moore replenishes the empty racks with late stock arrivals.

What's New at N.H.S.?

A valuable addition to Northview is Mrs. Jane Folds. Even though her room is not located on the math hall, Mrs. Folds teaches mathematics on the seven hundred hall. Full of energy and youth, Mrs. Folds is enjoying her first year teaching at Northview. When asked about her favorite element at Northview, Mrs. Folds replied, "the students." Her least favorite things are the talkative students.

A graduate from Troy State, Mrs. Folds majored in math and biology. While at Headland High School, Mrs. Folds was a cheerleader, a member of the National Honor Society, and Girls' State.

Presently, Mrs. Folds occupies much of her time with her husband, Jimmy Folds, and their two little girls, Emily and Crisse.

Enthusiastic and hilarious are adequate descriptions of Mary Gary. Diverse in her teaching responsibilities, Mrs. Gary teaches special education English and American History. Northview is grateful for the worthwhile addition of Mrs. Gary to the Northview faculty.

As a cheerleader at Weaver High School, Mrs. Gary used her enthusiasm to its full potential. She attended St. Joseph College in West Hartford, Connecticut, where she majored in special education.

Mrs. Gary is excited about the excellent football program at Northview, however, the inadequate bell system leaves Mrs. Gary with frazzled nerves.

Her extra time is spent with her husband, James Gary. Monique and Lantye, Mrs. Gary's children, are also subjects of her lavish attention.

Salad Bar Debuts to Mixed Reviews

After months of waiting, Northview finally acquired one of the students' most wanted items: a salad bar. The bar was ordered at the end of the 85-86 school year and because of certain regulations, had to be custom made. On the day it opened curiosity reigned supreme: many students satisfied themselves by simply looking to see if it was really worth all the fuss. After a few weeks, administrators were threatening to close it down because of the enormous amount of clean-up involved. When asked about the salad bar, students' answers were as varied as the students themselves.

"I don't like salads." — Emily Wilkerson

"What salad bar?" — James Williams

"It's wonderful that we have a chance to eat something besides pizza." — Katrina Van Tassel

"I haven't tried it yet, but I looked at it — SCRUNGE-OLA!" — Beth Fairchild

"It's great when they put the right kind of food in. I like the tuna." — Malisa Henley

"It's a lot better than the plates, and it's a good improvement." — Terry O'Byrne

"I ate there once; it was okay." — Tracy Wynne

In 1987 Northview High got what they had been wanting for nine years — a parking lot in front of the gym. According to Coach Parrish, Northview has been campaigning for another parking lot since the school opened. Through persistence on the part of the coaches and others, construction began in December of 1986. Parrish said that the parking lot, which has 88 spaces, should alleviate the parking problem at Northview. He also said that it would be opened to athletes, solving the problem of having to walk to other parking lots after night practices. Along with the parking lot came a circular driveway enabling buses from visiting basketball teams to park much closer to the gym. As athletic director, Parrish was hopeful that the parking lot would raise the attendance at basketball games. Not only would athletes be using the parking lot but also teachers, band students, and students in general would be able to use the area. Along with the parking lot the track field was refurbished. Of the parking lot and track field, Parrish said, "It's the best thing to happen to Northview so far." He was looking forward to meeting his next challenge of getting Northview an auditorium.

Foreign languages are definite assets, but two foreign languages are even better. Mrs. Wanda Thomas teaches both French and Spanish at Northview High School. However, she is new to the faculty. With thirteen years of teaching experience, Mrs. Thomas is uniquely qualified.

Mrs. Thomas attended White Oak High School and later Auburn University where she majored in Espanol. She graduated from Auburn in 1972, and she has been teaching ever since.

School spirit is Mrs. Thomas' favorite thing around Northview High School. However, since Mrs. Thomas is new at N.H.S., she was unable to express her least favorite thing at Northview.

That cheerful new face at Northview is Mrs. Margaret L. Watson. Full of an exuberant vitality, Mrs. Watson dedicates all of her teaching ability to the general English classes at Northview.

Mrs. Watson attended Dothan High School where she graduated fourth in her class, was elected a class favorite, and served as the editor of the Scribbler, a literary magazine. Mrs. Watson chose the University of Alabama as the college she wanted to attend and received her master's degree in Counseling and Guidance at that institution.

Friendly and cooperative faculty and students are Mrs. Watson's favorite things at Northview.

When Mrs. Watson is not teaching, she spends time with her husband, Dr. Michael Watson, and her children Ben and Elizabeth.

Welcome to the Real World

The year in music was a year of varied tastes. Hot trends at Northview included a revival of country music led by Hank Williams, Junior, who was voted number one country artist by selected students at N.H.S. 1986 also saw a strong magnetism towards underground bands such as R.E.M. and The Violent Femmes. Hard rock was still a favorite, and Bon Jovi's "You Give Love a Bad Name" was voted the number one video of the year.

Friday Night Videos disagreed. They maintained that Whitney Houston's "The Greatest Love of All" was the greatest video of all.

Northview voted Whitney the best female singer, and "The Boss," Bruce Springsteen as the best male artist. Also making strong showings were Janet Jackson, Tina Turner, Genesis, and Robert Palmer.

There was also a big sixties revival, thanks to the movie "Stand By Me," and the return of the Drifters to Dothan. They performed to a sold out crowd of many students and teachers at the marvelous William Washington Supper Club.

The main trend at Northview this year in music was a break from tradition, showing that our students can be original people who refuse to be brainwashed by Kasey Kasem.

FREE FARE ARRIVES AT NHS

The musical group FREE FARE rocked N.H.S. on January 21 at an assembly, and on the 22 at a nighttime concert. The band was from St. Petersburg, Florida, where they were sponsored by Young American Showcase. The group included Chris on drums; Marty on keyboards; Darin, lead singer; Jeff on bass; Daryll, lead guitarist; and Jim, sound man and manager.

The band's number one goal was to share Christ with their audience, not to impress or influence them. In the daytime assembly, Marty Paoletta spoke frankly to the students on drugs and alcohol, while in the nighttime concert, he gave the band's personal testimony about Christ, followed by a song entitled "Heaven" written and composed by the band. Free Fare will be remembered for their enthusiasm and wit as they had "a lot of fun" on stage at N.H.S.

After The Long Wait . . .

and thundering drum roll, the announcement of the new Miss Dothan was made. Carla Hemby, a senior at Northview, was chosen by a panel of three judges as Miss Dothan 1986-87. She was crowned by outgoing queen, Carrie Johnson, a former N.H.S. student. With tears in her eyes and a smile on her face, Carla made her walk down the runway at the Civic Center.

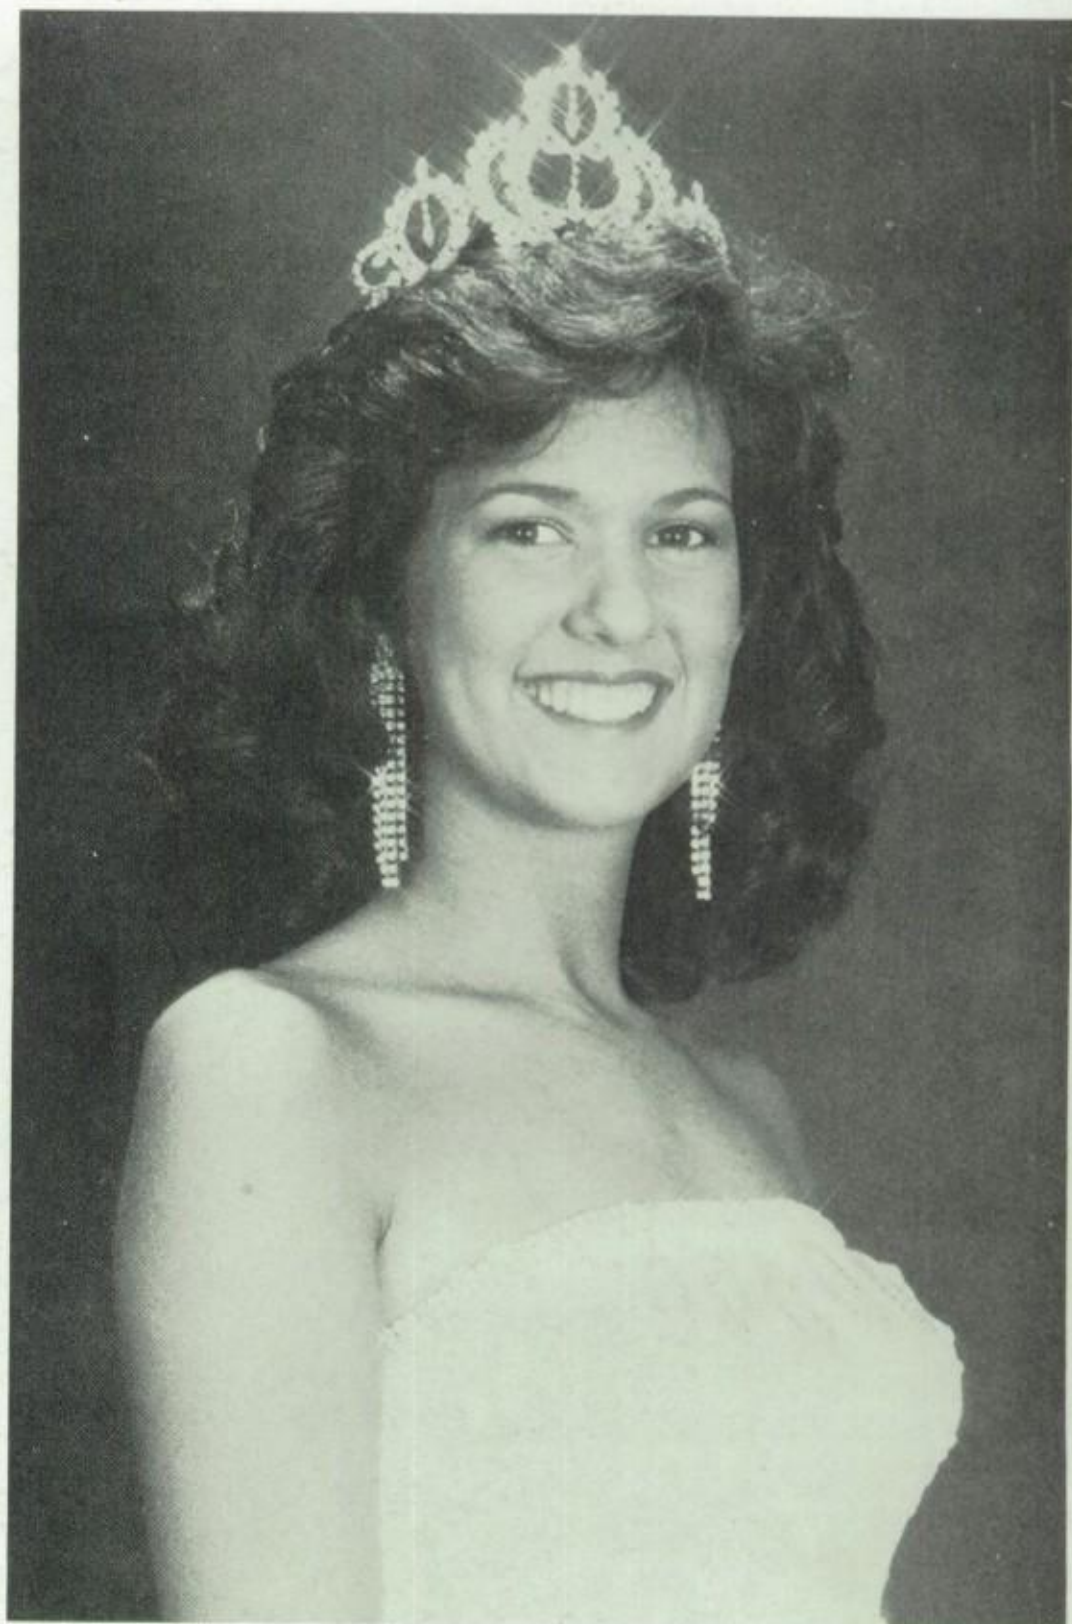

Carla began her reign on June 21, 1986. Since that evening her time has been filled with many exciting activities. She was given the thrill of cutting the ribbon of Wiregrass Commons Mall. She attended the WTVY season premiere celebration where she met Dack Rambo, an actor on Dallas. Another fun experience was attending the Christening of the Commons and drawing the winning ticket of a cruise.

During the month of October, Carla represented our city in the National Peanut Festival. She walked away as winner of two preliminaries — video taped interview competition and the evening gown event. She was chosen second runner-up and received a scholarship to the University of Alabama.

When asked what she liked the best about being Miss Dothan, she said, "representing my hometown and meeting a lot of nice people."

Northview is also proud to claim Amy West, the first runner-up in the Miss Dothan pageant. Camille Williams was chosen second runner-up while Claudia Dixon was selected as third runner-up. The fourth runner-up was Shahna Bragg. Capturing the title of Miss Congeniality was Collins Watford.

Winning the Houston County title and competing in the 30th annual Alabama Junior Miss, CiCi Cotton represented the city of Dothan, Houston County, and Northview with great spirit.

Looking for that all-around quality, the Junior Miss program is not a beauty pageant but a talent and scholastic achievement program which is sponsored by the Jaycees throughout the United States. Because few girls entered the local Junior Miss program, the Jaycees elected to have an at-large selection of the Houston County representative this year. Entrants sent in a photograph, a detailed application, and letters of recommendation. From this at-large entry CiCi was chosen to represent Houston County.

The state program was held on January 16 and 17 in Montgomery, and once again, Cici did an excellent job representing her home area. Her satirical skit of a two-telephone conversation with Charles Graddick on one phone and Bill Baxley on the other phone was indeed creative in comparison to other entrants.

The Junior Miss program will be a happy memory for CiCi to look back upon. However, she encourages rising senior girls to participate in the rewarding Junior Miss program in 1988. Cici plans to continue her education at Birmingham-Southern College and dreams of attending Georgetown to study law.

Best of Friends

Not everyone is as lucky as CiCi and her mother-teacher, Jacque Cotton, to have such a special and unique relationship. CiCi has had the privilege of having her mother around her at school during her four years at Northview. Everyone can relate because there are times at school when you wish your mother was nearby to run to. Reciprocal to this, Mrs. Cotton has been able to share CiCi's high school years as CiCi has matured into a lovely young lady.

Being around both CiCi and Mrs. Cotton is interesting because they are more like great friends than mother and daughter. There is a special bond between the two of them that not every mother and daughter experience. It is obvious that they love and respect one another, but there is a sense of comradeship as well.

Mrs. Cotton and CiCi also toured Europe together last spring break where they truly had a lasting memory together. From Brownie Troup leader to Biology teacher, Mrs. Cotton and her daughter continue their growing relationship! When talking to either of them, they will both quickly tell you they are lucky to have the other.

Unfortunately, after this school year closes and CiCi goes to college, we will not only lose her but her mother also. As plans are now, Mrs. Cotton will be moving to Tuscaloosa to live and start a new life. To Mrs. Cotton we say a tremendous thank you for not only being a wonderful teacher but for also being a wonderful friend to all students who were fortunate enough to have been in your classes for in you they found a knowledgeable teacher, a constant smile, and a friendly ear to listen to all our problems and dreams. We will miss you and CiCi!

Larry Mason

The questions of life. Can anyone answer them? An often asked question is, "Why do the good die young?" This question has been asked many times within the past year since the death of Larry Mason was announced.

Larry Mason, a sophomore at Northview, was killed in an automobile accident in Virginia this past summer. Although a quiet student, he was one to set an example for the rest of the students. Involved in Northview's athletics program, he was a positive asset to the football team. His peers commented highly on his dependability and his outstanding attitude in giving his most to the team.

It is with a great deal of regret and respect that the Spectrum staff dedicates this page to this fine young man.

NORTHVIEW AT ITS BEST

Surprised to see our yearbook photographer in her computer class, Amy Stevenson tries to duck away while she has the chance.

A much needed excursion was taken from Mr. Helms world history class, as a group of sophomore students broke the monotony with a toga party.

Liesel Wellman studies her new choral music intently while Cyndi Wilson counts the seconds till the bell rings.

Band members Aubrey Thomlin, Robyn Morris, and Mike Watkins take an afternoon break from their daily practice schedule.

Leigh Jernigan is quite eager to tell a playfully insulting friend where the door is.

Working for Junior Optimist is not so difficult; Paul Mayne exudes enthusiasm as he helps to raise money for the Arthritis Foundation.

Realizing AP History is quite difficult, Katie Laing deeply appreciates the help Mrs. Spivey so freely offers.

Working Students

School, Work, AND Play

"LIFE in The Fast Lane At Northview High"

To no other group is time as precious as it is to those students who combine studies, work, and the teenage social scene. This year nearly half of the students here at Northview survived this tiring but yet never boring daily lifestyle. Some students joined the various working clubs of Northview and left for work at 1:00. Other students chose to brave six classes a day and then go to work after school and on weekends.

We found students working in banks, office centers, food establishments, and retail stores. Not only do these jobs provide them with spending money, it teaches the student responsibility. These jobs provide an insight to what the real working world is like. They begin to learn that there is more to life than MTV and Burger King. Students are forced to learn to manage their time and money wisely. But who are we kidding? Jobs are not taken just for experience, they are taken for cash $ $ $ $ $.

Not accustomed to the unusually slow Tuesday evening, Carol Clemmons stands waiting for the arrival of a customer.

Kim Watkins and Jennifer Bell claim that they "usually" enjoy working together at Commercial Collections in downtown Dothan.

On a busy Monday afternoon Vickie Deese answers "another" questioning call to First Southern's Loan Department.

Inside Dothan's new candy store "Pinch or Pound," Wendy Watkins pauses for a customer's request.

Renee Terry finds working at Hallmark fulfilling and rewarding as she pauses from filing birthday cards.

Chris Parker enjoys his job because it gives him "cash for his weekend parties."

In Mrs. Hooks' Honors English 12 class Barry Steadman works for "bonus points" instead of cash.

Typing and doing other office work satisfies Wendy Harpe, as she does this daily at the Dothan Vocational Center office.

PREPARING FOR THE BIG EVENT

Senioritis, prom, and graduation take an active part in any senior's year. This year the N.H.S. seniors thought only of prom and graduation. Seniors participated in a garage sale, wrapping paper sales, selling of senior tee-shirts, and a long-awaited dance. With all the hard work put into raising money, the seniors were extremely enthusiastic for the highlight of their senior year — prom!

Graduation approached quickly and seniors found themselves nervous about the next few years of their lives. Though the seniors would leave Northview, they would not leave their fond memories of friends and surprisingly, Northview itself.

Through the Leadership of the student body officers, class officers, and homeroom representatives, Student Council truly represents the wishes of the students. Those elected representatives included the following students.

Senior representatives: Julia Beamon, Charles Buntin, Nicole Donnell, Kenneth Franks, Carla Hemby, Ross Jones, Ross Morris, Chris Parker, Berkley Shirah, Heather Sweeney, and Stacey Whitestone.

Junior representatives: Sharon Baxter, Jennifer Campbell, Kevin Donahoe, Greg Goldsborough, Jenny Hogan, Jennifer Jones, Will Lee, Stephanie Moreland, Jim Pike, Dana Rister, Janet Snell, Sam Tucker, and Elizabeth Wheat.

Sophomore representatives: Timothy Bonds, Richard Brice, Chris Cazenave, Will Dowling, Terrance Gibson, Stacey Hornsby, Walter Joyce, Carrie Maddox, Robyn Morris, Lisa Parks, Thomas Shipman, Rhonda Snell, Tracy Thompson, and Beth Welch.

Freshmen representatives: Samra Bass, Shelisa Buckley, Jerry Butler, Amy Davis, Teresa Franklin, Crystal Grimsley, Lara Ivey, Kevin Kraselsky, John McGowan, Zann Melton, Kim Price, Larry Reynolds, Chris Singletary, Tami Tindell, and Lotte Whatley.

Northview is privileged to have a strong and active student government program. This year, as always, they participated in various projects designed to benefit the school. The student representatives sponsored both the homecoming and Christmas dances this year in a major fund raising effort. Homeroom representatives sell football programs at all of the Cougars' home games. Student council members also attend a monthly meeting designed to let the students of Northview have a voice in school activities.

The student government officers are the leaders of Northview's student government and along with Patricia Granger, the sponsor, they coordinate the work of the council. This year's goal was to buy the student body a coin changer machine. Funds were raised through the sales of Cougar pins. Through the hard work of students interested in the betterment of Northview High School, the student government is making Northview a better place.

Student Council Officers for 1986 included president Carmen Strickland; vice-president Robin Dunseth; and secretary Keefer Cotton. All three worked enthusiastically to meet the demands of the students.

Patricia Granger glances over last minute arrangements which were set for their latest fund-raiser.

Charged with a crime . . .

Whether it be true or false, the charges have been brought." This is how Mr. Smith opened his speech to the 1987 honor court. This is definitely a misdemeanor of respectability. For those of you who are unaware of what an honor court is, it is made up of every senior with a 4.0 or above cumulative average. This year the court has twenty-four "criminals." The top two positions of the court are valedictorian and salutatorian. Of course, there are cases when there are tied positions, and there can be more than one valedictorian and salutatorian. The Honor Court sits on the stage at graduation ceremonies and is recognized for their academic achievements. This position as an Honor Court member is to be coveted by all. The 1987 honor court includes Cyndi Veale, Michelle Shiver, Stacey Whitestone, Stephanie Hayes, Staci Gashaw, Sherry Wood, CiCi Cotton, Melissa Minor, and Julia Holman. Standing: Kim Kellum, Rick Cazanave, Vince Edge, John Bridges, Mark Smith, Chuck Jackson, Michelle Krist, Kelly Hollis, Michelle Daniels, Lori Hoskins, Liesel Wellman, and Lynn Morey. Not available for picture was Teresa Jennings.

Alabama Decathlon

The Alabama State Academic Decathlon took place December 6, 1986, at Wallace Community College. It was a grueling ordeal subjecting six students from thirteen area schools to eight academic tests, a speech event, and an interview. The eight academic tests included mathematics, natural science, social studies, literature, fine arts, essay, economics, and a super quiz. Medals were given at the end of the day to individual winners in each event and trophies were presented to the overall school winners. It was a great day for great minds.

The day started at an ungodly hour (8:00 a.m.) for thinking, but the participants responded well to the pressure. The first half of the tests ended approximately 11:30, and the students ate lunch and kicked back for a little fun in the student center. The tests resumed after lunch in grand style, and once again, the students gave it their best effort. The tests ended around 4:00, and an hour later the awards' ceremony took place. It was pretty boring.

While Northview didn't win overall, several of the team members won individual awards. At the end of the day, everyone was exhausted. It had been quite a trial.

by Kenny Gamber

Among Northview's first competitors were Lisa Troutman, who took third place in social studies and science; Heath Hillsman, and Kenny Gamber, who captured first in math and third place in essay; Brad Rogers who was first place alternate, Scott Dunn, who placed second in science and social studies, and Greg Paxton, who placed second in fine arts and economics, along with Bo Devane and Web Drake, alternates, composed the Northview team. The coach for these scholastically inclined students was assistant principal, Crawford Drake. His great interest and dedication has touched the lives of these students as well as a great portion of the student body.

SALUTATORIAN

The honor of salutatorian is extremely gratifying to me, but it has a few minor drawbacks. Imagine first of all having to make a speech at graduation. Then, let all your friends hustle you to the brink of insanity; and finally, write an article about yourself late one night for the yearbook. It's enough to dull the tarnish on the achievement for me anyway. Now, if there's anyone still reading this, I guess I should tell you a little about myself.

My career plans at the moment are to go into dentistry and become an orthodontist. This is definitely not set in stone however. I like the math and sciences, so sorry Mrs. Hooks, English is out!

My college plans for next year are a little more clear. It is now February 11, and I still have not decided whether to go to Georgia Tech or Birmingham-Southern. I should know by the time yearbooks are printed so if you want to know my choice, ask me.

One serious note in closing. I would like to thank everyone that has been involved in my four years at Northview. This includes all of my teachers (even you Mrs. Snell), the administrators, and the guidance office personnel. I appreciate all that you've done for me over the years.

— Mark Hancher

VALEDICTORIAN

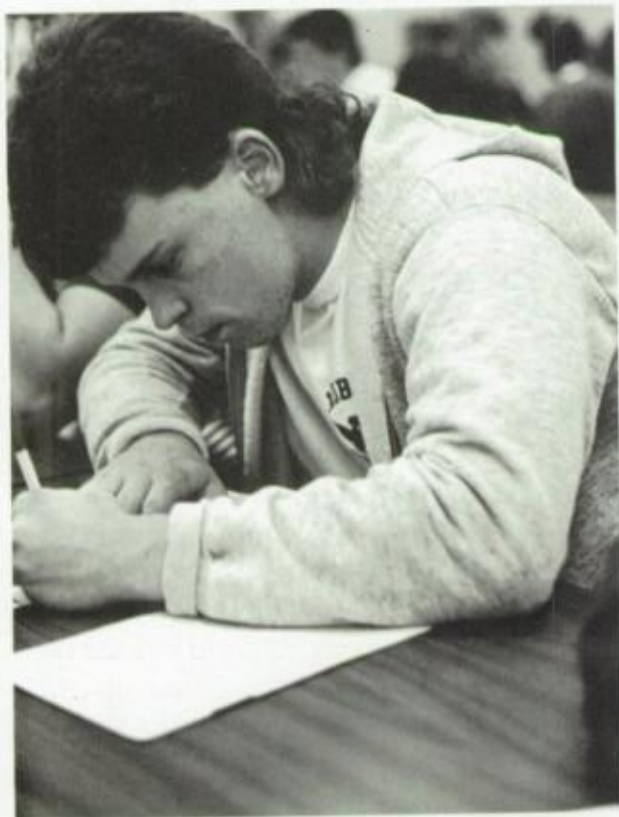

I have always wanted to be some sort of doctor. In elementary school I wanted to be a nurse. And when I reached the serious age of twelve, I decided to become a neurosurgeon. Oddly enough, it stuck with me until I was 17. I now realize I don't want another 12 to 14 years of writing papers. So, now I want to be a plastic surgeon. Sure it takes a long time, but not as long. Still, why would I want to spend even that much more time studying? Because I'm looking forward to the time when I won't have to work or worry about overspending on vacations. I want to retire when I'm 35 and spend the rest of my life as an adventurously vacationing spendthrift!

But the only way I know that I can achieve all of this is because of my desire to be totally, financially independent and my hard work.

I realized early that it takes good grades to go to college and medical school. So, I started working at it. At Northview I didn't have any problems with my work after I got to know the teacher. But, as you know, some of the teachers use a hard reputation as an enhancement that relates to the students as a scare tactic that works. It took me a little longer to get around those teachers! Needless to say, they were great teachers from whom I learned a lot. I'm actively looking forward to the final payment my hard work has earned. Bahamas, France, Ireland, Tahiti, Spain, Barbados, Hawaii . . .

— Felisha Whaley

THE CLASS OF 1987

As we look at our calendar and count each day,
We realize we have traveled a very long way.
Memories of grade school are growing quite dim,
Only bits of pieces — like a favorite film.
Color crayons, the playground, making a new friend;
And, yes, even those tears that only a teacher could mend.
ABC's and something called new math;
Whatever did we do to earn the devil's own wrath?
There was summertime with lazy days and a swimming pool.
But nothing could compare with those first days of school.
Then came a special era we called middle school,
Those memories remain oh so very clear;
Good times and bad times are forever dear.
Slumber parties, football games, dances in the gym,
Late night conversations over "her" and "him."
But finally we reached our destination,
High school days were started with great anticipation.
There are so many stops down this path of memory lane,
From the very first pep rally to that final football game.
So many special memories — where do we start?
We can see them with our eyes and feel them with their heart.
The maroon and gold colors that we wore with pride,
The Championship game with a win on our side.
The lockers, the halls, the parking lot,
The school spirit, sometimes hidden, but that we all have got.
Books, teachers, and even those tests.
And now we wonder, did we do our best?
Our yearbooks with pictures of each special friend,
Makes us aware of how soon it will end.
Graduation Day — it's a time to begin,
New worlds to conquer, new victories to win.
We have been taught well, we are filled with hope,
Success we can handle, with trials we can cope.
The long awaited hour is almost at hand,
Our last Alma Mater to be sung with the band.
A tear slowly forms as I lay down my pen,
So many memories, now buried deeply within.

— by Carla Hemby

After a hard day of studies, (two classes), Jonell Walsingham decided a nap was in order.

Trae Griffith is a fine example of a senior as he portrays his dedicated attitude toward school work.

During a senior assembly, Sonja Baxter shows her interest as she listens attentively to the cap and gown representative.

COLOPHON

During the preparation, photographing, and publication of the 1987 Spectrum, the staff and editors have accrued many indebtednesses which can only be repaid with a huge thank you and a sincere appreciation for all of the time, talent, and energies which you the students, faculty, and administration have shared with us. Without your cooperation and assistance, this edition of the yearbook would not have been possible.

From the Editors . . .

As we seal the last envelope to send to Dallas, Texas, a feeling of accomplishment overwhelms us. At last this yearbook is completed. As seniors, we reflect upon the years of long hours we invested in order to make the best book possible. At last the daily trek to the drama room seems worthwhile. As we welcome the rising staff, we hope they will experience the gratification of a job well done as we have.

We hope that you enjoy reading Symbols of the Northview Experience as much as we enjoyed putting it together. Thank you for your much needed help, patronage, and support which made this yearbook.

We would also like to thank Mr. Larry P. Williams for his patience, time, and efforts in the production of this book.
